From Thursday October 8. to Manday October 12. 1691.

Madrid, Sept. 19.

HE Queen of Spain is perfectly recover'd of her late Illness, for which Te Deam has been fung in all the Churches here. Our Freet, commanded by the Count d'Aquilar, continues on the Coast of Catalonia.

Rome, Sept. 22. The Pope is fill somewhat indisposed; but gives however Audiences. Cardinal Ginetti dyed on Tuelday laft, and Cardinal Colonna lyes very ill, without any hopes of his Recovery; By whose Death there will be fix Places void in the College of Cardinals. The Popes Bulls for confirming Prince Anthony of Neubourg, Great Master of the Tenomick Order, in the Coadjutorthip of Mentz, are not yet dispatched, by reason of some Difficulties that are arisen in this matter, about which a Congregation was held 2 days ago, but the Resolution
they took there are not yet become publick.

Venice, Sept. 28. By a Vessel, which arrived here this week from the Levant, we are told, that the Captain-General Mocenigo was failed with the Fleet of this State from Andros to the Island of Metellino. That Signior Delfino, who cruizes in the Archiepelago with a Squadron of Men of War, had taken 12 Velfels bound with Provisions to Constantinoples; And that the Serasquier of the Morea had attempted to pasthe Isthmus of Corinth, but that he was repused by our Troops appointed for the Guard of it.

From the Confederate Camp at Reuel in Pied-mont, Sept. 22. On the 14th instant we marched from Brillane near Carignan to Ville Franche. The next day Monfieur Catinat quitted his Camp at La Mathe near Carmannole, and marched to Saluces; Hereupon, to cut off his Communication with Pignerd, we decamped again on the 16th about midaght, and marched to the Plain of Cabours, where on Army drew up in Battalia, our right Wing reach ing to the foot of the Mountains, and our left al-most as far as Scaffarda. Some of the Enemies squadrons appeared to observe us, but a Detachement being sent towards them, they presently retied. We continued in Battalia till towards Evening, advancing fill towards the Enemy, and at last encamped within a League of them, in the same place where Monsieur Catinat designed to have had his Camp that day, which was already marked out by his order. The 17th, in the morning, the Dukes of sawy and Bavaria went with 2000 Horfe and Foot to view the Passages of the Po, and the situation of the Enemies Camp; They fired upon us from the other side of the River, where they had posted De-uchements to guard the Fords of it, but without iny effect. We understood that Monsieur Catinat had put 5 or 6000 men into Saluces, that he had d. Boufflers lyes with the Troops under his command placed firing Guards in the Defile's of the Mountains, in the Condrote, having been lately reinforced with and that he lay with the reft of the Army very advan- 6 Battalions, and some Squadrons from Flanders.

hinder the paffage of their Convoys to Pignerol, in which place we are affured they have not at prefent above 1200 men in Garison. The Peasants of Mon-dani are very troublesom to the French, of whose Foragers and Stragglers they have killed above 300 fince their Army has layn near Saluces. Just now Orders are given for the Army to march to morrow at break of day, to pass the Po, and it's believed (fince the Enemy is so strongly posted, that we cannot force them to a Battel) that we shall besiege Carmagnoie.

Milan, September 26. The last Advices from Piedmont give an account, that the Confederate Army was passing the Po, with design, as twas thought, to attack Carmagnole. That Monfieur Catinat lay still encamped near Saluces ; but that he had quitted Fossan, after having exacted great Contributions from the Inhabitants.

Vienna, Sept. 30. We have no fresher Letters from the Imperial Camp than those of the 23d, which gave this account of their march from Sege-On the 16th they moved to Sibinhoz, the 17th to Dankier, the 18th to Hochfollen, where they rested the 19th, the 20th to Kizke, the 21st to Dossecke, within an hour of Zolnocke; The 22d they laid Bridges over the Theyse; And on the 23d the Army passed that River, and continued their march towards Great Waradin. General Veterani was, by our last Advices, still encamped near Lippas and the Duke de Croy about Darda.

Hydelberg, October 6. The Elector of Saxony continues at Hailbron; The States of Franconia and Suabia are now affembled to fettle the Winter Quarters for his Forces, which in the mean time are lodged between the Neckar and the Main. The French lye still about Brifac.

Francfort, October 7. The Troops of Saxony passed the Neckar on the first instant at Huilbron, Lauffen, and Wumpffen, and are lodged between Lauffen and this place till such time as their Winter Quarters are regulated. From Ratisbonne we have an account, that Prince Herman Margrave of Baden, the Emperor's Principal Committioner at the Dyet, dyed there on the fecond instant of an Apopicxy.

Cologne, October 9. The Troops of Neubourg commanded by the Marquis d'Antel, are encamped about 4 or 5 hours march from Sternfelt, and fo foon as the Forage is confumed thereabouts, they will go into Quarters, and put strong Garisons into Dueren, Munster Eysfele, Schleyden, and Monsaw, which lye most exposed to the Enemy.

Liege, October 6. The Troops of Brandenburg and Helle are still encamped in the Neighbourhood of this City; And those of Liege are posted at Fle-mal on the other side of the Manse. The Marquis
