From Monday March 26. to Thursday March 29. 1688.

THIS following Address has been Presented to the King, which His Majesty received very Graciously.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Master, Wardens, Assistants, and Livery-Men of the Company of Cordwainers; London.

May it please Your Majesty,

BY Your late most Gracious Declaration of Indulgence, You have demonstrated to the World the Nobleness and Greatness of Your Soul; the Influence of whose Goodness is not Contracted, but Diffusive, and Intarged, Extending Itself to the Church of England, and all other Your Majesties Subjects, even as God (whose Vicegerent You are) is Good, and Gracious unto all; Now we being sensible of the great Goodness of God, who hath disposed our Lot under so good and benign a Prince, do give daily Praise to Him for it, and now come, with Hearts full of Thankfulness to Your Sacred Majesty, (humbly imploring Your Gracious Acceptance thereof,) We having already found the good Effects of Your Majesties Auspicious Government, being in the present enjoyment of Peace, and all that which renders our Lives desirable both as Men and Christians; And which we are satisfied Your Majesty is desirous may be secured and continued to us and our posterity. That God may lengthen your Majesties Reign over us, until You have accomplished all the good Designs and Purposes of Your Heart for the Good of Your People, and thereby raised to Your Self an Eternal Name and Renown in this World, and grant unto Your Majesty Eternal Life and Glory in the World to come, Is, and shall be the Prayers of Your Majesties most sensibly obliged and devoted Subjects. In Testimony whereof, We have hereunto caused our Common Seal to be affixed this Sixth day of February, Anno Domini 1687. And in the fourth year of your Majesties Reign.

Turin, March 14. There hath been lately published here a Prohibition to all sorts of Persons, except Gentlemen, Officers, or Strangers, to wear Swords; and none of what quality soever are to walk abroad in the night, without a Light. We hear from Florence, That the Great Duke, at an Audience he gave to the Sieur Du Pré, Envoy from France, was taken with a swooning Fit, which was followed with a Fever; but we now hear that he is somthing better.

Vienna, March 18. Upon notice given here of the Elector of Bavaria's fall and hurt, His Imperial Majesty sent his Chief Chirurgeon to Munich, to be assisting in the Cure; and to give an account from time to time how it advances; in the mean time they proceed here in the Considerations of what further sums are to be paid to the Elector, to engage him to send his Troops compleat to the Field this year, and it is agreed that 86000 Florins shall be added to his Subsidies for that purpose; and it is besides proposed, that 100000 Rixdollars should be paid in hand to the Elector of Brandenburg, and 20000 more should be secured to be answered in certain times, and proportions, in consideration of his Highnesses undertaking to maintain such a number of Men for the service of the Empire, if not to be employed in Hungary, yet where else the safety of the Publick may require them. As soon as the Rivers are open and freed from Ice, the new made Ovens, with other Materials and Provisions, will be sent to Suda, to be in a readiness for the Camp designed on the side of Pest, where about the middle of April will be 7000 Foot and 2000 Horse. It is not expected they should continue long there before they march towards Scavonia, where the like care is taking for their subsistence, the Chamber at Graz having Orders, not only to supply the Magazines at Esseck, but to send to the Rivers of Danube and Mura such necessary Provisions as may follow the Army according to their Marches. Since the return of Prince Herman of Baden, we have advice that two Turks and three Russians had made their escape from Alba Regalis to Palotta, and from thence were brought to Raab, who informed, that the Garrison Soldiers had in a violent manner broken into the Houses of the richest Inhabitants, and such as they believed had laid in Stores for the support of their Families, which they plunder'd them of, and they were under no small consternation there, upon notice they had, that the Messenger sent from thence to acquaint the Bassa of Belgrade with their present condition, had been seized by the Imperials, and his Letters taken from him, and by the report of these Men, one of the chief reasons why the Governor rejected all terms of Surrender, was, that he had heard that the Bassa of Agria was strangled in recompense for his hasty Capitulation, and since his life was in danger both ways, he thought it no matter of choice, whether he should expose it in the most Honourable manner. The Orders being sent for 9000 Men to march to Scavonia, it is not doubted but upon their appearing in the Province, the Enemy will entirely withdraw themselves out of it, and that the Bridge they have begun upon the Save will in les time be pulled down again. The Emperor hath ratified the late agreement made by General Caraffa with the Transylvanians, which this General has so managed, as, besides the subsistence of the Troops, to secure 100000 Florins to be paid to the Treasurer at War for the other occasions of the Army. By an Officer lately arrived from Esseck we have an account that all things are there in a good condition, that General Caprara had ordered the Regiments of Nentburg and Durnwald to leave their Quarters and march thither; that Count Aspremont had represented to the Emperor the great use of fortifying Peter Waradin, and waited for Orders to set about it. They expected in Scavonia about the beginning of May, besides the 9000 Men above-mentioned, which were to encamp at Pest, 5000 Foot and 1500 Horse more from Upper Hungary. It is said that there is no very good understanding between the Officers at Belgrade, and that Yeghen Bassa was not expected there yet these two months.

Hamburg, March 26. The Elector of Saxony arrived here some days since, and this day he is gone for Holland, by the way of Bremen; he continued informed all the time of his stay here, and would not admit of any Respects to be paid him by any Foreign Ministers, or others, but spent most of his time with the Duke of Holstein in private, unless when they went together to the Opera's, which were allowed, contrary to custom, in this time of Lent, for his Entertainment. We do not yet hear that the Mediators have communicated the late Answer of the Danish Commissioners to the Duke of Holstein, or whether they are in themselves satisfied that an

Equi-

Fondament ought to be the Ground-work of the present Treaty. The Sieur Hopp, Envoy from the States-General, hath given Notice of his Character to the foreign Ministers, and received their Visits; he is to continue here with them, to interpose his Endeavours to prevent any ill Consequences which may follow upon an abrupt separation of this Assembly. All People here are very well satisfied, and more and more confirmed, That the late Alliance entered into by the house of Lauenburg, will not only keep the two Northern Crowns from any open breach, but will also preserve these lesser States from any Encroachments of their more powerful Neighbours; the Ballance being now put into the hands of a Family that is so well circumstanced to keep it even. And we hear, That the Elector of Brandenburg is like to enjoy the same tranquillity in his Duchy of Prussia, which seemed to be threatened before the Advices came of the unsuccessful meeting of the Diet at Gremm.

Calonne, March 30. The reports have often varied about our Elector's Health, which we now hear is well establish'd, and that he hath given Audience to the Envoy from Bavaria, who hath been so long expecting it. The Cardinal Coadjutor is returned hither, and it is believed that it will not be long before he goes to Liège. There is great expectation, since the last Letters from Rome, That the Pope will confirm his Election.

Hague, March 31. Yeste day the Prince and Princes of Orange went to Loo to continue there till the first week in May. The States of Holland have sent some of their Deputies into Zealand to endeavour an Accommodation of sonic differences arisen between the two Provinces, upon the score of Impositions laid on several Merchandises carried out of one Province into the other, wherein they both find themselves aggrieved; as also to represent and press the Reasons which might induce the Zeelanders to prohibit their Subjects to fetch their Wood from Norway, as those of Holland have done; the Province of Zealand being incunable to continue that Trade, notwithstanding the disgusts of their Neighbours, and it hath been project to fit up a convenient place near to Willemstad for the unloading of that Merchandise, and thereby, if possible, to engross that Trade, which is looked upon as very prejudicial to the City of Amsterdam, and destructive to those measures which are pursued to bring the Danes to a compliance in lessening the Impositions complained of, and one of the reasons for the liberty granted by the States of Holland, sooner than was expected to fetch the Swedish Timber, was, to be before hand with the Zeelanders, if they should persw to bring theirs from Norway. The Sieur Hoppe, Envoy Extraordinary from the Elector of Brandenburg, hath presented a Memorial to the States General, with a Letter from his Highness, complaining of the ill usage the Director of the Brandenburg Company in Grimm hath met with from General Stern, who preses there for the Dutch Company, the first of which being killed with the blows given him by the other's means, Satisfaction and Reparation is demanded. The States of Holland have writ a Letter of Thanks to the Prince of Orange, for having made a Determination in the Differences so long depending between the Divisions of North and South Holland, to much to both their satisfactions, which being so happily adjust'd, the publick Payments hitherto obstructed will flow regularly proceed.

Paris, March 31. The King is gone this day to Mantes, and he is expect'd to return to Paris on Saturday next. They write from Rome, that the differences between that Country and France are now actually put into a Way of accommodation; Mr. Holmes hath appointed Cardinal Cibo to negotiate this matter with the Auditor of the Treasury, a Frenchman, who is reputed by the Authors of Monachorum, and the Senator Zuccari, Envoy from the Republick of Venice, hath the Office of Mediator between them; and now the diplomatics are wrought to hear one another's Reasons. It is not doubted but the medium will be found out for settling the former good understandings. It is said not only that the Confederates have been begun, but that they have made so good a progres, that it was hoped a few weeks would produce the wished for conclusion. We hear there is arrived at Belgrade an Ambassador from the Port, to notify the advancement of Symet to the Throne, but that the bottom of his Errand is to insinuate some overtures towards a Peace, that he is expecting the Emperor's Passport to proceed on his journey to Kierma. The Abbat Vile Pafant, Arch-deacon of Tholosse is exiled for having been wanting in his Respects to the Arch-bishop of the Province, upon pretence that he had not yet his Bulls from Rome. The Duke of Mortemar, who hath been long ill, submitted on Sunday last to have his Side opened to let out an impostume which had gathered below his Lungs, and it is hoped this Operation will effect his Recovery. Mademoiselle de Montpensier hath been taken ill with an Erysipela, which obliges her to keep her Chamber. The Duke of Mintua sets up a pretension to part of the Estate of the late Mademoiselle de Coucy, which is alledged to have formerly belonged to the House of Gonzague.

The Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury have appointed One Years Pension for the poor Crippes belonging to the Chest at Chattham, which will be paid on the 9th of May next.
