IN THE MATTER OF THE COURTS OF JUSTICE (SALARIES AND FUNDS) ACT, 1869.

WHEREAS on the 22nd day of March last there were in the Petty Bag Office of the High Court of Chancery, three officers, namely, the Clerk of the Petty Bag, and two clerks to assist him in the business of his office. And whereas, on the 23rd day of March, 1871, Sydney Tyler, one of the said clerks, resigned his said office on being appointed third clerk in the Crown Office in Chancery, whereupon it became necessary to appoint another clerk to assist the Clerk of the Petty Bag in the business of his said office. And whereas William Sims Smith, hereinafter mentioned, on and from the 28th day of March last, always hitherto hath attended in the said office, and rendered the assistance and performed the duties of a second clerk in the said office at the request of the Clerk of the Petty Bag, and with the approbation and sanction of the Master of the Rolls, but without any legal appointment to the said office of second clerk. And whereas the duties of the office of Clerk of the Petty Bag, and the present state of the business therein, are such as to cause the Clerk of the Petty Bag to require for some time to come, the assistance of a second clerk in the said office. And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have been satisfied of the necessity of increasing the number of officers in the Court of Chancery by appointing a second clerk to assist the Clerk of the Petty Bag in the performance of the duties of his office. Now we, the undersigned, W. P. Adams and W. H. Gladstone, two of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, with the concurrence of the Right Honourable William Page, Baron Hatherley, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, and the Right Honourable John, Lord Romilly, Master of the Rolls, testified by their signatures hereto, in pursuance and by the authority of an Act passed in the session of Parliament holden in the 32nd and 33rd years of the reign of Queen Victoria, intituled "An Act for amending the Law relating to the salaries, expenses, and funds of the Courts of Law in England," do hereby order that the number of Officers of the High Court of Chancery shall be increased by one, that is to say a second or junior clerk in the Petty Bag Office of that Court, and that the said William Sims Smith shall be, and he is hereby appointed to be such second clerk at a salary of one hundred and fifty pounds per annum, to be calculated as commencing on and running from the said 28th day of March last, and that the conditions on which the said William Sims Smith is to hold the said office, are that he shall not hold the same longer than his services shall be required by the Clerk of the Petty Bag Office for the time being, but that he shall quit and give up the same on receiving three calendar months notice from the Clerk of the Petty Bag for the time being, given with the consent and authority of the Master of the Rolls for the time being, and expiring on any day in the year, and further that the appointment of the said William Sims Smith to the said office shall give him no claim to any increase of salary either from time to time or otherwise, nor to any pension or superannuation allowance on his service in such office coming to an end, or to any advantage or benefit other than or beyond the said salary.

In witness whereof, we the said W. P. Adam and W. H. Gladstone, as and being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury as aforesaid, and we the said Lord Chancellor and Master of the Rolls have hereunto set our hands, the third day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.
