"Your Majesty's Commissioners for building new churches beg leave humbly to represent to your Majesty, that, having taken into consideration all the circumstances of the district parish of Saint Peter, Pimlico, in the county of Middlesex, and within the diocese of London, it appears to them to be expedient, that a particular district should be assigned to the consecrated church of Saint Michael, situate in Chester-square, within the said district parish of Saint Peter, Pimlico, under the provisions contained in the sixteenth section of an Act, passed in the fifty-ninth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act, passed in the last session of Parliament, for building, and promoting the building, of additional churches in populous parishes," and that such district should be named, "the Chapelry District of Saint Michael, Chester-square;" and that the same should commence at the wooden bridge over the Grosvenor-canal, from which point it proceeds, in a north westerly direction, along the middle of the road, in front of Kemp's-row, as far as Avery Farm-row, up the middle of which it proceeds as far as Ebury-square, along the middle of the west side of which it proceeds to Little Ebury-street; it then proceeds, in a north westerly direction, along the middle of Little Ebury-street and Coleshill-street, until it enters the King's-road, along the middle of which it proceeds, in a north easterly direction, as far as
