

the middle of this month on their return to Berlin. The Letters from Warsaw of the 28th past, say, the Dyet continued still; but that the last prolongation, consented to by the Deputies, would expire in three days.

Brussels, May 14. The Letters from Maastricht of the 2d Instant tell us, that the Dutch Forces were marching to the place appointed for their General Rendezvous; and there is a discourse, that they will besiege Dinant. The French Encampment between St. Amand and Montagne, having the Schelde in Front, and the River Scarpe behind them; there may be now about 12000 Men, and the rest of the Troops that are to compose the Army to be commanded by the Duke of Luxembourg, are moving that way. The Advices from Vienna say, that the Elector of Bavaria is to command the Imperial Forces in Germany this Campaign.

Hague, May 16. The Brandenburg Forces are already in a Body about Wesel, to the number of 15000 Men, and more are marching from several parts of his Electoral Highness's Dominions to join them. The Army of this State will be Encamped by the 20th of this Month. Monsieur Dankelman, the Brandenburg Plenipotentiary, will part from hence to morrow morning for England. The Letters from Paris of the 12th, confirm the arrival of the French Squadron with several Irish Regiments at Brest; and add, That Monsieur d'Avaux, and the Count de Gasse, (who returned with this opportunity from Ireland) were come to Versailles, and that the former had been several hours with the King. The Dauphin's Journey towards Germany continued fixed for the 17th of this Month.

Edinburgh, May 5. Last night the Lord Commissioner and the Privy-Council received, by an Express from Sir Thomas Livingston Governor of Inverness, the following account of the Defeat of the Highland Rebels, who were drawn together to make a descent into the Low Country.

Sir Thomas Livingston being informed, that the Rebels had appointed their General Rendezvous at Strathspry, that Colonel Buchan and Colonel Canon were already arrived there with 2000 Men, and that they expected to be in few days 4000 strong, he drew together his own Regiment of Dragoons, 2 Troops of Horse, commanded by Captain Hayes second Son to the Lord Yester, and Captain Burnett, 6 Companies of the Laird of Grims's Regiment, 400 Men of Sir James Leslie's, and a Company of Highlanders commanded by . . . Mackay, and marched towards the Rebels. On the 30th of the last Month he got more particular Intelligence of their Numbers, and how they lay Encamped, and thereupon continuing his march, came about the middle of the night to Bridg Castle. He understood there were two Forts, one near the Rebels Camp, where they had posted a strong Party in a Church; and another farther up the River which was not guarded. The latter he passed with the greatest part of his Troops, and ordered the rest to attack the Rebels in the Church, who upon our first firing, fled to their Camp, which our Horse and Dragoons entered about the same time, and put the Rebels into so great confusion, that they betook themselves to flight, and to get to the Hills. We killed near 1000 of the Rebels, and took about 100 Prisoners, most of them Gentlemen and Officers, (the Names and Qualities of divers of which are not yet known) and Colonel Buchan and Colonel Canon escaped very narrowly, not having had time to put on their Clothes. After this, Sir Thomas Livingston sent a Party to attack the Castle of Strathspry, in which the Rebels had a Garrison under the command of Col. Buchan's Nephew, who surrendered on different terms. We took, besides Arms and Ammunition, 2000 Bags of Meal, as also a Standard which the Rebels were to set up for the late King James. And in all this we lost but one Man, but had 4 or 5 wounded, and 1000000s killed and disabled.

Stamford, May 6. Yesterday went out the laden Fleet of 100000, being above 100 Sail, with the Assurance Fleet in their Convoy. And last night came into Torrington about 50 Sail of Light Ships, under Convoy of the Phoenix, and above 50 Sail are now coming to the Bar.

Casler, May 7. On Monday 25 of the King's Carridges, drawn each by 4 Horses, came in here; and are since gone down to Highlake, in order to their Transportation for Ireland. We have an account by persons come from Highlake, that there were yesterday 4 Men of War, and about 250 Ships more, in that Road.

Falmouth, May 5. On Saturday arrived here the Sloop of Guernsey, and this day the Elbow of London, both from Bilbao; whence they came about 18 days ago in company of 30 Sail more, English and Dutch, in the Convoy of 3 Dutch Men of War; many of which are gone up the North Channel.

Plymouth, May 6. Yesterday came in here two Merchant Ships of London, and a Swedish Ship of 40 Guns, being part of the Bilbao Fleet; and two more we hear are put into Falmouth, and one into Penzance. The six Bilbao Men, now in this Port, will sail under Convoy of the Charles Galley with the first fair Wind for the Down.

Weymouth, May 7. This day passed by Portland to the westward a great Fleet of Ships, so many, as it's believed, for Ireland.

Portsmouth, May 8. The Wind has continued fair for the Ships that sailed from St. Helens on the 5th Instant, bound to Ireland. On Tuesday came into this Harbor a Dutch Man of War to visit.
