*Board of Trade (Harbour Department),
London, August 5, 1892.*

THE Board of Trade have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch, from Her Majesty's Representative at Copenhagen, enclosing the following Quarantine Notices issued by the Danish Government, viz. :—

That the provisions of the second section I of the law for prevention of the introduction of contagious diseases into Denmark, of the 2nd of July, 1880, until further notice are in force as regards ships which arrive from or have been connected with ports in the Black Sea or the Sea of Azov.

As notice has been officially received of the fact that Asiatic cholera is raging in the ports of the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov, the provisions of the second section I of the law for protection against the introduction of contagious diseases into the kingdom, of the 2nd of July, 1880, duly come in force until further notice as regards ships which arrive from or have been connected with the said ports, in view of which by section 32 of the same law, is prohibited the importation from the said ports into this kingdom, of dirty linen, dirty garments, and dirty bed-clothes (so far as these articles do not form part of the personal baggage of those on board), rags, dirty wadding, carding wool, and waste paper; and the washing under public superintendence of all linen, garments, and bed-clothes, which have been brought as personal luggage from the said ports, is made obligatory.

For the present there will be no quarantine.

The provisions of the second section I of the law for the prevention of the introduction of infectious diseases into this kingdom, of the 2nd of July, 1880, are enforced with regard to the following places :—

Marseilles.

All Ports in Egypt.

Ports in Tonquin and Cochin China, as well as India, including the Dutch East Indian Colonies.

Ports in the Red Sea.

Japan.

Lisbon.

Ports in Syria.

Rio de Janeiro, and

Ports in the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov.

The prohibition of importation into Denmark of dirty linen, dirty garments, and dirty bed-clothes (so far as these articles do not form part of the personal luggage of those on board), rags, dirty wadding, carding-wool, and waste-paper, is in force with regard to all the above-named places.

The same is true as regards the obligatory washing under public superintendence of all linen, garments, and bed-clothes which have been brought as personal luggage.

The Notice comes into force forthwith.

Hereby this is brought to public notice.

Ministry of Justice, July 13, 1892.
