HER Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to confer the Decoration of the Albert Medal of the Second Class on—

ALFRED JOHN COOPER, Fourth Officer of the Steamship "Massilia," of Greenock.

The following is an account of the services in respect of which the Decoration has been conferred:—

On the 8th April, 1890, at 10.56 A.M., when the "Massilia" was some 500 miles from Aden, in the Indian Ocean, and going at the rate of 13 knots an hour, a native Indian seaman fell from the rigging into the water. On an alarm being raised, COOPER, who at the time the man fell overboard was in the saloon writing, at once ran up on deck, jumped overboard, swam to the man, and kept him afloat until they were picked up by the ship's boat at 11.7 A.M.

Several sharks were seen hovering round the ship at the moment the boat came alongside. COOPER was encumbered with his clothes and boots and the Lascar at first gave some trouble by clinging to him.
