NOTICE.

ARTILLERY RANGES ACTS, 1862 AND 1882.

WHEREAS by the Artillery Ranges Act, 1862, after reciting therein to the effect that certain lands in the parishes of Shoebury and Wakering, in the county of Essex (of which the particulars were set forth in the schedule to the Act, and were shown on the plan thereof deposited with the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty), were vested in or possessed by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the War Department, in trust for Her Majesty. And further that such lands and premises had been used and appropriated for the practice of Artillery, and that it was expedient that the said premises should be kept free from all the anchorage or grounding of vessels, barges, and other craft, it was, amongst other things, enacted that so long as the lands and premises mentioned in the schedule to the said Act should remain vested in or be possessed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the War Department in trust for Her Majesty, he should, from time to time, as occasion might require, cause to be marked out and distinguished by buoys or other sufficient marks to be erected or fixed upon the said lands and premises, such spaces or distances thereon as he might judge necessary to be kept free from all anchorage or grounding of vessels of any kind, and order and direct that the several spaces or distances so marked out and distinguished should be and remain as ranges for Artillery Practice freed from all rights of anchorage or grounding thereon. And it was further enacted that, whenever the said Secretary should have marked out and appropriated any spaces or distances for ranges as aforesaid, all rights, if any, of anchorage and grounding over and upon the same should cease and determine, and a notification thereof should be made to the Lords of the Admiralty, and be published as therein mentioned. And further, that if any vessel, barge, or other craft, unless forced to remain thereon by stress of weather or other unavoidable accident, should anchor or ground upon any range marked out in pursuance of the said Act, then the owner or master of such vessel, barge, or other craft, as the case might be, should on conviction thereof before any Justice or Justices of the Peace forfeit and pay a sum not less than forty shillings and not exceeding five pounds for every offence.

And whereas after the passing of the said Artillery Ranges Act, 1862, certain spaces or distances for ranges were, under the provisions thereof, duly marked out and distinguished by buoys and appropriated for ranges as aforesaid, and notification thereof was duly made and published as provided by the same Act.

And whereas by the Artillery Ranges Act, 1882, after noticing the Artillery Ranges Act, 1862, and reciting that it was necessary for the public service to extend the ranges for artillery to
