In the affairs of the late William Crowder.

WHEREAS William Crowder, late of the city of Lincoln, Gentleman, deceased, by his will, bearing date the 27th day of November 1842, devised and bequeathed unto Thomas Spink, then of Sturton, in the county of Lincoln, Farmer, since deceased, and me, the undersigned, Joseph Wheatley, of Saxilby, in the said county of Lincoln, Innkeeper, his real and residuary personal estate, upon trust (subject to prior trusts, all of which are now satisfied), to divide the monies arising from the sale and conversion thereof respectively, equally amongst six legatees, in the said will named; and the said testator, after stating that John Carratt, one of the said legatees, and one of the sons of his sister, Mary Carratt, was then abroad, and could not legally return before the expiration of seven years or thereabouts, from the date of the said will, declared that if the said John Carratt should not, at the expiration of ten years from the date of the said will, claim his legacy and interest thereunder, that then (the trustees or trustee thereof having first advertised a notice in the London Gazette and Stamford Mercury Newspaper of the interest of the said John Carratt under the said will, in the manner therein specified) the amount thereof should, to the entire exclusion of the said John Carratt and his representatives from any participation in the division, be divided between the several persons in the said will mentioned.

Now, therefore, I, the said Joseph Wheatley, as the surviving trustee of the will of the said William Crowder, deceased, and in compliance with the requirements thereof, hereby give notice, that I retain in my hands, to be paid to the said John Carratt, on his applying for the same within ten years from the date of the said will, a sum of money equal to the amount of his interest under the said will, and that should he fail to claim payment thereof within that period, I shall, at the expiration thereof, proceed to dispose of the same, pursuant to the directions of the said William Crowder, in his said will contained.—Dated this 1st day of October 1852.
