Weymouth, May 27.

THe James, a ship of three hundred Tuns, belonging to this Port, arriving lately from Rochelle, informs us, that the French Fleet were ordered to repair to Brest, as the place of their Rendezvous, and accordingly, 8 men of War were going thither from Rochelle, one of them carrying 82 Brass Guns, intended for the Duke de Beaufort, and to serve as Admiral.

Vienna, May 26. The Imperial Court has not been a little displeas'd, that a Courier dispatch hence for Spain with Letters of Importance, carrying with him a Pass-Port from the French Ambassadour for the security of his passage, was notwithstanding seised on at Lyons, and his Letters taken from him.

The 22th instant arrived here Prince Leopold Guillaume de Baden. The Count de Maradas Master of the Horse to the Empress Eleanor, is by His Imperial Majesty taken into the number of his Privy Councillors, and his Charge conferred on Count Charles de Wallenstein.

From Hungary we are told that the Lesser Assembly of States still continues at Cassovia, where they are considering their Grievances, and preparing for a more General Diet; and that the States of the Lower Hungary are earnestly bent upon the Election of a Palatine, and have some inclinations to confer it upon General Gorgas. They have not had of late any disturbance from the Turks, who keep quiet within their limits; but have lately drawn out of several of their Garrisons a body of 8 or 10000 men, which, as they give out, are intended to be sent into Dalmatia.

Venice, May 26. Our late advices from Candia inform us, that the City is in a good posture of defence, and had lately made two sallies upon the Enemy, wherein they had given large testimonies of their courage, by the slaughter made upon the Turks. That Signior Claudio Arraffi, a Serjeant Major, and Signior Mutio Martel, Major General of the Ecclesiastical forces, both which had signalized their valours in the late successful engagement of the Beiler-Gallies, dyed some days since in that City of the wounds they received in that encounter. They tell us also, that the Vissers Army which was reduced to a small number, still continued the Siege, and endeavoured by their Mines to work themselves under the Fort Panigra, and the Half Moon of Mosenigo, but the Defendants diligently employing themselves in their Countermine, had frustrated and defeated them in the attempt.

That two of the Vissers principal Engineers are lately dead, and his remaining forces much discouraged by their general want; which caused them daily to desert their Colours; but they also inform us, that the Captain Bassa arrived lately at Canea with 18 Gallies and 200 Foot for their assistance, and was again put to sea with seven other Gallies which he found there; and that they in little time expected the Great Turkish Fleet, which is said to consist of 70 Gallies, whereon were to be embarked 7000 Janifaries from Constantinople, and 5000 Spahies from Smirna, besides other forces; and that the Grand Signior continuing his Resolution for the carrying on of the War, intended to encourage the work by his nearer approach, and that preparations were accordingly making at Athens for his Reception; and that in Morea the people were but little inclinable to the War, but so incens'd against the Turkish Soldiery, that they took all advantages upon them, as they could find them stragling in small parties.

The Senate here is not a little pleas'd at the happy News of the final conclusion of the Peace between France and Spain, hoping by this means the Christian Princes may have leisure and opportunity to unite themselves against the Common Enemy, and put some stop to his proceedings in the Mediterranean. By Letters from Paris they are also assured that His Most Christian Majesty had consented that the Duke of Lorraine should send 4000 Foot to the assistance of this Republick under the Command of his Son the Duke de Vaudemont, half of them to be entertained upon the expences of the said Duke of Lorraine, the rest to enter into pay upon the account of the Venetians.

A small Vessel lately arrived here med the Convoy some time since put to sea from hence, sailing with a fair wind towards Zante; so that we hope they may speedily arrive at Candia.

A Feluca arriving from Dalmatia, tells us that all things as yet continue quiet in those parts, only a party of 200 Morlachs made two attempts upon the Enemies Quarters; but found them in so good a posture of defence, that they were both times obliged to return without any considerable Booty.

Hambourgh, June 1. The Swedes forces continue as formerly in their Quarters, and as yet there is no farther discourse of their removal. Their General the Countable Wrangel, is at present at his own Castle of Wrangelbourgh in Pomerania, somewhat indispos'd in his body, but more afflicted in mind for the loss of his Son, who lately died in England.

Prince George second Son to His Majesty of Denmark, intends to spend some time in taking a view of foreign parts, and may in order thereunto depart from Copenhagen in two or three days, in company with the Eldest Son of the Duke Ernest Gunter, intending for Holland, and from thence to pass into France.

From Warsaw we are informed that Dodes Aga is in little time expected thence from the Cham of Tartary, to settle a good Correspondency with the Crown of Poland; and to desire the renewing of the Peace formerly made at Podhuys, bringing for a Present to His Majesty 300 Christian Slaves; which the Cham has set at liberty.

They farther say that His Majesty of Poland having designed the Reformation of part of the Army in Lithuania, the Officers taking it ill, were entering into a League and Confederation; which the Chancelour taking notice of, put a stop to it, by his timely addresses to them; assuring them of His Majesties desire to entertain them; and 'twas believed they might find an Employment in Ukrania, but as yet the Rebel Cossacks grown jealous of the Tartars, have not made any disturbance upon the Frontiers of Poland.

The King is not yet arrived, but daily expected at Warsaw, and 'tis believed has a design to make resignation of his Crown and Scepter, and retire himself to a private life, which if accepted, he may afterwards by a Declaration discharge his Subjects from their Oath of Obedience.

'Tis likewise said, that the Chancelour of Poland, having been suspected to have held a private correspondency with the Muscovites, in relation to the succession, is fallen from the Kings favour, and retired to Vilna, the Vice-chancelour supplying his room.

Aix la Chapelle, June 4. On Friday last, was published here the Peace, concluded and ratified between the two Crowns of France and Spain, and the next day, Monsieur Colbert, Plenipotentiary from His Most Christian Majesty,
