Venice, March 17.

WE have Advice from Malta, That the Gallies of that Order will sail from thence, about the middle of the next Month, with 1200 Land Soldiers, to joyn the Venetian Fleet in the Levant. The last Letters from Napoli di Romania are of the 23d of the last Month; The Captain-General Cesare was then there, making the necessary Preparations for the opening of the Campagne. The next week a great Convoy will sail from hence for the Levant.

Warsaw, Feb. 20. The Term limited by the Laws of this Kingdom for the sitting of the Dyet, (which is 6 weeks) being ready to expire, and no Resolution yet taken in any of the important Matters before them, some of the Deputies have demanded a prolongation thereof, as has been heretofore practised in like occasions; but others oppose it, alledging, that there is yet time enough left for them to come to a Conclusion in the principal Points that were at their first Meeting proposed to their Consideration. We have an account from the Frontiers, That the Turks and Tartars have put another Convoy into Caminie. All our Advices from Moscow assure us, That great Preparations are making on that side against the next Campagne, and that the young Czar continues his Resolution of commanding his Army in Person.

Vienna, March 19. We hear, that two Officers are coming hither from the Garrison of Caminia, with the Articles of Capitulation for the Surrender of that place, which they desire to have confirmed by the Emperor. The Letters from Nissa say, That General Veterani had put that and the Neighbouring Garrisons into a good Posture of Defence; and that the Enemy had not appeared in any considerable Bodies since the Retreat of the Tartars. The Turkish Envoys continue still at Comarra.

Ratibonne, March 22. The Differences about the Succession of Saxe Lawemburg are now under Debate in the Dyet, in order to the finding out a way to adjust them. It has, we are told, been proposed, That the Emperor should be desired to appoint three Princes of the Circle of Lower Saxony, to wit. the King of Sweden as Bishop of Bremen, the Elector of Brandenburg as Duke of Mergenburg, and the House of Luxemburg, to be Protectors of the Duchy of Saxe

Lawemburg, (lying withing the said Circle) provisionally, and till such time as this Matter can be finally accommodated; so that each of them shall put a certain number of Men into the chief Places thereof, and that the Vete and Session for that Duchy in the Dyet shall in the mean time be suspended, or put into the hands of the said Protectors, to be taken care of by one of their Ministers residing here; Which it's hoped, the Parties concerned will be prevailed with to agree to.

Hamburg, March 23. On the 24th Instant arrived here the Suedish Vice-Admiral, the Baron de Taube, with a Commission to raise 600 Seamen for the Service of that Crown; And it's believed, a like Levy will be made for Denmark. We are told from Copenhagen, That the King of Denmark has given leave to several Officers, in his Service, to go and pass the next Campagne in the Imperial Army on the Rhine. They write from Warsaw of the 24th, That the Baron Zirowski was arrived there in the Quality of Envoy Extraordinary from the Emperor, and that he had on the 22d his first Audience of the King and Prince of Poland.

Lisbonne, March 16. An Officer is come hither from Colonel La Callimote, to give the General an account of their late Action at Charlemont; which is as follows.

The Regiment of Callimote being posted this Winter along the River called Black-water, and near Lough-Neagh, they greatly streightned the Garrison of Charlemont on that side, and hindered their having any Correspondence with the County of Tyrone. About 8 days ago Colonel La Callimote possessed himself of a small Village within a mile of Charlemont. The Enemy, upon notice of it, came out with 300 Men to attack us; but though we had not had time to intrench our selves, yet we repulsed them with the loss of three men on their side, and one wounded on ours. We were employed the next day and the following in casting up some little Works, and in observing the Avenues of the Place, and the Enemies Out Posts on both sides the River, which we obliged them to abandon, giving them every night new Alarms. On the 12th Instant, about 9 at night, Colonel Callimote marched with a Party of his Regiment, and a small Detachment of Colonel St. Johns's, making in all about 80 Soldiers and 20 Officers, whom he caused to Embark at a place called Dry Gab, in three large Boats.
