And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

Edmund Harrison.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 1st day of February, 1867.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Lord President.
Mr. Secretary Walpole.
Mr. Corry.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, chapter one hundred and seven, intituled "An Act to prevent until the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, and to the end of the then session of Parliament, the spreading of contagious or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, and other animals," and from time to time continued until the first day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and the end of the next session of Parliament, by divers subsequent Acts, and lastly by an Act passed in the last session of Parliament, it is (amongst other things) enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Lords and others of Her Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, from time to time to make such Orders and Regulations as to them may seem necessary for the purpose of prohibiting or regulating the removal to or from such parts or places as they may designate in such Order or Orders of sheep, cattle, horses, swine, or other animals, or of meat, skins, hides, horns, hoofs, or other parts of any animals, or of hay, straw, fodder, or other articles likely to propagate infection, and to make any other Orders or Regulations for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of the said Act, and again to revoke, alter, or vary any such Orders or Regulations; and that all provisions for any of the purposes aforesaid, in any such Order or Orders contained, shall have the like force and effect as if the same had been inserted in the said Act:

And whereas a contagious or infectious disorder, generally designated as the "Cattle Plague," has lately appeared, and now prevails, amongst cattle in some parts of England:

And whereas divers Orders have been made by the Lords of the said Council in relation to the cattle plague, which were consolidated and amended by an Order bearing date the twenty-fourth day of March last, which has been since altered and extended by subsequent Orders:

And whereas it is, among other things, therein ordered by the said Privy Council, that any Local Authority as to any place within its district shall, by an Order made after the passing of that Order, declare any place in which disease amongst animals at that time exists, to be an infected place from and after a date to be specified in such Order:

And whereas provisions are contained in the said Order of the Privy Council to regulate the movement of cattle on any highway, and such movement, without a licence as therein described, is prohibited, except for a distance not exceeding five hundred yards from one part of the same farm to the other, and forms of licence for the removal of cattle were set forth in the schedule to the said Order:

And whereas by an Order of the Lords of the Council, bearing date the 8th day of August last, the forms of licences so set forth were altered and others were substituted, and in all such forms it is provided that animals thereby authorised to be removed shall not be driven or passed through any infected place or within one mile of the outward boundary thereof:

And whereas it is expedient that an alteration shall be made in the above limits of one mile in regard to animals moved within the Metropolis:

Now, therefore, the Lords of the Council do hereby order that, from and after the date hereof, animals, whether intended for immediate slaughter or not, may be moved within the Metropolis, at a distance not less than one hundred yards from the outward boundary of any place in the said Metropolis declared to be infected, in accordance with the provisions of the said Order of the 24th March last, anything in the said Order, or in any other Order, or in any licence duly issued under the Orders aforesaid, to the contrary notwithstanding.

This Order shall be construed in all respects as the said Order of the 24th March last, and the said Lords do further order, that the Local Authority for the Metropolis shall forthwith cause this Order to be published by advertisement in some newspaper circulating in the Metropolis, and by causing a copy thereof to be affixed at some conspicuous place in the Metropolitan Cattle Market, at Islington, in the county of Middlesex.

Edmund Harrison.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 4th day of February, 1867.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Lord President.
Mr. Corry.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, chapter one hundred and seven, intituled "An Act to prevent until the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, and to the end of the then session of Parliament, the spreading of contagious or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, and other animals," and from time to time continued by divers subsequent Acts, and lastly by an Act passed in the session of the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter one hundred and nineteen, it is (amongst other things) enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Lords and others of Her Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, from time to time to make such Orders and Regulations as to them may seem necessary for the purpose of prohibiting or regulating the removal to or from such parts or places as they may designate in such Order or Orders, of sheep, cattle, horses, swine, or other animals, or of meat, skins, hides, horns,
