The following is a translation thereof:—

NOTICE to the effect that the regulations of the 2nd Article I of the law regarding the prevention of the introduction of infectious diseases into Denmark, of July 2, 1880, shall until further notice be enforced with respect to ships arriving from or having been in communication with the ports of the Gouvernement of St. Petersburg, or on their voyage having had communication with ships coming from the said ports, &c.

Persons arriving from the said ports are to undergo medical inspection in accordance with the notice from the Minister of Justice, No. 208, of the 9th of September, 1893.

The prohibition of importation made in Article b, Clause 2, of the notice from the Minister of Justice, dated January 4 of this year, and the necessity of disinfection, are extended so as to include the ports mentioned above.

There will at present be no quarantine.

a. The Rules in the 2nd Article I, of the law concerning precautions against the introduction of infectious diseases into Denmark, of the 2nd of July, 1880, are in force for the following places:—

The ports in the Gouvernement of St. Petersburg,

The ports in the Sea of Azov,

The ports in Egypt,

The ports in the Red Sea, and

The ports in Tonquin and Cochin China, as well as the East Indies, including the Dutch East Indian Colonies.

b. Prohibition of importation and requirement of disinfection.

The importation of rags is forbidden from Russia and Finland, as well as from the ports in the other countries mentioned under a. The same is the case with carding-wool, if it is not accompanied by a completely satisfactory proof of being carbonized or else washed and heated to 80° Celsius.

If these objects are imported in defiance of the law, they can, if there be suspicion that they are in an unwholesome state, be retained until they have been subjected to disinfection under public inspection.

c. Medical inspection in accordance with the notice from the Ministry of Justice, No. 208 of September 9, 1893, is, so far as regards persons who arrive by sea, enforced in the cases of persons who come from the Ports of the Gouvernement of St. Petersburg.
