FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1862.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, May 8, 1862.

OTICE is hereby given, that The Queen will this year hold no Levees or Drawing Rooms.

For the convenience of Ladies and Gentlemen going abroad, and who may wish to attend Foreign Courts, Her Majesty has been pleased to permit the Lord Chamberlain to give Certificates of Presentation to Ladies and Gentlemen who would, had circumstances permitted, have been presented according to the usual Regulations to Her Majesty.

A Lady or Gentleman desiring such a Certificate must apply by letter to the Lord Chamberlain, in order that it may be submitted for Her Majesty's Approval. This letter must be accompanied by a letter from a Lady or Gentlemen who has been presented to The Queen, stating that the applicant is going abroad, and that, had circumstances permitted, the writer would have attended Court, and presented the applicant to Her Majesty.

Whitehall, May 8, 1862.

THE following Address of Condolence on the occasion of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, which has been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been laid before the Queen by Sir George Grey, and has been received very graciously by Her Majesty:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lieutenant-Governor, Council, Deemsters, and Keys of the Isle of Man, in Tynwald assembled, with the deepest sentiments of duty and affection towards your Throne and Person, humbly beg leave to express our sincere and heartfelt condolence in the sad and irreparable bereavement with which it has pleased the Almighty Disposer of all human events to visit your Majesty and your Royal Children, by the Death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

We feel assured that in no part of your Majesty and

We feel assured that in no part of your Majesty's dominions has the loss of that great and good Prince been more deeply lamented than by the small, but ancient and ever-loyal nation which we have now the honour to represent; but, while we mourn the sad event, it is no small source of consolation to feel that the wise and judicious counsels of so good, noble, and virtuous a Father will, for generations to come, shine forth in the wisdom and illustrious deeds of his Royal Descendants.

We earnestly pray that your Majesty and your Royal Family may continue to be sustained and comforted under this severe bereavement, and that He who in His wisdom has afflicted, may, with Divine strength and support, enable your Majesty long to govern these kingdoms with that justice and mercy with which your reign has ever been distinguished.
