

James Oliff, from the land of Mr. Thomas Furnivall, unto the termination of such hedge; thence seventy-seven yards in a direction nearly southward along the hedge on the east side of the said fields, belonging to the said James Oliff, to, and thence ninety-nine yards in a direction nearly east along, a hedge separating two fields, both the property of the said Thomas Furnivall, to a lane called Blind-lane; thence two hundred and nine yards in a southward direction along such lane, called Blind-lane, to Prestwood Common; thence ninety-nine yards in a direction nearly south-east, along the north-east side of such common, to the land belonging to Mr. William Crouch; thence one hundred and forty-three yards in a direction nearly east, along the fence separating the land belonging to Mr. Joseph Honnor from the said land and the premises belonging to the said William Crouch; thence eighty-eight yards from the north-east corner of the said land belonging to the said William Crouch, and in the same, or nearly the same, direction along the backs of the row of houses belonging to Mr. James Nash, to the gate at the junction of Martin's End-lane with Prestwood Common; thence one hundred and eighty-seven yards along the east side of that part of Prestwood Common called Town Stile, in a southwardly direction, to the junction of the parish road leading past Anlow's Farm homestead, belonging to Mr. Joseph Honnor, with Green-lane; thence three furlongs and one hundred and thirty-two yards along such parish road, in an easterly direction, close to, but on the north side of, the homestead of such farm, to the hedge separating fields belonging to Mr. Thomas Stevens, and which hedge is two hundred and nine yards beyond the extremity next such parish road of the land belonging to Anlow's Farm, on the south side of such road; thence in a southwardly direction and in nearly a straight line one furlong and one hundred and forty-three yards along such last-mentioned hedge, and along the hedge on the east side of a wood, called Atkin's Wood, late the property of the late Mr. Thomas Ives, but now of Miss Ann Daniel, to a lane called Hobb's Hill-lane; thence one hundred and twenty-one yards in a south-westwardly direction, and three furlongs and eighty-eight yards in a southwardly direction along such lane to Prestwood Common; thence in a south-westwardly direction one hundred and forty-three yards along the south-east side of Prestwood Common to the homestead of Nearwood Farm; thence in a direction south-east thirty-three yards, south-west sixteen yards, north-west sixteen yards, south-west one hundred and thirty-two yards, and north-west twenty-two yards, so as to include Nearwood Farm homestead and garden to Prestwood Common; thence in a south-west direction one furlong and thirty-three yards along the south-east side of such common, and along the road leading from such common past Peterley House, to the part of such road opposite the entrance gates to Peterley House; thence in a south-eastwardly direction four furlongs along the road opposite Peterley House, to and leading from such last-mentioned road, along the fields, to its junction with the road leading from Wycombe Heath to Little Kingshill; thence four furlongs and two hundred and ten yards along such last-mentioned road in a south-westwardly direction, and along the north-west side of the part of Wycombe Heath in the parish of Great Missenden, and including the house and orchard of Mr. James Nash, on Wycombe Heath, opposite the White Horse Public-house there, to Cockpit Hole; thence westward one furlong and one hundred and fifty-four yards along the road on the north side of the pond at Cockpit Hole, to Great Kingshill Common, and from the junction of such last-mentioned road with such last-mentioned common, in a south-west direction, and in a straight line, two furlongs and one hundred and thirty-two yards diagonally across such common, and passing to the south-east side of a pond on the south-west side of such last-mentioned common, to a hedge on the south-east side of a meadow belonging to Mr. William Nash; thence south-westward one hundred and four yards along such hedge to the other side of such meadow; thence one hundred and ten yards north-westward along the hedge on the south-west side of such meadow, to a piece of land belonging to Martin Janes; thence westward, or nearly westward, eighty-eight yards along the hedge on the south side of such last-mentioned piece of land to the end thereof; thence in nearly a straight line eighty-eight yards, nearly northward along the hedge on the west side of such last-mentioned piece of land and a piece of land adjoining such last-mentioned piece of land on the north, also belonging to the said Martin Janes, and across land now or late belonging to Richard Tilbury, and along the hedge at the west end of a piece of land belonging to Mr. Richard Janes to the lane there leading from Great Kingshill Common aforesaid to Piper's Corner Farm; thence in a north-eastwardly direction thirty-three yards along such lane to Great Kingshill Common aforesaid, and sixty yards along the north-west side of such common to the south corner of a field adjoining such common, belonging to John Staple Ive, Esquire; thence in a north-west direction one hundred and four yards along the hedge on the south-west, and in a north-eastwardly direction two hundred and nine yards along the hedge on the north-west side of such field and other land adjoining, also belonging to the said John Staple Ive, to a lane there called Hatches-lane; thence one hundred and fifty-four yards along such lane north-westward to the south-west corner of a meadow belonging to the farm called Hatches Farm, the property of the said devisees of the said late earl; thence in a direction nearly north-east ninety-nine yards along the hedge on the north-west side of such meadow to a field adjoining thereto, and also belonging to the said farm; thence north-westward one hundred and ten yards along the hedge on part of the south-west side of such last-mentioned adjoining field, and north-east one hundred and seventy-six yards along the hedge on the north-west side of the same field, and passing part of the west end of the land belonging to the Wycombe poor, to the land belonging to Fry's Farm, the property of Francis Sewell Cole, Esquire; thence four furlongs and one hundred and sixty-five yards along the south and west boundary of such farm, called Fry's Farm, and the plantation and woodland belonging thereto, to the road leading from Chipping Wycombe to Great Hampden; thence one hundred and four yards along such last-mentioned road northward to the boundary fence between the farm called the Warren Farm, the property of Thomas Tyrwhitt Drake, Esquire, and the farm called New House Farm, late the property of the late Mr. Thomas Ives, joining such road; thence four furlongs in a westwardly direction along such last-mentioned boundary fence to the part where such boundary fence joins the lane leading from such last-mentioned road to Bryant's Bottom; thence nearly northward one mile and sixty-six yards along such lane, and along the hedge on the west side of Denner Hill Common, to the extremity of the parish of Hughenden there; thence first eastward, then northward, and then north-eastward, by the boundary lines between the parishes of Hughenden and Monks Risborough, and Hughenden and