Rome, June 9.

Though the Courier, that was lately sent to the Court of Spain, has brought back an Answer very much in favour of Fuherigo, yet there are still such Obstacles in his way, that his Friends have not hitherto been able to gain for him the number of Voices that is necessary to make an Election; which has encouraged the Negotiations on behalf of Cibo, Delfino, Capegna, and Visconti; The last of these is not unacceptable to the Zealots, and is best lik'd by Silieri, the Head of the opposite Party, on account of his great Age, so that he seems to stand the fairest. In the meantime this long continuance of the Conclave occasions great Disorders in this City, where daily Robberies and Murders are committed, notwithstanding all the care that is taken to prevent them, and the Cardinals begin to be very uneasy because of the great Heat; Those that would have the Bulls observed concerning the strict shutting up of the Conclave, have complained of the too great liberty that is allowed for Persons to come in on divers pretences, and have made reproaches on this occasion to the Prince de Savelli, Hereditary Marechal of the Conclave, who, to give them some satisfaction, has ordered his Guards to go the Rounds, and to secure all persons that shall be found thereabouts after midnight. The Cardinals have held this week a Congregation, about sending the Gallies of the Ecclesiastical State to the assistance of the Venetians, and have dispatched an Officer to Civita Vecchia to hasten them out.

Turin, June 9. The French Army, commanded by Monsieur Catinat, came on the 6th instant before Carmagnole, and have since made two assaults upon the place, in which they were repulld with great loss; They give out, that they expect a Reinforcement of 10 or 12000 men from Dauphine, and that they will then attack this place; The Duke of Savoie has removed his Camp to Moncalier, where he will expect the farther Succors that are coming to him: Those from Germany have leave to pass through the Territories of the Grisons in much greater numbers than was granted the last year, and we are assured, that 7 or 8000 of them will be here before the end of this month. The Marquis de Debrera, late Governor of our Citadel, is by the Duke's order sent Prisoner to the Castle of Vercul, upon suspicion of his having Intelligence with the Enemy. The Protons have of late made several Excursions into Dauphine.

Milan, June 13. The Town of Carmagnole surrendered to the French on the 9th instant, and the Garrison was conducted with Arms, Bag and Baggage, to Turin. Our Governor the Marquis de Legancy having given notice of his arrival here to the Duke of Mantua, a Gentleman is come from him to Compliment his Excellency, and to confer with him about the present state of Affairs in relation to that Duke, who it's believed inclines to an Accommodation. Four thousand Foot of the Troops of this State, are now on their march towards Piedmont.

Venice, June 15. We have had no news from the Captain-General Mocenigo since his departure with the Fleet from Cosfo, but are in daily expectation to hear of his arrival at Napoli di Macedonia. A Squadron of our Ships is gone in the meantime to cruise in the Archipelago, and to observe the motions of the Turkish Fleet, which they pretend will be much stronger this Summer than it was the last. By a Vessel come from the Coast of Bari we are told, that the Ships of Tunis and Tripoli were sailed for the Levant to joyn the Ottoman Fleet.

Vienna, June 17. General Veterani, who commands the Emperor's Forces in Transylvania, by his Letters of the 9th instant from Hermanstadt, which arrived here yesterday, gives an account, that he had by the way of Valachia received advice, of a great Tumult and Commotion at Constantinople, between the Janisaries on the one part, and the Spahis and Asiatick Troops that were going for Hungary on the other; That the latter were for setting up the late Grand Signior's Son, and the former for the present; That the Grand Visier had done all he could to appease them, but his Endeavours for that purpose being ineffectual, and finding his own Life in danger, he was retired with the Grand Signior to Adrianople, whither he was quickly followed by the French Ambassador, who, in this General Disorder, thought himself not safe at Constantinople amidst the great Inclinations which the People there express to a Peace: But we must expect the Confirmation of this news by our next advices from Turkey. The General Officers, now here, are hastening away in order to open the Campaign in Hungary, where (we are told) Prince Louis of Baden will have under his command an Army of 50000 Germans, 8000 Hungarians, and 5000 Rascians, besides 12000 that remain in Transylvania, and 15000 in the Frontier Garrisons. The last Letters from Essex tell us, that a Party of Turks had shew'd themselves near that place, but that upon Count Gude of Saxenburgh's going out with a Detachment of that Garrison, they retired again; And that the Rascians of Bukovar had lately passed the Sar, and seized two small Turkish Forts, bringing the Commandant of one of them Prisoner to Essex. The Emperor has given orders for the fortifying Essex, Alba Regia, and Szegedin.
