

133, 132, 124, 119, 118, 117, 115, 108, 107, 53, 52, 42, 41, 36, 34, 33, 30, 28, 27, 24, 17, 11, 5, 4, 2, and 1, upon the said maps, from the common or unenclosed lands in the parish of Llanafan-fawr aforesaid, to the boundary near the house called or known as Pen-y-Cae, in the middle of Cedney Brook, which boundary divides the last-named parish from the parish of Llanvihangel Aber-gwessin aforesaid; and extending thence, southward, for a distance of a quarter of a mile, or thereabouts, along the middle of the last-named brook, to its junction with the River Cammarch aforesaid; and extending thence, westward, for a distance of eighty links, or thereabouts, along the middle of the said river, to the point where the same river is crossed by the road leading from Pen-y-Cae to Allt-felen; and extending thence, for a distance of eighty-nine chains, or thereabouts, first south-westward, and then westward, along the middle of the last-described road to its junction near Allt-felen aforesaid with the road leading from Beulah to Abergwessin; and extending thence, for a distance of seventy and a half chains, or thereabouts, first north-westward and then south-westward, along the middle of the last-described road, to the point where it crosses the stream called Nant-Ffos-Ddu; and extending thence, southward, for a distance of twenty-seven chains, or thereabouts, along the middle of the last-named stream to its source, at or near to the northern end of the fence which divides the close numbered 160 upon the tithe commutation map of the said parish of Llanvihangel Abergwessin, and upon the map hereunto annexed, from the close numbered 159 upon the same maps; and extending thence, southward, to and along the said fence for a distance of fourteen chains, or thereabouts, to the southern end of the same fence, at the brook called or known as Nant-Cwm-Morris; and extending thence, eastward, for a distance of twenty-six chains, or thereabouts, along the middle of the last-named brook to its junction with the Brook Esgair; and extending thence, south-westward, along the middle of the last-named brook, thereby passing along the south-eastern side of the house called or known as Esgair-ber-fedd, to the source of the same brook, on or near to the north-eastern side of the old road leading from Aberannell to Abergwessin; and continuing thence, still south-westward, and in a direct line across the said old road to a boundary stone, inscribed 'E.O.D.D., 1873, No. 2,' and placed on the southern side of the same old road, at or near to its junction with the road leading to Esgair-lâs and near to the source of the Brook Cerdin; and extending thence, first south-westward, and then southward, to and along the middle of the last-named brook, for a distance of fifty chains, or thereabouts, to a point near to the junction of the same brook with the stream called or known as Nant Caer Gof, upon the boundary which divides the said parish of Llanvihangel Abergwessin from the parish of Llangammarch aforesaid; and continuing thence, still southward, along the last-mentioned boundary (thereby still following the course of the Brook Cerdin aforesaid) to the junction of the same boundary with the boundary which divides the last-named parish from the parish of Llanwrtyd, in the county and diocese aforesaid; and continuing thence for a distance of nearly three and a half miles, first southward, then south-eastward, and then again southward, along the last-described boundary (thereby still following the course of the last-named brook) to a point in the middle of the road leading from Pont-rhyd-y-feri past the houses called or known respectively as Castell, Bwlch-tua-thre, and Pistyll-gwyn, to the house called or known as Bwlch Mawr; and extending thence, generally northward, for a distance of one mile and twelve chains, or thereabouts, along the middle of the last-described road, to a point a little to the north of the house called or known as Bwlch-tua-thre as aforesaid, and opposite to a boundary stone inscribed 'E.O.D.D., 1873, No. 3,' and placed on the south-eastern side of the same road, at or near to the northern end of the fence which divides the close numbered 38 upon the tithe commutation map of the hamlet of Treflis, in the said parish of Llangammarch, and upon the map hereunto annexed as aforesaid from the closes numbered respectively 36 and 37 upon the same maps; and extending thence, southward, to such boundary stone, and then southward and eastward along the said fence, to the boundary which divides the said parish of Llangammarch from a certain detached portion of the parish or parochial chapelry of Llanlleonvel aforesaid; and extending thence, generally eastward, for a distance of two miles and a quarter, or thereabouts, along the last-mentioned boundary, to the stream called or known as Nant-Einon; and extending thence, south-eastward, for a distance of fifty-five chains, or thereabouts, along the same boundary (thereby following the course of the last-named stream), to the point where the same boundary diverges to the south from the said stream; and extending thence, eastward, for a distance of ten chains, or thereabouts, along the middle of the same stream, to the point where it is crossed by the road which leads from Llangammarch to Beulah; and extending thence, northward, for a distance of one mile, or thereabouts, along the middle of the last-described road to its junction with the new road leading from Beulah to Garth at or near to which said point of junction a boundary stone inscribed 'E.O.D.D., 1873, No. 4,' has been placed; and extending thence, eastward, and in a direct line to a point in the middle of the River Cammarch aforesaid, upon the boundary which divides the said parish of Llangammarch from the parish or parochial chapelry of Llanlleonvel aforesaid; and extending thence generally south-eastward for a distance of thirteen and a half chains, or thereabouts, along the middle of the said river (thereby following in part the last-described boundary) to the first-described point where the same river is joined by the brook called or known as Nant-cwm-yr-efel as aforesaid, at which point the said imaginary line commenced.

And whereas a draft of the said scheme, has in accordance with the provisions of the hereinbefore secondly-mentioned Act, been transmitted to the patrons, and to the incumbents of each of the four cures, out of which it is intended that the district therein recommended to be constituted shall be taken.

And whereas the incumbent of one of the said cures, namely, of the said parish of Llangammarch, has made certain objections to the said scheme, and the incumbents of the other three said cures, and the patrons of all the said four cures have respectively signified their assent to the said scheme.

And whereas the said scheme notwithstanding such objections has been approved by Her Majesty in Council: now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her said Council, is pleased hereby to ratify the said scheme, and to order and direct that the same and every part thereof shall be effectual in law immediately from and after the time when this Order shall have been duly published in the London Gazette pursuant to the said Acts; and Her Majesty, by and with the like