Published by Authority.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1871.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 28th day of September, 1871.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Mr. Secretary Cardwell.
Mr. Forster.

THE Lords and others of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in them vested under The Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, (in this Order referred to as the Act of 1869,) and of every other power enabling them in this behalf, do order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

1. This Order shall take effect from and immediately after the twenty-ninth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one; and words in this Order have the same meaning as in the Act of 1869.

2. Notwithstanding anything in the Order of Council bearing date the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, (specifying the ports in Great Britain at which foreign animals may be landed,) foreign animals may be landed at the port of Newhaven.

3. All the regulations applicable to the landing of foreign animals at the ports comprised in the Schedule to the said Order shall apply to foreign animals landed at the port of Newhaven.

Arthur Helps.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 28th day of September, 1871.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

THE Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in them vested under The Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, and of every other power enabling them in this behalf, do hereby revoke their Order, bearing date the twenty-sixth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, defining the part of the Port of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in the borough and county of that name, within which foreign cattle might be landed for slaughter: Provided that nothing herein shall be deemed to invalidate or make unlawful anything done under the said

Order before the date of this revocation, or interfere with the institution or prosecution of any proceeding in respect of any offence committed against, or any penalty incurred under, the said Order.

Arthur Helps.

(NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.)

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 28th day of September, 1871.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

THE Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in them vested under The Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, and of every other power enabling them in this behalf, do hereby define the part of the Port of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in the borough and county of that name, within which foreign cattle may be landed for slaughter, as follows:—

All that space situate in Sandgate, within the borough of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, lying between the River Tyne and a line drawn due north from a point on the north bank of the River Tyne, at the eastern end of the Rotterdam Wharf, across the north shore to the wall forming the southern boundary of the property of the North-Eastern Railway Company, thence westward along the said boundary wall to the road called Wide Open, thence northward for a distance of twenty yards along the wall forming the western boundary of the said Railway Company's property, thence eastward for a distance of twenty-five yards along the northern boundary of the property of the said Railway Company, thence in a straight line in a northerly direction, passing the west end of the row of houses near the railway terminus, to the southern side of St. Ann's-street, thence westward along the southern side of St. Ann's-street to the western side of the said road called Wide Open, thence southward along the western side of Wide Open for a distance of fifteen yards, thence in a westerly direction for a distance of twenty-four yards along a boundary on the south side of the sheep-pens belonging to the Corporation of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, thence in a northerly direction along a wall on the western side of the said sheep-pens to the south side of St. Ann's-street, thence along the southern side of St. Ann's-street to the passage called Bowey's Chare, thence south-
