I, the Chairman, do hereby adjourn this Meeting to Tuesday the 25th day of January instant, at twelve o'clock at noon precisely, at the Guildhall Coffee-house aforesaid, a sufficient number of votes not having been recorded.

Sam. B. Barnett.

At the Guildhall Coffee-house, King-street, Cheapside, in the city of London, the 25th day of January 1848.

At an adjourned Meeting of the Shareholders of the Direct London and Exeter Railway Company, twice duly advertised in three London daily newspapers, that is to say, the Times, the Morning Herald, and Daily News, here held, pursuant to the provisions of the before-mentioned Act of Parliament, for the purpose of determining if the said Company shall be dissolved, when Samuel Boyd Barnett, of Wimpole-street, in the county of Middlesex, Esquire, M. D. the Chairman at the original Meeting, resumed the chair.

The proposal put at the original Meeting, that this Company be now dissolved, was read from the chair, and the Shareholders present, who had not voted at the original Meeting, were requested to record their votes either in favor or in opposition thereto; the further proposal also put at the original Meeting, that the resolution to dissolve the Company be taken to be an act of bankruptcy, was read from the chair, and the Shareholders present were to vote thereon.

The Scrutineers appointed to take the votes at the original Meeting, and present at this Meeting, certified, that parties representing 3465 Shares, in respect of which votes were not recorded at the former Meeting, were present, and recorded their votes in respect of such Shares in favour of the said last-mentioned resolution, which, being added to the 4665 Shares represented by parties who voted at the original Meeting, make a total of 8130 Shares represented by parties who at the original and this Meeting were in favour of the dissolution of the Company; and that such resolution be decided to be an act of bankruptcy; that no other vote was tendered by any party, whereupon the Chairman declared both resolutions to be passed, but before dissolving the Meeting, put the following questions:

Whether the Gentlemen having handed in the Shares at this Meeting, testify their intention of voting for the dissolution of the Company, which said resolution was carried.

Then whether there is any Gentleman present, who wishes to vote against the dissolution of the Company, when no person voted thereon.

Then whether those Gentlemen who voted for the dissolution of the Company are willing to decide, that such resolution shall be taken to be an act of bankruptcy, which said resolution was carried.

Then whether any Gentleman present wishes to vote against such resolution to dissolve being taken to be an act of bankruptcy, when no person voted thereon.

Sam. B. Barnett, Chairman.
