Rome, Sept. 15.

THE Pope, though he is not yet perfectly recovered of his late Indisposition, does not forbear giving Audiences to the Cardinals and Foreign Ministers. The Count de Piccolomini, who is newly arrived here from Vienna, had his on Monday last, and gave the Pope a full account of the late Victory in Hungary, Presenting at the same time the Grand Viliers's Standard taken in that Action, which is like that the King of Poland sent him after the raising the Siege of Vienna. On Tuesday Te Deum was sung in the Chapel of the Palace, at which the College of Cardinals was present, and at night there were Publick Rejoycings and Illuminations through the whole City. On Wednesday the Duke de Chaulnes, Ambassador of France, parted from hence for Leghorne, where he intends to Embark with the Cardinal of Bouillon, in order to their return home. Cardinal Camus is gone before, and Cardinal Bonzi will follow in few days. We hear, that the Pestilentious Dittemper that lately raged in some Provinces of the Kingdom of Naples, is now quite ceased.

Venice, Sept. 21. His Excellency Sir William Trumbull, Ambassador from Their Majesties of Great-Britain at the Ottoman Port, is arrived here in the Ship Asia from Corfeu, where he left the Man of War that brought him from Smyrna, and from hence he will proceed by Land on his return for England. The Advices from the Levant say, that Signior De'fino continues to cruize with a Squadron of Venetian Men of War in the Archipelago; That the Captain-General Mocenigo was come with the Gallies to Andros; And that the Gallies of Multa are gone home.

Lemberg, Sept. 6. The King of Poland is marched with an Army of 24000 Men into Moldavia, and by our last advice was advanced to the River Prut, where he encamped on the 3d, having sent a Detachment to attack a great Body of Turks and Tartars that were conducting a Convoy of Provisions to Caminic. In the mean time the Castellian of Colin is marched with 4000 Cossacks towards Bodjisc.

Vienna, Sept. 27. The last Letters from Hungary do all say, that Prince Lewis of Baden had passed the Theisse with the Imperial Army near Zelucke, and that he continued his march towards Great Waradin with a resolution to besiege that place, which is said to be in no condition to make any long defence. The Emperor has given the Regiment, vacant by the death of Count Chizzola, to his Lieutenant Colonel Labaschecky, who was lately a Prisoner at Begrade, and that of General Dunewait to the Count d. Truboch.

From the Camp before Limerick on Clare side, Sept. 24. On the 22th instant the General passed the Shannon very early in the Morning with a strong Detachment of Horse and Dragoons, 10 Regiments of Foot, and 14 Pieces of Cannon, the rest of the Army remaining under the Command of the Duke of Wintzenberg, for the Security of our Works on the other side. About Noon our Troops drew up before the English Town, the Enemy playing upon them all the while from the Castle and several Towers, both with great and small Shot. About 4 a clock the General ordered a Detachment to attack the Fort near Thomond Bridge; The Enemy sent two great Detachements out of the Town to support those that defended it; but our Men went on with that Courage and Vigour, that they beat the Enemy, notwithstanding this Reinforcement, out of the Fort, and pursued them over the Bridge to the Town, upon which the Governor fearing we should have enter'd it with them, caused the Bridge to be drawn up, and thereby left those that were without exposed to the fury of our Men, who killed about 600, and took 200 Prisoners, among whom were 3 Colonels, and about 20 other Officers; we took likewise 3 Pieces of Cannon, and 5 Colours; And on our side had about 200 killed and wounded. Soon after this action, Colonel Wabsp, looking out of a Tower, called to Lieutenant-General Sourinners, and desired Leave to come and speak with him, which was granted; After some Discourse, he desired the same Liberty for Sarsfield to speak with Major-General Rochy, which was likewise allowed him; Accordingly Sarsfield came out, and both discoursed about Terms for the Surrender of the Place; Towards Evening they returned into the Town, where there was that Night a great disorder among the Garrison, who had like to have insulted the House of the French Governor.
