*Board of Trade (Harbour Department),
London, August 23, 1892.*

THE Board of Trade have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of the following Translation of a Decree issued by the Swedish Government relating to quarantine :—

His Majesty's Gracious Notification prohibiting the introduction of used bedding and wearing apparel, &c., &c.

We, Oscar, &c., make known that, in consequence of cholera having occurred in various places in Russia, and having already by our Decree of July 11 last, commanded that rags, as conveying infection, shall be imported into the Kingdom from no other place excepting only from Norway and Denmark, We do now, upon the advice of Our Medical Board, ordain that used bedding, bed clothes, and wearing apparel, and other similar goods and effects, so far as they are not brought with them for their own use by travellers or ships' crews, shall, until further notice, not be allowed entrance excepting only if they come from Norway and Denmark; and such import may only take place on the condition that when the goods arrive it be proved, by a certificate of a Swedish-Norwegian Legation, Consulate or Vice-Consulate, or in default thereof, of a proper local authority, that the goods do not come from any other country but only from the abovenamed countries. The certificate in question may also be issued by any person whose trustworthiness is testified to by one of the above authorities.

What is above said does not prevent the continued application of a prohibition against the import of goods from those countries, which may have been issued for some other reasons.

Let all concerned obediently follow the above orders.

Palace of Stockholm, August 5, 1892.
