AT the Court at Windsor, the 26th day of September 1846,

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the seventh and eighth years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to amend the law respecting the "office of county coroner," it is enacted, that when and as often as it shall seem expedient to the justices of any county that such county should be divided into two or more districts for the purposes of that Act, or that any alteration should be made of any division theretofore made under that Act, it should be lawful for the said justices, in general or quarter sessions assembled, to resolve that a petition should be presented to Her Majesty, praying that such division or alteration be made, and thereupon to adjourn the further consideration of such petition until notice thereof be given to the coroner or coroners of such county as thereafter provided; and it is thereby further enacted, that the clerk of the peace should give notice of any such resolution to every coroner for such county, and of the time when the petition would be taken by the said justices into consideration, and the justices should confer with every such coroner who should attend the meeting of the justices for that purpose touching such petition, having due regard to the size and nature of each proposed district, the number of the inhabitants, the nature of their employments, and such other circumstances as should appear to the justices fit to be considered in carrying into execution the provisions of that Act, and such petition, with a description of the several proposed districts, and of the boundaries thereof, with the reasons upon which the petition is founded, should be certified to Her Majesty, under the hands and seals of two or more justices present when such petition should be agreed to, and the clerk of the peace for such county should forthwith give or send a true copy of such petition, certified under his hand, to every coroner for such county; and it is thereby further enacted, that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, if she should think fit, with the advice of Her Privy Council, after taking into consideration any such petition, and also any petition which might be presented to Her by any coroner of the same county concerning such proposed division or alteration, or whenever it should seem fit to Her Majesty to direct the issue of a writ de coronatore eligendo, for the purpose of authorizing the election of an additional coroner above the number who had been theretofore customarily elected to such county, to order that such county should be divided into such and so many districts, for the purposes of that Act, as to Her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, should seem expedient, and to give a name to each of such districts, and to determine at what place within each district the court for the election of coroner for such district should be holden, as thereafter provided, and every such Order should be published in the London Gazette; and whereas the justices of the peace of the county of Devon, assembled in quarter sessions on the day of one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, did resolve that an humble petition should be presented to Her Majesty, praying for such division or alteration as thereafter mentioned, and did adjourn the further consideration thereof until the quarter sessions held on the day of one thousand eight hundred and forty-six; and whereas due notice of such resolution and adjournment, and of the time when such petition would be taken into consideration, was duly given by the clerk of the peace of the said county to every coroner of the said county; and whereas on the day of pursuant to the said adjournment, the several coroners of the said county did attend and confer with the justices of the said county; and whereas the said justices did afterwards present to Her Majesty their petition, certified under the hands and seals of three of the justices present when the said petition was agreed to, representing, that at the quarter sessions of the peace held for the said county of Devon on the day of one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, Her Majesty's said justices of the peace then and there assembled passed the following resolution, "that by an Act, passed in the seventh and eight years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled 'An Act to amend the law respecting the office of county coroner,' it is enacted, that when it should seem expedient to the justices of any county that such county should be divided into two or more districts for the purposes of that Act, or that any alteration should be made of any division theretofore made under that Act, it should be lawful for the said justices, in general or quarter sessions assembled, to resolve that a petition should be presented to your Majesty, praying that such division or alteration be made, and thereupon to adjourn the further consideration of such petition until notice thereof should be given to the coroners of such county, as thereafter provided; that the clerk of the peace should give notice of any such resolution to every coroner for such county, and of the time when the petition would be taken by the said justices into consideration, and the justices should confer with every such coroner who should attend the meeting of the justices for that purpose touching such petition, having due regard to the size and nature of each proposed district, the number of the inhabitants, the nature of their employments, and such other circumstances as should appear to the justices fit to be considered in carrying into execution the provisions of that Act, and such petition, with a description of the several proposed districts, and of the boundaries thereof, with the reasons upon which the petition is founded, should be certified to your Majesty, under the hands and seals of two or more of the justices present when such petition should be agreed to, and the clerk of the peace for such county should forthwith give or send a true copy of such petition, certified under his hand, to every coroner for such county; and it is further enacted, that it shall be lawful to your Majesty, if your Majesty shall think fit, with the advice of your Privy Council, after taking into consideration any such petition, and also any petition which might be presented by any coroner of such county, concerning any such proposed division or alteration, to order that such county shall be divided into such and so many districts, for the purposes of that Act, as to your Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, should seem expedient, and to give a name to each of such districts, and to determine at what place within each district the court for the election of coroner for such district shall be holden, as therein provided, and every such Order should be published in the London Gazette; that it did seem expedient to the justices of the peace for the county of Devon, assembled at their Michaelmas sessions, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, acting under the powers and provisions of the said Act of Parliament, and taking into consideration all the circumstances appearing to them fit to be considered in carrying into execution the provisions of the said Act, that for the more convenient election of the coroners, and for the better enabling them to discharge their duties, the said county of Devon should be divided into the six districts hereinafter mentioned, for the purposes of that Act, and they did thereupon resolve, that a petition should be presented to Her Majesty, praying that such division should be made, and they thereupon adjourned the further consideration of such petition until notice thereof should be given to the coroners for the said county, which notice they directed to be given by the clerk of the peace; that such notice was duly given to the coroners, and of the time when the petition would be taken into consideration, and the justices having conferred with the coroners who attended the meeting of the justices for that purpose, touching the said petition, and having duly considered some objections which were made by the said coroners, the said justices of the peace, in the quarter sessions assembled, now humbly pray your Majesty, that for the reasons aforesaid, the county of Devon may be divided for the purposes of the said Act into the said six districts, each of which said districts to comprize the whole of the several parishes specified under such district in the schedule thereunder written, and that the name of each of such district be the name set forth in the said schedule, and that the place within each district in which the court for the election of a coroner for such district be as hereinafter named, that is to say, for the first division, the town of Honiton; for the second division, the town of Crediton; for the third division, the town of Barnstaple; for the fourth division, the town of Okehampton; for the fifth division, the town of Devonport; and for the sixth division, the town of Totnes, all in the said county of Devon; and that said justices further represented, that the said six districts, mentioned in the said schedule, should be called by the respective and several names following, that is to say, No. 1, to be called the Honiton District, and comprising the following parishes, that is to say, Awliscombe, Buckereil, Clayhidon, Churchstanton, Culmstock, Dunkeswell, Hemiock, Axminster, Axmouth, Seaton and Beer, Colyton, Combyne, Kilmington, Membury, Musbury, Shute, Uplyme, Uffculme, Kentisbeer, Sowton, Dalwood, Stockland, Combrawleigh, Honiton, Luppitt, Upottery, Yacombe, Branscombe, Broadhembury, Cotleigh, Farway, Gittisham, Monkton, Northleigh, Offwell, Sheldon, Southleigh, Widworthy, Ottery Saint Mary,
