

provement Commissioners to raise further sums of money, by way of mortgage of the tonnage rates, or otherwise, for the placing of additional moorings, and to make provision with respect to the sums of money borrowed and now owing under the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Port Act, 1845, or expended for the purposes of such Act. To repeal so much of the River Tyne Improvement Act, 1850, as prevents the appointment of constables without the consent of the River Watch Committee. To continue the existing tonnage rate granted by the said Newcastle-upon-Tyne Port Act, 1845. To authorize the justices of the peace acting for the counties or boroughs upon the shores of the river to exercise jurisdiction over the river, and to make further provision for the prosecution, confinement, and conviction, in the counties and places adjoining the river, as well as in the borough and county of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, of persons committing offences upon the river. To repeal all or some of the powers and provisions of the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Port Act, 1845, and in lieu thereof to grant further and more effectual powers to the Tyne Improvement Commissioners for effecting the several purposes hereinbefore specified, or to consolidate into one Act the provisions of such Act, and of the River Tyne Improvement Act, 1850.

And notice is hereby further given, that it is intended, by the said intended Bill, to alter, amend, and enlarge some of the powers and provisions of an Act, passed in the 13th and 14th years of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the improvement and regulation of the river Tyne, and the navigation thereof, and for other purposes," and to alter and amend such other Acts of Parliament, and also such charters and grants, and to alter or extinguish such rights and privileges, or exemptions from rates and duties, as may interfere, or be inconsistent with the provisions of the proposed Bill, and the objects hereinbefore specified.

Dated this third day of November 1851.
