

London, September 10. This morning a Dutch Captain brought in here the King's Coat of Arms, which were sent from France. The Master says, therefore, he has no French enemies, severa. French Vessels arrived there from the Mediterranean, and may be 2000, who gave an account, that the French had taken some of the Irish Islands, and in all appearance would make themselves Masters of the world; which will put the French in those Parts under a great Confection.

Cowcuntry, September 10. No sooner did we receive the joyful News of His Majesty's safe Arrival in this Kingdom, but the Mayor and Aldermen met at the Mayor's Parlor, the usual place of Entertainment upon publick Occasions: at the same time two Troops of Dragoons, of the Lord Fitz-Harding's Regiment, quartered in this City, commanded by Captain Gazzan, appeared in the Market-place, and gave several Volleys of Shot. The Mayor and Aldermen treated the Officers and Soldiers, drinking Their Majesties Healths, &c. And the Night ended with Bonfires, ringing of Bells, and all demonstrations of joy imaginable.

Middlesex, September 11. On Thursday last, in the morning, the Lord Mayor, with the Court of Aldermen and the Recorder, ascended the King at Kington, humbly to Congratulate His Majesty upon the happy Success of his Arms in Ireland; The wonderful Preservation of his Royal Person amidst the great and many Dangers to which He was exposed; And his safe Return into this Kingdom. After which they likewise waited on the Queen.

In the Afternoon the Lord Bishop of London, with the City Clergy, also attended the King and Queen, to pay their Duty and Congratulation to Their Majesties on this happy Occasion.

And this day the same was performed by the Lieutenantcy of London, who attended His Majesty here at White-hall.

We are awaiting several Mails from Holland and Flanders.

The Country was rejoiced by Their Majesties Arrival, and the Return of the Armies collected for the Relief of the Rebels in Ireland, so again most cordially. The Country concerned in the Convoy of Trooping of the same, would be in 2000 miles, and might thus much as 100000 men, as it is now, for want of a commanding General that can command, as is used to do in the other Armies, and the Number increasing, will make their Marching more difficult, and their Fury more dangerous.

Admiral's Orders.

Tuesday last, the Admirals Commissioned in Lancashire, to take up the Convoy of Troops bound over sea; and the Admirals Commissioned in the South, to take up the Convoy of Troops bound for Ireland.

The former Side of the Harbour of the greatest importance, is now in the hands of Captain Ellsworth, and a Vice-Admiral, and the latter of Captain Maitland, and a Vice-Admiral, and the former is to be ready to receive the Convoy as soon as possible.

In addition thereto, the Admirals, as also to the Convoy, will be ready to receive a various Collection of Provisions and other Stores, for the further Convoy, to be ready in Consequence Side of Fighting Fleet, and to receive the same as soon as possible. An Officer is given for Viewing of Goods, and distributed by Mr. Gilpin, in Waterford, to be delivered in Seaford Garden-yard, Ecclesall, and at the place of Sale.

All sorts of Laced and Point Cravats, with Neck-ribbons, Cords, Buttons, Belts, and Plates on Commodes or Ladies, &c. of the newest fashion will be sold by Auction, for the use of the Royal Navy and the Men of the Guards, and the Royal Household, but at the Auctions and the Fairs by Mr. Gilpin, in Waterford. The Time and Place of viewing the Goods, will be published by the Crier, and a List of which will be given by Mr. Berridge, in Apothecary, and by Mr. Lucy a Druggist, in Finsbury the next instant.

A tall young Man, aged about 18 or 19, with fair-coloured Cheek-Cheeks, a red Whisker, and black Hair, and a fat Web-Wig, went away with another young Man shorter than himself, last Wednesday morning, from Mr. Cheshire, Haberdasher, in the Street of London. No Person seems to think he brought to Mr. Cheshire, and will be well rewarded.

W^Hoever is a tall young Man, aged 19, of a very round Visage, and a very thick Complexion, wrong away on Saturday the 11th of September out of Devonshire. He is desired to return, or send to any of his Friends, and he shall be kindly received.

Taken away the 11th instant, by 3 Highway-men, from John Condie, Barberian Barber, in Finsbury, a grey Gelding about 14 hands high, black Mane and Tail, and a white Star in the Forehead, both Tayled, seven white on the Middle-piece, a broken Star within side of the forefoot before. Whoever recognises him, and gives notice to Mr. James Gairdner in Addisbury aforesaid, or to Isaac Grevill near the 3 Crosses in Thame-street, London, shall have 20s. The Person supposed to have taken the Gelding left a bay Mare, the 11th instant, about 14 hands, with a Blaze down her Face.
