*Board of Trade, Whitehall,
August 27, 1866.*

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the following translation of a Public Act, and its Annexes, signed at Galatz by the European Commission of the Danube, on the 2nd November, 1865, in substitution for the translation which appeared in the London Gazette of the 24th April last.

PUBLIC ACT relative to the Navigation of the Mouths of the Danube.

AN European Commission having been instituted by Art. 16 of the Treaty of Paris of 30th March, 1856, in order to put the part of the Danube lying below Isaktcha, its mouths, and the neighbouring parts of the sea, in the best possible conditions of navigability:

And the said Commission acting in virtue of this mandate, having succeeded, after nine years' work, in realizing important improvements in the system of navigation—notably, by the construction of two piers at the mouth of the Sulina Branch, which have had the effect of admitting into this embouchure vessels of a large draught of water—by the execution of works of correction and cleansing in the course of the same branch—by raising wrecks, and establishing a system of buoys—by the erection of a lighthouse at the mouth of the St. George—by the institution of a regular lifeboat service, and by the creation of a seamen's hospital at Sulina—lastly, by the provisional regulation of the different services connected with the navigation between Isaktcha and the sea:

The Powers who signed the said Treaty concluded at Paris on the 30th March, 1856, desiring to make known, that in thus accomplishing an essential part of its task, the European Commission has acted in conformity with their intentions, and wishing to determine, by a Public Act, the rights and obligations which the new state of things established on the Lower Danube has created for the different parties interested, and particularly for all the Flags navigating the river, have named for their Plenipotentiaries; that is to say:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, John Stokes, Esq., Major in the Corps of Royal Engineers, decorated with the Imperial Order of the Medjidié of the Fourth Class, &c. &c.

His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, King of Hungary and Bohemia, the Sieur Alfred Chevalier de Kremer, his Consul for the Course of the Lower Danube, decorated with the Imperial Order of the Medjidié of the Fourth Class.

His Majesty the Emperor of the French, the Sieur Edward Engelhardt, his Consul of the First Class, Knight of the Imperial Order of the Legion of Honour.

His Majesty the King of Italy, the Sieur Hannibal Chevalier Strambio, his Political Agent and Consul-General in the United Principalities, Commander of his Order of Saint Maurice and Saint Lazarus.

His Majesty the King of Prussia, the Sieur Julius Alexander Aloyse Saint Pierre, Knight of his Order of the Red Eagle of the Third Class, with the knot of the Order of the Danebrog of Denmark, Officer of the Royal Order of Leopold of Belgium, decorated with the Imperial Order of Saint Ann of Russia of the Second Class, Commander of the Order of Albert of Royal Saxony of the Second Class, and of the Order of the House of Ernest of Saxony, his Councillor of Legation, his Political Agent and Consul-General in the United Principalities.

His Majesty the Emperor of All the Russias, the Sieur Henry Baron d'Offenberg, his Councillor of State and Consul-General in the United Principalities, Knight of the Order of Saint Wladimir of the Third Class, of Saint Ann and of Saint Stanislaus of the Second Class, Knight of Saint John of Jerusalem, and of several foreign Orders.

His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, Ahmet Rassim Pasha, Officer of the Rank of Mirimiran, his Governor of the Province of Teultcha, decorated with the Imperial Order of the Medjidié of the Third Class.

Who, after having shown their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following provisions.

PART I.

Provisions relating to the Material Conditions of the Navigation.

Art. 1.

All the works and establishments created in execution of Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris of 30th March, 1856, with all belonging to or depending from them, shall continue to be devoted exclusively to the use of the navigation of the Danube, and can never be turned aside from this object for any motive whatever; to this end they are placed under the guarantee and protection of international law.

The European Commission of the Danube, or the Authority which shall of right take its place, shall continue charged, to the exclusion of all interference whatever, to administer these works and establishments for the advantage of the navigation, to watch over their maintenance and preservation, and to give to them all the development that the requirements of the navigation may demand.

Art. 2.

There shall be specially reserved to the European Commission, or to the Authority that shall succeed it, the power to design and cause to be carried out all the works that may be deemed necessary, in the event of its being wished to render permanent the improvements, until now of a temporary character, in the branch and at the mouth of the Sulina, and to prolong the piers at this mouth according as the state of the Bar Channel may require it.

Art. 3.

There will remain reserved to the said European Commission to undertake the improvement of the mouth and branch of the St. George resolved on by common agreement and simply postponed for the present.

Art. 4.

The Sublime Porte engages for the future, as hitherto, to lend to the European Commission, or to the Authority which shall succeed it, all the assistance and all the co-operation which either may require in the execution of engineering works, and, generally, in all that concerns the accomplishment of its task. It will take care that the banks of the Danube from Isaktcha to the sea remain free from all buildings, private rights of way, and other obstacles whatsoever, and it will continue, under reserve of the annual rent to which landed property is subject in Turkey, to leave at the disposal of the Commission, in the Port of Sulina, the left bank of the river for a distance of 760 metres up stream, measured from the root of the North Pier, and for a width of 150 metres, measured from the bank.

It consents moreover to grant a fitting site on the right bank of the river for the buildings which the Commission, or the Authority that shall succeed it, may think fit to erect for the service of the Port of Sulina, for the Seaman's Hospital, and for the other requirements of the Administration.

Art. 5.

In the event of the Commission making use of the reserve mentioned in Article 3, concerning the improvement of the mouth and branch of St. George, the Sublime Porte consents that the said Commission may dispose, as soon as there shall be need of them, of the ground and sites belonging to the State Domain, which shall have been previously designed, and determined upon as necessary, both for the construction of works, and for the formation of the establishments which will have to be created in consequence of, or as a complement to, this improvement.

Art. 6.

It is understood—that on neither bank of the river, either in the Port of Sulina or St. George, shall there be constructed either by the territorial Authorities, by commercial or navigation companies, or by private individuals, any landing jetties, quays, or other establishments of the same nature, of which the plans have not been communicated to the European Commission and recognized as being in conformity with the general plan of the quays and as tending in nowise to compromise the effect of the works of improvement.

PART II.

Provisions relating to the Administrative Control of the Navigation.

§ 1.

OF REGULATIONS IN GENERAL.

Art. 7.

The navigation of the mouths of the Danube is governed by the "Regulation of Navigation and Police" enacted by the European Commission under date of this day, and which, annexed under letter A to the present Act, is to have the same force and value as if it formed part of it.

It is understood that this regulation is binding as law, not only in what concerns the River Police but also for the judgment of cases of civil procedure arising from the exercise of the navigation.

Art. 8.

The exercise of the navigation on the Lower Danube is placed under the authority and the superintendence of the Inspector-General of the Lower Danube, and of the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

These two Agents, named by the Sublime Porte, shall conform all their acts to the regulation, the application of which is confided to them, and to the strict observance of which they shall be sworn. The sentences emanating from their authority shall be pronounced in the name of His Majesty the Sultan.

In case the European Commission, or the permanent Riverain Commission shall establish that a delinquency or offence has been committed by one or other of the said Agents against the regulation of navigation and police, it will request his dismissal from the Sublime Porte. If the Sublime Porte thinks it necessary to proceed to a fresh inquiry into the facts already established by the Commission, the latter will have the right to attend it by the medium of a Delegate, and when the culpability of the accused shall have been duly proved, the Sublime Porte will provide without delay for his being replaced.

Except in the case, provided for by the preceding paragraph, the Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Sulina can only be removed from their respective posts at their own request, or in consequence of an agreement between the Sublime Porte, and the European Commission.

These Agents will thus both act under the superintendence of the European Commission.

The Inspector-General, the Captains of the Ports of Sulina, and Toulteha, and the Superintendents (subordinate to the Inspector-General), shall be paid by the Ottoman Government.

They shall be chosen from among competent persons.

Art. 9.

In virtue of the principles of the Act of the Congress of Vienna confirmed by Article 15 of the Treaty of Paris, the authority of the Inspector-General and of the Captain of the Port of Sulina is exercised towards all flags without distinction.

The Inspector-General is specially set over the police of the river below Isaktcha, exclusive of the Port of Sulina; he is assisted by Superintendents distributed over the different sections of the river within this jurisdiction.

The Captain of the Port of Sulina is charged with the police of the Port, and outer roadstead of Sulina.

A special instruction, determined by common agreement, regulates in its details the action of the Inspector-General and that of the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

Art. 10.

Merchant Captains, to whatever nationality they belong are bound to obey the orders given to them in virtue of the regulation of navigation and police by the Inspector-General and by the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

Art. 11.

The carrying out of the regulation of navigation and police, as well as the application of the tariff, of which mention will be made in the thirteenth and following Articles of the present Act, is moreover insured by the action of the Vessels of War stationed at the mouths of the Danube, in conformity with Art. 19 of the Treaty of Paris.

Each Naval Force on the station acts upon the vessel of its own nationality and upon those whose flag it is called upon to protect, whether by virtue of Treaties or usage, or in consequence of a general or special delegation.

In default of a Vessel of War qualified to interfere, the International Authorities of the river can have recourse to the Vessel of War of the territorial Power.

Art. 12.

It is understood that the regulation of navigation and police joined to the present Act will continue to be law until such time as the regulations mentioned in Art. 17 of the Treaty of Paris shall have been determined by common agreement, and put in force. The same thing is understood of the provisions of the foregoing Articles 8, 9, and 10, in so far as the powers of the Inspector-General are concerned.

OF THE TARIFF OF NAVIGATION DUES.

Art. 13.

Art. 16 of the Treaty of Paris having conferred on the European Commission the right of imposing on the navigation a toll of a rate suited to cover the expenses of the works and establishments above-mentioned and the Commission having made use of this right, by enacting the tariff of 25th July, 1860, revised the 7th March, 1863, the proceeds of which have furnished it with the resources necessary for the completion of the Sulina Works, it is expressly agreed upon, by the present Act, that the above-mentioned tariff, whose provisions have just been completed, shall continue to be binding for the future.

To this end, the tariff in question has been joined to the present Act, under letter B, to have the same force and value as if it formed an integral part of it.

Art. 14.

The proceeds of the tax shall be appropriated :

- 1st. By priority and preference to the repayment of the loans contracted by the European Commission, and of those which it may hereafter contract for completing the works for the improvement of the mouths of the Danube.
- 2nd. To covering the expenses of administration and maintenance of the works and establishments.
- 3rd. To the liquidation of the advances made to the Commission by the Sublime Porte. This liquidation will be effected in conformity with a special arrangement concluded for this purpose between the European Commission and the Delegate of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, under this day's date.

The surplus of these proceeds, if there is any, shall be held in reserve to meet the expenses that may be incurred by the prolongation of the Sulina Piers, or by the carrying out of such other works as the European Commission or the authority which shall succeed it, shall subsequently judge useful.

It is expressly understood, moreover, that no part of the proceeds of the tolls levied on sea-going vessels, or of the loans realized by means of the appropriation of these tolls, can be employed to cover the expenses of works or of administration connected with a section of the river above Isaktcha.

Art. 15.

At the expiration of every term of 5 years and with a view to diminish, if possible, the burdens imposed upon the navigation, Delegates from the Powers that have enacted the above-mentioned tariff, shall proceed to a revision of its provisions, and the amount of the toll shall be reduced as much as possible, always, however, maintaining the mean revenue judged necessary.

Art. 16.

The method of collecting the tolls, and the administration of the navigation Cash Office of Sulina shall continue to be governed by the regulations at present in force.

The responsible Agent, charged with the collection, shall be appointed by majority of votes by the European Commission, or by the authority which shall succeed it, and shall act under its immediate orders.

The general control of the transactions of the Cash Office shall be exercised by an Agent whose appointment shall belong to the Ottoman Government.

A detailed balance sheet of the transactions of the Navigation Cash Office shall be published every year in the official journals of the different Powers interested, as well as a statement, making known the distribution and appropriation of the proceeds of the tariff.

Art. 17.

The general administration of the light-houses of the Ottoman Empire having undertaken to provide for the expenses of superintendence, maintenance, and lighting of the light-houses of the mouths of the Danube, that portion of the whole amount of tax levied, representing the light dues, shall be paid into the hands of the said administration; but it is understood that these dues can have no other object, in what concerns the existing light-houses and those that it may hereafter be judged useful to establish, than to cover their real expenses.

§ 3.

ON QUARANTINE.

Art. 18.

The sanitary measures applicable to the mouths of the Danube shall continue to be regulated by the Superior Board of Health, instituted at Constantinople, and in which the various foreign Missions accredited to the Sublime Porte, are represented by Delegates. These measures shall be framed so as to conciliate in a just degree security for the public health with the requirements of maritime commerce, and they shall be based, as far as possible, on the principles laid down in Articles 19 and 20 hereinafter.

Art. 19.

Vessels descending the Danube shall be free from all sanitary control, it shall be the same for vessels entering the river from the sea as long as there shall be no contagious pestilence prevailing in the East. These vessels shall be simply bound to produce their bill of health to the authorities of the port where they shall anchor.

Art. 20.

If a contagious pestilence happens to break out in the East and if it is judged necessary to put in force sanitary measures on the Lower Danube, quarantine may be re-established at Sulina; vessels entering from the sea shall be bound in this case to perform quarantine at Sulina, and if the pestilence has not invaded the provinces of Turkey in Europe, they can be subject to no other sanitary control in ascending the river.

But if, on the contrary, the pestilence invades one or many of the Riverain Provinces of the Danube, Quarantine establishments shall be instituted, wherever there shall be need, on the part of the river which traverses the territory of Turkey.

PART III.

Neutrality.

Art. 21.

The works and establishments of all kinds created by the European Commission of the Danube or by the authority which shall succeed it, in execution of Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris, particularly the Navigation Cash Office at Sulina, and those which it may hereafter create, shall enjoy the neutrality stipulated by Article 11 of the said Treaty, and shall be, in case of war, equally respected by all the belligerents.

The benefit of this neutrality shall be extended, with the obligations which spring from it, to the general inspection of the Navigation, to the administration of the Port of Sulina, to the staff of the Navigation Cash Office and Seaman's Hospital, and lastly, to the Technical Staff charged with the superintendence of the works.

Art. 22.

This present Act shall be ratified; each of the high contracting parties will ratify in a single copy, and the ratifications shall be deposited within the space of two months, or sooner if possible, in the Chancellery of the Imperial Divan at Constantinople.

In faith of which the respective plenipotentiaries have signed it, and set to the seal of their arms.

PUBLIC ACT relative to the Navigation of the Mouths of the Danube.

ANNEX A.

REGULATION OF NAVIGATION AND POLICE APPLICABLE TO THE LOWER DANUBE.

General Provisions.

Art. 1.

The navigation of the Lower Danube below Isakcha is placed under the control of the "Inspector-General of the Navigation of the Lower Danube" and of the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

These two agents both officiate under the superintendence of the European Commission of the Danube: their authority is exercised towards all flags alike without distinction.

Art. 2.

The execution of the regulations, applicable to the Lower Danube, is equally insured by the action of the Vessels of War stationed at the Mouths in accordance with Article 19 of the Treaty of Paris.

Each Naval Force on the station acts upon the vessels of its own country, or upon those whose flag it is called upon to protect, either in virtue of treaties or usage, or in consequence of a general or special delegation.

In the absence of a Vessel of War qualified to interfere, the authorities charged with the police of the river can have recourse to the Vessels of War of the territorial power.

Art. 3.

The Inspector-General is specially charged with the police of the Lower Danube, exclusive of the Port of Sulina.

He is assisted by several Superintendents distributed over the different sections of the river under his jurisdiction.

Art. 4.

The Captain of the Port of Sulina is charged with the police of the port and of the Roadstead of Sulina.

Art. 5.

The Masters of Merchant Vessels—to whatever country they belong, are bound to comply with the orders, which are given to them by virtue of the present regulation, by the Inspector-General, and by the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

They are equally bound to state to them, when called upon to do so, their names, as well as the flags, and names of their vessels, and to show to them their agreements with their crews, without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 10, 17, and 65 hereinafter contained.

A special instruction emanating from the European Commission of the Danube, regulates particularly the action of these two agents.

Art. 6.

Independently of the judicial functions exercised by them in the cases provided for in Articles 79 and 107 of the present regulation, the Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Sulina decide summarily on disputes arising between captains and their crews, calling in the aid of two captains of the same nationality as the contending parties, or, in default of them, of two other captains.

They do not, however, exercise this part of their powers unless their interference is claimed by one of the parties concerned, and then only in the event of there being no other competent authority on the spot.

PART I.

Concerning the Police of the Sulina Roads and Port.

CHAPTER 1.

Police Regulations for the Sulina Roads.

Art. 7.

The Sulina roadstead comprises the waters of the sea for a radius of two nautical miles round the head of the north pier.

Art. 8.

Every vessel arriving in the Sulina Roads from seaward must hoist her national-colours.

Art. 9.

If she remains in the roads to ship or unload cargo, she must nevertheless obey the orders of the Captain of the Port and of his agents in everything relating to the navigation police. She is specially bound to conform to the provisions of the present regulations contained in Part V, and having reference to the lighter service.

Art. 10.

She must anchor at the place pointed out by the Chief Pilot or Deputy Chief Pilot of the Sulina Port. Within twenty-four hours after anchoring, the Captain or his chief officer must report himself at the Port Captain's office, to present his ship's papers.

Art. 11.

Boats belonging to vessels anchored in the roads are forbidden to cross the bar, and to ply in the port during the night, without carrying a lighted lantern.

CHAPTER 2.

Police Regulations for the Port of Sulina.

Art. 12.

The Port of Sulina comprises the Sulina branch for a space of three nautical miles up the river, starting from the opening of the channel formed by the heads of the piers at the mouth.

Art. 13.

No sailing or steam vessels of more than 60 tons register may cross the bar of Sulina, either entering from the sea or leaving the river, without having on board a pilot licensed by the local authorities.

This clause, however, does not apply to steamers that make periodical voyages, which are permitted to employ their own pilots.

The pilot service is regulated by special provisions under Part IV. of these present regulations.

Art. 14.

No vessel is permitted to enter or leave the Port of Sulina without hoisting the national colours. The port authorities will not allow any vessel without a flag to pass.

Art. 15.

If, owing to stormy weather, the Sulina Bar is judged impracticable by the Captain of the Port, a blue flag is hoisted on the tower of the light-house, to show that the pilots are unable to go out to vessels in the roadstead.

Art. 16.

Guard boats are stationed at the two entrances to the Port. Captains entering the Port must anchor in the berths pointed out to them by the officers in charge of these boats.

Art. 17.

Captains must then present themselves within twenty-four hours at the office of the Captain of the Port, to produce there their ship's papers.

They are equally bound, with the exception of the captains of the postal steam packets making regular voyages, to present their papers to the Cashier of the Navigation Cash Office at Sulina, who affixes to the roll of the crew of each vessel entering the Danube waters, of whatever tonnage she may be, a stamp bearing these words: "Commission Européenne du Danube, Caisse de Navigation de Soulina,"—the date of the year, and her serial number. This stamp is cancelled before the vessel leaves, by another stamp across it.

If vessels do not remain more than twenty-four hours at Sulina, the ship's papers are immediately restored to the captains after the accomplishment of the prescribed formalities; in the contrary case they remain deposited at the office of the Captain of the Port, by whose agency they are transmitted, if required, to the competent consular authority, after payment of the navigation dues, and the payment or deposit of the fines levied in virtue of the present regulation; save and except in this case, the roll of the crew must always remain on board the vessel.

Art. 18.

After having cast anchor, vessels are to moor by cables to the posts fixed for the purpose along the two banks, or to vessels already moored.

Art. 19.

Vessels must take in their booms and jib-booms, which in no case may be used for mooring boats. During the whole period of remaining at anchor, the yards must be braced fore and aft.

Art. 20.

Small coasting vessels, as well as lighters, are forbidden to move about the port during the night. Boats belonging to the port or to merchant vessels, may not ply during the night, without carrying a lighted lantern.

Art. 21.

It is prohibited to heat tar or pitch on board vessels inside the port. Captains are bound to see that no lights whatever are used on board their vessels, other than glass lamps or lanterns.

CHAPTER 3.

Provisions common to both Roadstead and Port of Sulina.

Art. 22.

Art. 64 of these present regulations, which forbids the throwing out of ballast, except at stated places, has particular reference to the roadstead and port of Sulina, properly so called.

Art. 23.

It is forbidden, without the authority of the Captain of the Port, to remove anchors, chains, and other articles abandoned in the port and roadstead of Sulina.

Art. 24.

In case of a vessel stranding, of shipwreck, as well as in cases of damage, the Captain of the Port of Sulina will immediately give the promptest assistance to save the vessel, her cargo, and gear, and to protect the general interests of the navigation; after which he divests himself of the administration of the salvage, and forwards all the documents drawn up by him to the nearest competent authority.

PART II.

CONCERNING THE RIVER POLICE.

CHAPTER 1.

General Regulations.

Art. 25.

Every captain or master of a sailing or steam vessel in the act of navigating or stationary, whether at anchor or moored to the bank, is bound to take care that his vessel causes neither hindrance to the navigation nor damage, whether to other vessels or to landing jetties, buoys, signals, towing paths, or other establishments placed on the river or its banks for the benefit of the navigation, and he is to attend to the preservation of his own vessel with the same care.

Vessels navigating or stationary in the Sulina branch are bound to carry their anchors suspended freely from the cat-heads, without making them fast to the bulwarks.

Persons charged with conducting floats of wood and rafts are equally bound to take the same precautions as vessels.

These floats and rafts, when they descend the Sulina branch, can only have a draught of water at least one foot less than the depth of water on the shallowest shoal in the said branch.

In no case can they have more than twelve feet draught of water.

CHAPTER 2.

Regulations for Vessels crossing or passing one another.

Art. 26.

As a general rule, vessels are forbidden to pass one another if going in the same direction, and two vessels sailing in opposite directions may not cross in places where the channel does not afford sufficient breadth.

Art. 27.

No vessel may steer across the course taken by another vessel in such a manner as to impede it in its way.

When a vessel ascending the river finds itself exposed to meeting a vessel descending at a point which does not afford sufficient breadth, she must stop below the passage till the other vessel has cleared it; and if the ascending vessel should be actually in the passage as the other approaches it, the descending vessel must cast the anchor which she is bound to carry always in readiness astern, and stop above until the passage is clear.

Art. 28.

In narrow passages steam vessels must not approach closely vessels which precede them.

Art. 29.

When two steam vessels, or two sailing vessels, sailing with a favourable wind meet whilst proceeding in different directions, the one ascending stream must steer towards the left bank, and the vessel descending towards the right bank, so that both go to starboard as is customary at sea.

It is the same when the meeting takes place between a steam vessel, and a sailing vessel navigating with a fair wind.

Any captain or master breaking this regulation will have to prove, in the event of a collision, that it was impossible for him to observe it, in default of which he will be responsible before the competent tribunal for all accidents which may have happened.

He is moreover bound to give the signals prescribed by Arts. 31 and 32 following. If two steam vessels give the same signal simultaneously, the signal of the descending vessel rules.

Art. 30.

When two steam vessels, proceeding in different directions, are approaching a curve in the river, they must give the signals prescribed by Arts. 31 and 32 following, and the ascending vessel must stop until the other has cleared the passage.

Art. 31.

When one steam vessel wishes to pass another going in the same direction it must signal before arriving at a short distance by means of five strokes on the bell or five whistles, and by waving a flag on the fore-castle or by hoisting half-mast a blue flag by day or a white light at night.

Upon these signals the vessel in advance is bound to steer to the left and give passage to the other, which will take the right. As soon as the vessel following is half a ship's length from the one she is about to pass, or from the tail of a convoy in tow, the latter must slacken speed until she has been passed.

Art. 32.

A sailing vessel coming up with another of inferior sailing powers, and desirous to pass her, must signal her intention in good time by hailing the vessel in advance, which will be required to let her pass to windward.

A steam vessel wishing to pass a sailing vessel going in the same direction as itself, will be required to give the signals prescribed by Art. 31, within a short distance, and must pass the sailing vessel to leeward.

Art. 33.

Steam vessels going down stream are to slacken speed at the points where the river describes sharp curves, until a clear passage is visible from the stern of the vessel. If any other vessel should be in the bend the steamer must signal its approach by sounding its whistle.

Art. 34.

Every steamer, whether ascending or descending the river, is bound to avoid vessels which it may meet dropping down with the current.

The vessel so dropping down is required on its part, when it meets other vessels whether under sail or steam, to steer parallel to the banks, so as to offer as little obstacle as possible to a free passage.

Art. 35.

Vessels tacking must take care not to get in the way of steamers.

Art. 36.

Captains or masters of vessels heavily laden, or of laden vessels of less than 60 tons register, are required to keep as much as possible out of the way of steamers which may meet or come up with them.

Captains of steamers are bound on their part, when passing near vessels of the kind mentioned in the preceding paragraph, to slacken speed, or stop completely in case of danger to the said vessels if they can do so without danger to themselves or to the vessels they may have in tow.

Art. 37.

In obeying and construing the rules laid down in the preceding Articles 26 to 36 inclusive, due regard must be had to all dangers of navigation, and due regard must also be had to any special circumstances which may exist in any particular case, rendering a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

CHAPTER 3.

Towage Rules.

Art. 38.

Captains or masters of tugs navigating with or without vessels in tow, are bound to observe all the preceding provisions; they are, moreover, specially bound to obey the injunctions of Arts. 31, 32, and 33, when one convoy wishes to pass another, the which case excepted, two convoys must never be side by side, either at anchor or navigating in Company.

In the event of meeting sailing vessels or steamers going down stream a tug going up has the option of deviating from the injunctions contained in the above Art. 29, in order to keep out of the current, if she can do so without danger to the vessel she is meeting. The tug is moreover bound, if she avails herself of this permission, to give the signals prescribed by the above Articles 31 and 32.

Art. 39.

As a general rule, any steam vessel not towing a convoy, as well as every vessel sailing with a fair wind, is bound to give passage to a convoy of vessels in tow. In default of sufficient space for doing this, captains and masters, both of tugs and vessels in tow, are bound, even in cases where the signals prescribed by the preceding Arts. 31, 32, and 33, have not been given, to draw aside, agreeably to the provisions of the said Articles, and to arrange in single file the vessels in tow.

Captains and masters of tugs and vessels in tow are, moreover, required in all cases of meeting other vessels to close together as near as possible, so as to leave to the others a sufficiently wide passage.

Paddlewheel steamers, when navigating in the Sulina Channel, must not lash alongside them the vessels they have taken in tow. It is generally forbidden to navigate in the said channel with more than two vessels lashed abreast.

CHAPTER 4.

Rules relative to Tracking from the Banks.

Art. 40.

The paths that follow both banks of the Danube are specially intended to be used for the tracking of vessels either by men or draught animals; foot-passengers and carriages can also make use of them.

Art. 41.

The towing-path must be free from all obstacles that can impede its use, such as bushes, trees, enclosures, houses, and other erections.

Art. 42.

The establishment in the river, and especially near the banks, of boat mills, irrigating wheels, and other similar constructions, is forbidden, without a formal permission from the authority in charge of the river police.

Art. 43.

It is expressly forbidden to dig ditches across the towing-path, unless the proprietor of the ground undertakes to bridge over any such obstructions.

Art. 44.

Mooring posts having been fixed along the Sulina, captains and masters must avoid driving stakes or fixing anchors on the towing-paths for the purpose of mooring their vessels.

Art. 45.

If two vessels, tracking in opposite directions, meet at the side of the same bank, the one going up stream must stand out to let the other pass.

If a vessel tracked by draught animals comes up with one tracked by men, the latter must allow the former to pass.

In the case of a vessel tracked coming up with one moored to the bank, the captain of this latter must allow the sailors belonging to the tracking vessel to come on board to carry over the tracking-rope.

Art. 46.

No attempt is to be made to pass a vessel tracked from the shore, unless it be by steering between her and the bank opposite the one from which she is being tracked. Vessels, when tracked, are bound, on their part, upon the signals prescribed by Articles 31 and 32 preceding, to keep as near as possible to the bank which they are skirting.

CHAPTER 5.

Rules for Navigating at Night, or in a Fog.

Art. 47.

All steam-vessels navigating during the night (between sunset and sunrise), must be furnished with a white light, easily visible at a distance of at least two miles, hoisted at the foremast-head, a green light on the starboard side, and a red light on the port side.

The said green and red lights shall be fitted with in-board screens, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Sailing-vessels under weigh, or being towed, shall carry the same lights as steam-vessels under weigh, with the exception of the white foremast-head light, which they shall never carry. Steam-vessels, when towing other ships, shall carry two bright white mast lights vertically, in addition to their side lights, so as to distinguish them from other steam-vessels.

In the application of the rules prescribed in this Article, every steam-vessel, which is under sail, and not under steam, is to be considered a sailing-vessel; and every steam-vessel which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a vessel under steam.

Rafts navigating during the night must carry a white light at each of their angles, and three white lights at the mast-head, placed one above the other.

Art. 48.

Sailing-vessels, convoys in tow, and rafts, may not navigate when both banks of the river cannot be seen at the same time.

Art. 49.

In a fog, steamers may not navigate except at slackened speed. The bell on board must be struck without intermission, whilst a whistle must be sounded every five minutes. They are bound to drop anchor if the fog becomes so thick that they cannot see the bank they are following, or towards which they are steering.

Art. 50.

Vessels are forbidden to leave their hawsers across the stream during the night, or in foggy weather.

CHAPTER VI.

Rules for Vessels at Anchor.

Art. 51.

Vessels are expressly forbidden to drop anchor or to moor in the channel of navigation. Except in the case provided for by Article 66 hereinafter, it is equally forbidden to moor or to anchor vessels in the concave bends of the river, even alongside the banks, under pain of being responsible for all damage that their presence there may occasion.

Outside the ports, two or more vessels may never be anchored or moored abreast of one another alongside the towing path.

Art. 52.

If in consequence of a fog, a vessel or raft is obliged to stop at any other than a regular mooring place, the bell on board must be struck if the vessel is a steamer, if not the fog horn must be used. These signals must be repeated every five minutes.

Art. 53.

Every vessel stopping in the river during the night must be furnished with a lighted lantern, which should be placed either at the end of one of the main yards, or on any other visible part of the vessel, on the side towards the channel, in such a manner that it may be seen equally well both up and down stream.

Rafts stationed at anchor during the night must carry the lights prescribed by the last paragraph of the above Art. 47—except the lights at the two angles next the bank which they are bound to remove.

Art. 54.

When a vessel, for the purpose of mooring, or getting off a bank, as provided for in the following chapter, is obliged to stretch a cable or chain across the channel, these moorings must be promptly slackened the moment another vessel wishes to pass.

CHAPTER VII.

Rules for cases of Stranding and Shipwreck.

Art. 55.

Every captain or master of a vessel or raft, grounded in the Sulina Channel, is bound to station at a convenient spot, at least half a nautical mile above his vessel, a look-out, charged with hailing vessels and rafts coming down stream, to acquaint them with the nature and place of the accident.

Art. 56.

Steam vessels must go at half-speed only, whilst passing places where a vessel or raft has run aground or foundered.

Art. 57.

Every shipwreck in the Sulina Channel is regarded with suspicion (extraordinary cases excepted), and is presumed until the contrary has been proved, to be owing to negligence or evil intent on the part of the captain or crew of the wrecked vessel.

The pilot of the vessel is personally responsible for the wreck if caused by bad management.

Art. 58.

If, contrary to all probability, a vessel should be wrecked in the Sulina Channel, the captain is bound to use every effort to haul her immediately alongside one of the banks, so that she may not remain in the channel.

The captain of the wrecked vessel and his crew are bound to remain on board, or on the bank near the spot where the accident took place, until the report mentioned in Art. 59 following has been drawn up.

They are forbidden, under any pretext whatever, to remove any part of the ship's cargo, stores, anchors, chains, cables, &c.

Art. 59.

Immediately after the wreck, the pilot of the vessel must, as promptly as possible, acquaint the Inspector-General with the news, by means of the Superintendents of Police. The Inspector-General will proceed at once to the spot, and will draw up a detailed report of the accident, which he will forward to the competent authority.

Art. 60.

If the Inspector-General judges it necessary to take immediate measures in the interest of the navigation, he will summon for this purpose the captain of the wrecked vessel, who is bound either to declare on the spot, that he abandons his vessel, or to act with his crew under the orders of the Inspector-General: the latter will superintend the salvage up to the point where the work ceases to be of public utility, and has become an affair of private interest.

The vessel whose salvage has been effected by the help of the authorities charged with the river police, is liable for the payment of a sufficient sum to cover the salvage expenses, and the keeping in repair the gear used for such purposes.

Art. 61.

The works undertaken by owners, insurers, and interested parties, with the object of effecting the salvage of wrecked vessels and their cargoes, must be carried out under the superintendence of the Inspector-General or of his agents, and they may be temporarily suspended if considered to be of a nature likely to cause any hindrance whatever to the navigation.

Art. 62.

If, besides the case of pressing necessity provided for in the above Art. 60, the removal of the carcass or remains of a wrecked vessel is considered necessary, the owners, insurers, or other interested parties, are bound to accomplish it within a month from the time of receiving notice to this effect, in default of which the work may be officially performed by the Inspector-General within the limits determined above in Art. 60. In this case the wrecked vessel with its equipments, or what remains of them, are specially effected to the payment of the expenses of removal.

Art. 63.

In cases of damage, particularly if caused by collision, the Inspector-General, if he is able to prove the facts of the case, and if he is called upon to do so by one of the parties concerned, will draw up a report of the same, which will be forwarded to the competent authority.

CHAPTER 8.

Rules for the Discharge of Ballast.

Art. 64.

Vessels are strictly forbidden to throw their ballast overboard into the river or on the roadstead of Sulina; they are in like manner forbidden to discharge ballast into the parts of the sea in the neighbourhood of the roadstead in depths of less than ten fathoms.

The landing of ballast above the Port of Sulina, can only be carried on at the points of the river bank appointed by the Inspector-General of the Navigation, and made known by public notice.

The Captain of the Port of Sulina appoints the places where ballast can be discharged in the Port.

The discharged ballast must in every case be transported to such a distance that the foot of the heap shall be at least twenty English feet from the edge of the proper river bank.

The provisions of this Article are equally applicable to the throwing overboard of the cinders and ashes of steam vessels.

To ensure as far as possible the fulfilment of the preceding Article, every vessel leaving the Port of Sulina in ballast, for a Port higher up the river, must be provided with a certificate from the Captain of the Port, stating the draught of water caused by her ballast.

This certificate must be kept on board during the whole voyage up the river, to be produced upon every demand of the Inspector-General, or of his agents.

PART III.

Concerning the Police of the Port of Toultscha.

Art. 66.

Every vessel lying at Toultscha must be moored to the right bank of the river. It is, however, to be understood, that there shall never be more than three vessels moored abreast.

Art. 67.

No vessel may drop anchor in the navigation channel off Toultscha, that is to say, on the right bank of the river, nor between the posts of the right bank, bearing the sign of an anchor reversed.

Art. 68.

Vessels are permitted to haul on the bollards and buoys to help them to double the Toultscha bend, but in no case are they allowed to use them as mooring posts. It is understood that this provision does not apply to steamers making periodical voyages, which stop for a short time only off Toultscha.

It is also forbidden that two or more vessels haul on one buoy at the same time.

PART IV.

Concerning the Pilot Service at the Mouth and in the River.

CHAPTER 1.

Pilot Service at the Mouth.

Art. 69.

Pilotage at the river mouth being compulsory as stated in Art. 13 of the present regulations, a special Corps of licensed and responsible pilots acts at Sulina, under the direction of a Chief Pilot, and of the Captain of the Port. These pilots bear the title of pilots of the first class.

Art. 70.

A boat is held in readiness to take the pilots on board vessels which approach the port from the sea as soon as the look-out on the lighthouse tower signals their arrival.

Pilots are bound to go a mile to seaward of the head of the north pier to meet vessels.

Art. 71.

As soon as a pilot boards a vessel, he must acquaint her captain with the depth of water over the bar channel, and, in return, the latter is bound to state to the pilot the draught of water of his vessel, and the proportion of cargo which she has on board. This proportion is made known without delay by the pilot to the Captain of the Port.

Art. 72.

Every pilot, not belonging to the Sulina Corps, who happens to be on board a vessel prepared to cross the bar, is bound, immediately on the arrival of the local pilot, to give up to him entirely the direction of the ship.

Art. 73.

On leaving the river, the local pilot is bound to conduct the vessel to at least a quarter of a mile to the east of the north pier head.

Art. 74.

The pilot dues, as well for entry into the river as for departure, being comprised in the navigation dues levied at Sulina, it is forbidden to pilots of the first class to receive any remuneration from the captains whose vessels they have piloted.

CHAPTER 2,

River Pilot Service.

Art. 75.

Independently of the Corps of pilots of the first class charged with piloting vessels across the Sulina Bar, and acting under the direction of the Captain of the Port, there is a special service of pilots, in like manner licensed and responsible, bearing the title of pilots of the second class, for merchant vessels navigating the river between Sulina and Ibraïla.

The River Pilot Service, properly so called, is placed under the superintendence of the Inspector-General of the Navigation. It is directed by a Chief Pilot, who has three offices, at Ibraïla, at Galatz, and at Toultscha, and by a Deputy Chief Pilot, resident at Sulina.

Art. 76.

Merchant Captains ascending the river are not bound to take a licensed pilot when they make the voyage themselves on board their vessels, but the Deputy Chief Pilot at Sulina, set over the River Pilot Service, is obliged to procure them one, even in this case, if they require it.

For descending the river, every merchant-vessel of more than 60 tons register, as well as every raft of timber, must take a licensed pilot of the second class.

The same obligation exists for vessels of more than 60 tons register ascending the river without a captain or master on board.

Art. 77.

The up-voyage commences from the time the vessel leaves the Port of Sulina to ascend the river, and terminates with the arrival of the vessel either at its port of destination, or at Ibraïla, when she is bound for a port above this latter, or for Matchin.

The down-voyage commences at Ibraïla, or on leaving the port where the vessel has taken her cargo, or clearance if she goes down empty, in the case where the port is situated below Ibraïla. It terminates when the vessel takes her anchorage in the Port of Sulina.

Vessels sailing from Matchin, from Guetchid, or a port above Ibraïla, must take their pilot when passing Ibraïla; those sailing from the ports of Reni or Ismail, have the option of providing themselves with a pilot when passing Toultscha.

Art. 78.

Captains will arrange with the pilots the sum to be paid the latter for piloting their vessels up the stream. In case of dispute, however, on this point, the Port Authorities will not admit any claim on the part of pilots for a higher rate of wages than half a Dutch ducat a-day for the voyage, in addition to subsistence on board.

The dues for piloting a vessel down stream are comprised in the collection of navigation dues levied at Sulina.

The Chief Pilot of the River Service deducts the sum of four francs from the amount of the due paid by each vessel for pilotage on descending the river; the surplus of the due is paid to the Pilot.

This pilotage due can be lawfully paid only into the hands of the Cashier of the Navigation Chest, at Sulina.

CHAPTER 3.

Provisions common to the Pilot Service of both Mouth and River.

Art. 79.

The Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Sulina, each within the limits of his jurisdiction, will decide disputes arising between licensed pilots and merchant captains, in the event of their intervention being demanded by the latter.

Art. 80.

Licensed pilots are bound to report either to the Inspector-General or to the Captain of the Port of Sulina, all infractions of the regulations committed in their presence.

They are strictly forbidden to have any interest, either directly or indirectly, in any operation or concern connected with lighters.

Art. 81.

Any pilot who shall, from incompetency or evil intent, be the cause of a collision, of grounding, or of wreck, shall be discharged, without prejudice, however, to the civil action which those interested may bring against him in the proper Courts.

If the circumstances causing the accident are such as to entail criminal proceedings, the pilot will be delivered up to the proper authorities to be tried according to law.

PART V.

The Lighter Service.

CHAPTER 1.

General Rules.

Art. 82.

The lighters of the Lower Danube are divided into two classes; namely, those whose operations are purely local, whether at the Sulina mouth, or at any shallow passages in the river; and those which devote themselves to the coasting trade, loading at one of the interior ports, to discharge in the port of Sulina, or on the Roadstead.

Art. 83.

No one can undertake the local lighterage operations without having previously entered at the Port Office of Sulina the vessels intended to act as lighters, and before having been furnished with a license delivered by the Captain of the Port.

Before delivering the license, the Captain of the Port causes the vessel intended for a lighter to be visited by a Commission, which judges whether it is in good condition, and ascertains at the same time its capacity in register tons, and its burden in kilos of Constantinople. This examination is repeated every year.

The license delivered by the Captain of the Port must always be forthcoming on board of the lighter.

Vessels provided with regular ship's papers can be employed occasionally for lightening other vessels upon condition that the captains make for each operation a special declaration, and deposit their papers, the muster-roll of the crew included, either at the Port Office at Sulina, if the vessel to be lightened is at the mouth of the river, or at the Office of the Inspector-General, if the lighterage is to be effected in the river.

CHAPTER 2.

Local Lighters.

Art. 84.

Lighters (whether sailing or steam vessels) must have no empty space in the hold, except such as is duly recognised by the Captain of the Port at the time of granting the licence.

Art. 85.

Lighters having once gone alongside the vessels they are about to lighten are forbidden to leave the said vessels before the latter have weighed anchor. The captain of a vessel that has been lightened has the option of placing, at his own expense, a guard of his own choosing on board the lighter he employs. Lighters going on to the roadstead are forbidden to take cargo on the upper deck.

Art. 86.

No lighter may leave the Port of Sulina to repair to the roadstead without the permit of the Captain of the Port. This permit must be shown to the guard-boat stationed, in conformity with Art. 16 of these present regulations, at the entrance to the port from the sea.

Art. 87.

As a general rule, lighters must leave the Port of Sulina at the same time as the vessels they have lightened. In the case, however, that a vessel employs several lighters the Captain of the Port will regulate their departure in such a way that they may not have to remain in the Roads too long unable to effect the reloading.

Art. 88.

A lighter that has rejoined in the Roads the vessel she has lightened may not quit her on any pretext whatever until she has restored to her her cargo, except in case of circumstances beyond control. For operations of local lighterage effected in the river-channel the lighters must keep company with the vessels lightened. As soon as the re-shipment of goods has been effected on board of the lightened vessel her captain is bound to give a written acknowledgment.

Art. 89.

Lighters on re-entering the Port of Sulina after having lightened a vessel must show their permit to the guard-boat which has power to inspect them.

Lighters quitting the Roads at dusk, or during the night, after having lightened a vessel that has left the river, must anchor at a place set apart for this purpose, and they may not further ascend the river till the following day.

Art. 90.

The superintendence of the operations of local lighterage which are carried on at the embouchure is exercised by the Captain of the Port of Sulina: that of the local lighterage in the river belongs to the Inspector-General or his agents.

CHAPTER 3.

Concerning Coasting Lighters.

Art. 91.

The operations of coasting lighterage may be carried on either by sailing or steam vessels towing schlepps, or by vessels provided with regular papers, on condition that their captains or masters procure for each voyage from the proper consular or local authorities of the ports where they ship their cargoes, a certificate stating the nature and terms of each operation.

Art. 92.

On the arrival of a coasting lighter in the Port of Sulina, the master must report himself at the Captain of the Port's Office, and present the certificate above mentioned.

If the lighter discharges the whole of her cargo within the port itself, she is required to moor alongside the vessel which is to receive her cargo, and she must not leave the same until she has finished unloading.

If she has had to discharge the whole or part of her cargo in the Roads, the master must hand over the certificate prescribed by Article 91 to the Captain of the Port, who will thereupon give him a permit to pass out.

Art. 93.

The provisions of the present part, concerning local lighters, are equally applicable to those engaged in the coasting trade during their stay in the Port and Roads of Sulina.

Steam transports, however, and schlepps, are subjected in re-entering the port from the Roads, to the inspection mentioned in Article 89 preceding, except on the demand of one of the parties concerned, or in case of suspicion or fraud.

CHAPTER 4.

Special Provisions for Circumstances beyond Control.

Art. 94.

When a vessel is forced by stress of weather to quit the Roadstead of Sulina leaving all, or part of her cargo on board a lighter, the master of the lighter is bound to return to the port, and temporarily to retain his cargo on board.

Art. 95.

If, in the case provided for in the preceding Article, the lightened vessel does not re-appear in the course of twelve days, the master of the lighter may demand of the Captain of the Port authority to unload his cargo and deliver it into the hands of the persons having a right to it; he may then exact payment of the freight money agreed upon, as if he had placed the cargo on board the lightened vessel, but without any addition thereto.

If, before the expiration of the above specified period, the vessel returns to the Roads and is again forced to put to sea, the days that had elapsed will not be counted, but a new period will commence, dating from her re-appearance.

CHAPTER 5.

Special Provisions in Cases of Fraud.

Art. 96.

In case of suspicion of inaccuracy or of false statement of a lighter's burden, merchant captains have the power of seeing the tonnage verified by a special commission named, according to circumstances, by the Captain of the Port of Sulina, or by the Inspector-General of the navigation.

The expense of this survey will be borne by the captain who demanded it, unless inaccuracy or false statement is proved, in which case it will be at the charge of the lighter.

Art. 97.

If the captain of a lightened vessel has reason to think that part of his cargo has been embezzled on board the lighter chartered by him, he must make a declaration to that effect, either to the Captain of the Port of Sulina, or to the Inspector-General of the Navigation, who will thereupon take the measures which their special instructions prescribe to them.

If the suspicion is proved to be unfounded, the costs of the inquiry are to be paid by the captain of the lightened vessel.

PART VI.

On Offences.

CHAPTER I.

Assessment of Fines.

§ 1.

Offences against the Provisions of Part I. for the Police of the Roads and Port of Sulina.

Art. 98.

Every offence against the provisions of the second paragraph of Article 5, and against those of Articles 8, 10, 11, 14, 16, 19, 20, 21, and 23 of the present regulation, is punished with a fine of one ducat at least, and five ducats at most. The captain of every sea-going vessel, except the steamers engaged on postal service, found in the Danube, and whose agreement with his crew does not bear the stamp of which mention is made in Article 17 of the present regulation, or shall only bear one or more annulled stamps, is liable to a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most.

§ 2.

Offences against the Provisions of Part II. for the River Police.

Art. 99.

Every offence against the provisions of the first or of the second paragraph of Article 25, and against those of Articles 27, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34, 36, 38, 39, 41 to 54 inclusively, 56, 60, and 65, is punished with a fine of three ducats at least, and of ten ducats at most.

Every conductor of a raft or float of timber found navigating the Sulina branch, with a draught of water superior to that prescribed by the third paragraph of Article 25 hereinbefore enacted, is liable to a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most.

Every offence against the provisions of Article 64 is equally punished with a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most, if there has been throwing overboard or prohibited discharge of ballast.

The fine is five ducats for throwing overboard of cinders or ashes in the channel of the Sulina branch, in the roadstead or neighbouring parts of the sea having less than ten fathoms depth.

§ 3.

Offences against the Provisions of Part III. on the Police of the Port of Toultscha.

Art. 100.

Offences against Articles 66, 67, and 68 are punished with a fine of from one to five ducats.

§ 4.

Offences against the Provisions of Part IV. on the Pilot Service.

Art. 101.

Every offence against the provisions of the first paragraph of Article 13, or against the second paragraph of Article 76, is punished with a fine of fifteen ducats at least, and thirty ducats at most.

Every refusal of the declarations prescribed by Article 71, or wilful inaccuracy in these declarations, either on the part of the captains or on the part of the pilots, and every offence against Article 72, are punished with a fine of five ducats at least, and ten ducats at most.

Every offence committed by the licensed pilots of the first or second class, or by the Chief or Deputy Chief Pilots against the provisions of the present regulations, or the instructions which are given to them, and to which no special penalty is attached, is punishable by a fine of which the maximum cannot exceed thirty ducats.

§ 5.

Offences against the Provisions of Part V. for the Lighter Service.

Art. 102.

Offences against Articles 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, and 94 are punished with a fine of from five to ten ducats.

§ 6.

Abusive Language and Assaults.

Art. 103.

Every instance of abusive language or contempt of the Agents charged with the Police of the Navigation, acting in the performance of their duties, as well as all abusive language or contempt of the authority from which the said Agents hold their power, is punished with a fine of one ducat at least, and of five ducats at most.

If there is an assault upon the person of an Agent of Police, when in the performance of his duty, the maximum of the fine may be raised to thirty ducats.

CHAPTER II.

Rules for the Infliction of Fines.

Art. 104.

The maximum of a fine can be doubled in case of a second offence.

A second offence shall be considered to have been committed by a captain of a sea-going vessel when the two offences shall have been committed in one voyage; that is, without the vessel having quitted the Danube in the interval.

For masters of lighters and pilots there is a repetition of an offence when it is committed a second time in the space of one year.

Art. 105.

Offences occasioned by circumstances over which the offender has no control are not liable to fines.

Art. 106.

Independently of fines to which they are sentenced, offenders may be prosecuted in the competent Courts for the recovery of the damages to which they are civilly liable.

Art. 107.

Captains are personally responsible for the offences committed by their crews.

Art. 108.

The Inspector-General of the Navigation, and the Captain of the Port of Sulina, take cognizance of the offences committed within the bounds of their several jurisdictions against the provisions of the present regulation, and pronounce in the first instance the infliction of the fines incurred by reason of these offences.

The notification of their sentence is made at Sulina, in the Chancellery of the Consular or Local Authority to which the party sentenced is amenable, if the offence has been committed during the down voyage. It is made to the same authority in the port the vessel is bound to, when the offence has been committed during the voyage up-stream. It can also be validly made to the person.

Art. 109.

The amount of the fines is appropriated, up to one hundred ducats a-year, to the endowment of the fund of relief established for necessitous pilots; the surplus is paid into the Navigation Chest, to be appropriated to the maintenance of the Sailors' Hospital established at Sulina.

Art. 110.

Appeals against the sentences of conviction must be carried, within three months from the date of notification, either before the European Commission or before the Mixed Tribunal which may eventually be instituted at Sulina.

In case of appeal, the amount of the fine is consigned to the Navigation Chest, and remains there as a deposit until the case has been settled.

The judgment rendered on the appeal is final, and can be the object of no further proceedings whatever.

An appeal will not be received after the expiration of three months from the date of notification; and the amount of the fine then remains forfeited to the Navigation Chest.

Art. 111.

The present regulation will enter in force after the ratification of the Public Act, to which it is annexed, and on a day determined by a special publication made for this purpose, by the European Commission.

The provisional regulation of navigation and police of the 21st November, 1864, will cease to have force of law from the same day forward.

FINAL PROVISION.

Art. 112.

The present regulation annexed to the Public Act, dated this day, may be modified, according to need, by the European Commission or by the authority which shall be substituted for it in virtue of Article 17 of the Treaty of Paris.

Done at Galatz, the second day of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

PREAMBLE.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

WHEREAS by Art. 16 of the Treaty of Paris of the 30th March, 1856, declaring that the cost of the works to be executed in freeing the mouths of the Danube and of the adjacent portions of the sea from the obstacles which obstruct them, as well as the cost of the establishments intended to secure and to facilitate the navigation, should be paid by means of charges fixed by the Commission;

Whereas a provisional tariff was enacted in consequence on the 25th July, 1860, and a revised tariff on the 7th March, 1863;

Whereas the works undertaken at the mouth of the Sulina are now finished, and that by means of the increased depth which has been obtained, the obstacles to navigation at this point have been removed;

Whereas the works of improvement and cleansing executed in the course of the river, the erection of a lighthouse at the St. George's mouth, and the improvements introduced with regard to the establishments to which the Treaty refers, as well as the creation of a seaman's hospital at Sulina, to which sick or shipwrecked sailors are admitted free of charge, ensure to the navigation considerable advantages;

Whereas under these circumstances, and to provide as much for the paying off of the amount spent on the works, as for the cost of their preservation as well as of their eventual development, and of the maintenance of the above mentioned establishments, it is necessary to adopt definitive regulations in the place of the provisional arrangements of the tariff actually in force;

And whereas experience has shown that there is an advantage to the navigation in merging in one single shipping due, the tolls levied for the improvements and the pilotage and light dues;

Have enacted the following tariff:—

Art. 1.

Every sailing vessel measuring more than 30 tons, quitting the Port of Sulina to go to sea, and which may have completed, according to her manifest, more than one third of her full lading, will pay per ton measurement a fixed navigation due, of which the amount will be determined hereafter according to the total tonnage of the vessel, and to the depth of the channel at the mouth of the Sulina branch.

VESSELS which shall have ascended the river to take cargo at an inland port, will pay the duties specified in the following Table:—

Art. 2.

Steamboats belonging to a public company specially engaged in the conveyance of passengers and making periodical voyages according to previous announcement, will pay, on leaving the river, a fixed duty of 60 centimes per ton measurement, whether wholly or partly laden.

This duty will be calculated on the net tonnage of the boat, as may be indicated by the ship's papers, that is to say, after deduction of the weight of machinery and fuel has been made from the total tonnage.

If the tonnage of the machinery is not indicated in the ship's papers, a deduction of 37 per cent. will be made on the total tonnage for paddle-wheel ships, and of 32 per cent. for screw vessels; the deduction will be made after the conversion of the tonnage of the vessel into English tons, effected in conformity with the regulations of Article 14 hereafter.

These vessels will be free from all duty on entering the river.

Art. 3.

All commercial steam-vessels, other than those specified in the preceding Article will be subject to the same dues as sailing vessels, except the amount deducted for machinery and fuel, which will be effected on their total tonnage upon the basis determined by the preceding Article.

The amount of the fixed duty that such vessels will have to pay per ton measurement, will be determined conformably to the foregoing table according as they shall, or shall not, have ascended the river above the port of Sulina, and after the deduction accorded to them by the first paragraph of the present Article.

Steam vessels not included in the category determined by Art. 2, above, and which shall make the voyage of the Danube, going and returning included, more than twice in the same year, will enjoy a reduction of 40 per cent. on the amount of the duties charged on entry and clearance, for each of the eight voyages, which they may perform after the two first, before the end of the year, and if the number of annual voyages should exceed ten, the reduction shall be 60 per cent. for each voyage after the tenth during the year.

The number of voyages such vessels may have performed, entering and clearing with less than one third of their cargo, will not be reckoned in the number of voyages necessary to obtain the advantage of the above reduction of dues.

Art. 4.

Sailing vessels and commercial steam vessels besides those specified in Art. 2 which may enter the Port of Sulina from the sea, and which shall have according to their manifest more than one third cargo, will pay for entering in the river the fourth part of the tax imposed for clearance by Arts. 1 and 3 above.

The duty on entry will only be paid by vessels at the moment when they leave the river.

The said-vessels will pay on entry the integral amount of the tax fixed by Arts. 1 and 3, if they leave the river with less than one third of their cargo.

Art. 5.

Lighters chartered for the passage of the mouth of the Sulina by vessels which have paid the duties established by the preceding Articles will pay for each passage performed with a complete or partial lading, only the following amount:—

Lighters of a burden of from 10 to 50 tons, 6 francs.

Those of a burden of more than 50 tons and not exceeding 100 tons, 8 francs.

And those of more than 100 tons burden, 12 francs.

Art. 6.

Vessels which remain anchored in the Road of Sulina to load or discharge by means of lighters the whole or part of their cargo will not be subjected to the dues established by Arts. 1, 3, or 4, above; they will pay only a uniform tax of 100 francs for each vessel, to contribute to the expenses of the establishments by which they profit.

Such of the said vessels as may enter the port without performing any operation of commerce which may be of a nature to subject them to the dues established by Arts. 1, 3, or 4 above, will pay in addition to the above duty of 100 francs authorized by the preceding paragraph, 50 centimes per ton for lighthouse and pilotage duty. This duty will be levied only once, on the vessels leaving port.

Lighters chartered to transport across the mouth the cargoes of vessels which shall have paid no other dues than those established by the present Article, must pay for each passage across the mouth, with an entire or partial lading, a fixed due of 1 franc per ton on the total tonnage.

The lighters employed in discharging ballast will be exempt from all dues.

The duties of 50 centimes and 1 franc per ton respectively imposed by the present Article on sea-going vessels and lighters will be calculated for steam-boats on the net tonnage, in conformity with the rules established by Article 2.

Art. 7.

Rafts and floats, of which the dimensions do not exceed 100 English feet in length by 40 feet in width, and which have been towed in descending the arm of the Sulina, will have to pay, on leaving the mouth, a fixed duty of 100 francs.

The duty will be 300 francs for every raft and float which shall not have been towed in going down the arm of the Sulina, as well as for those of which the dimensions exceed 100 feet English in length or 40 feet in width.

Art. 8.

Vessels of war are exempt from all dues either on entering or clearing the Sulina mouth.

The same exemption applies to tug steamers when they are not employed as lighters in conveying portions of the cargo of the vessels tugged.

Art. 9.

Vessels of more than sixty tons which enter the Port of Sulina, and clear again with less than a third of their cargo, and which are in consequence exempted from the dues established by the preceding Arts. 1, 3, and 4, shall pay, on clearance, a tax of fifty centimes per ton for lighthouse and pilotage dues.

The same tax shall be paid by sea-going vessels serving occasionally as lighters, and this shall be over and above the duty of 1 franc per ton imposed by paragraph 3 of Article 6 above.

Sea-going vessels or lighters which put into Sulina from stress of weather, and those which, by reason of casualties, are obliged to take refuge in the port, and are unable to continue their voyage, shall be free of all duty, provided they go to sea again without engaging in any commercial operation.

Art. 10.

Both sailing and steam-vessels, without exception, coming from sea with more than a third of their lading, and entering the Port of Sulina to discharge a portion of their cargo, and which set sail again to continue their voyage to another port, shall pay, per ton measurement, a fixed duty of 2 francs, when the depth of the mouth exceeds 15 English feet; but if the depth is 15 feet only or under, this fixed duty shall decrease in the proportion established by Article 1 of the present tariff for those vessels of more than 300 tons, which do not ascend the river, and which, from the insufficiency of water in the Sulina entry, are not able to receive their entire cargo, in the port.

This fixed duty shall be levied upon a third of the taxable tonnage, if the quantity of merchandise unloaded at Sulina does not exceed a third of the total and taxable capacity of the vessel, but it shall be levied on two-thirds of the tonnage, if the quantity unloaded is more than one-third, and does not exceed two-thirds of such capacity.

Should it exceed two-thirds, the duties shall be leviable in accordance with the foregoing Arts. 1 and 3.

If the vessel which has discharged at Sulina, in the case foreseen by the present Article, less than two-thirds of its cargo, should receive merchandize in that port, it shall pay, over and above the tax leviable on account of the discharge, one-quarter of this tax, which shall be levied on a third or two-thirds of its taxable tonnage, according as the quantity of merchandize received is confined within a third or two-thirds of the vessel's capacity.

Art. 11.

The duties fixed by the preceding Articles shall include:—

The tax imposed upon vessels to cover the expenses of works and other improvements effected by the European Commission;

The duties actually in force for the maintenance of the lighthouses constituting the lighthouse system of the mouths of the Danube; and

The duties destined to cover the expenses occasioned by the pilotage service in the Sulina entrance, and those of the other establishments instituted with the view of facilitating the navigation.

Independently of these duties, vessels shall not be subjected to any other tax or charge, excepting the fees of the river pilots, which they shall pay for the descent, in conformity with the Article following.

Article 12.

Sailing vessels of more than sixty tons measurement, which shall have ascended the river above the Port of Sulina, as well as rafts or floats of timber, shall pay, on leaving the river, for the obligatory pilotage of the descent, a tax regulated as follows:—

For the passage from Galatz, or from a port situated above this point, to Sulina, one hundred and twenty francs;

For the passage from Réni or Ismail to Sulina, one hundred francs;

And for the passage from Toultecha to Sulina, seventy-two francs.

This tax shall be reduced to half for steam-vessels.

The steam-vessels mentioned in the foregoing Article 2, may be exempted from this tax, provided that the pilot on board holds a certificate as pilot of the second class.

As regards pilotage for ascending the river, which is purely optional, the fee of the pilot can be fixed by arrangement, and it is paid to him direct by the captain of the vessel piloted.

Art. 13.

The amount of the duties shall be paid over to the Accountant charged with the administration of the Navigation Cash Office of the Port of Sulina, who will deliver a receipt for the same.

A table showing the reduction into francs of the monies in use upon the Lower Danube, shall always be posted up in the office of collection.

This table shall be periodically revised.

In cases where the liability to duty is contested, or payment questioned, by the parties, the amount of duty shall be paid over to the Navigation Cash Office, as a deposit.

Demands for entire or partial restitution of the duties paid shall be carried before the European Commission, or before the International Authority which shall succeed it. They should be stated in writing within three months of the payment, or of the deposit, under pain of forfeiture.

Art. 14.

The term ton measurement shall be understood to mean the registered ton English.

The tonnage of vessels shall be taken from the ship's papers.

The reduction of the tons of different countries, into English measure, shall be made according to the table annexed to the present tariff.

Art. 15.

Vessels entering the Danube without papers showing their tonnage shall be subjected, with the sole view of fixing the navigation dues to which they are liable conformably to the present tariff, to an approximative valuation to be made by two experts, under the direction of the Captain of the Port, and with the concurrence of the competent consular authority. The Accountant of the Navigation Cash Office shall have the option of assisting at the operation, either in person or by means of a delegate.

The same shall take place if the tonnage borne upon the ship's papers is notably incorrect, or if disputes arise with respect to the valuation of the portion of the cargo of a vessel in the case of the foregoing Arts. 1 and 4.

The estimate of the tonnage, in default of ship's papers shall be made at the expense of the vessel concerned. The same shall take place if the experts, declare an excess of more than five tons over the capacity indicated by the ship's papers; or if it is decided contrary to the declaration of the Captain or Master that the vessel carries more than a third of her full cargo, in the contrary case the expenses will be charged to the Navigation Chest. In no case can these estimates give rise to any appeal or application whatever.

Art. 16.

The depths by which the duties established by the present tariff shall be determined, shall be taken on the Bar of Sulina, in English feet.

The soundings shall be made under the direction and responsibility of the Engineer charged with the improvements at the mouth; the results shall be posted up at the Navigation Cash Office and at the office of the Captain of the Port.

If the state of the sea does not permit of such soundings, the amount of duties to be levied shall be based on the last depth taken.

No supplementary payment for clearance dues can be exacted from vessels, nor, except in cases of duly proved errors in the soundings, shall any partial restitution from the Navigation Chest be required on account of the difference, however great it may be, between the depth of the mouth at the moment of the clearance of the vessel and that which shall have served as a basis for the settlement of the taxes paid.

Art. 17.

Every vessel, raft, or float which shall attempt by any means whatever, to evade, wholly or partly, payment of the duties fixed by the present tariff, shall be liable in addition to the duties which it is required to pay in conformity with what precedes, to a fine equal to four times the amount.

If the tonnage indicated upon the ship's papers, or the declaration relative to the quantity of merchandise loaded or unloaded at Sulina, according to the foregoing Art. 10, appears to be false, verification of the vessel's capacity, or of the quantity of merchandise compared with the total tonnage, can be resorted to in the manner prescribed by the foregoing Art. 15.

The application of the fine shall be pronounced in the first instance by the Captain of the Port of Sulina; the sentence of condemnation shall be notified to the condemned party, either in person or in the office of the Consular or Local Authority resident at Sulina, having charge of the interests of the nation to which he may belong.

The appeal against condemnations must be carried before the European Commission, or before the International Authority which shall succeed to it.

Appeal must be made within the three months of the notification, under pain of becoming null.

The forms of procedure shall be ultimately determined by special regulations. Judgments rendered upon appeals shall not be susceptible of any further redress.

The penalties pronounced by the Captain of the Port shall have effect, notwithstanding the appeal; in case of petition the amount of the fine shall be consigned as a deposit to the Navigation Cash Office.

The amount of the fines, when finally adjudged, shall be paid into the said Cash Office, to be applied towards defraying the expenses of the Seaman's Hospital.

Art. 18.

The Commanders of ships of war stationed at the mouths of the Danube, conformably to Art. 19 of the Treaty of Paris, shall be called upon to assure the payment of the duties established by the present tariff, and of the penalties when definitely settled, with respect to vessels of their own nationality, and to those whose flags they protect, either by treaty or custom, or in virtue of a special or general delegation.

The action of the ships of war shall be demanded en règle through the Captain of the Port of Sulina upon the requisition of the Accountant charged with the administration of the Navigation Cash Office.

In default of a ship of war having power to coerce an offending vessel, the Captain of the Port shall have recourse to the intervention of the Ottoman man-of-war stationed at Sulina.

Art. 19.

The Provisional Tariff of the 7th March, 1863, shall cease to be applied, and the present tariff shall come into force after the ratification of the Public Act to which it is annexed, and upon the date to be hereafter fixed by a special notification of the European Commission to that effect.
