Rome, October 27.

THE Differences with France continue in the same State; The Cardinals appointed to examine them meet frequently, but cannot yet agree; Some would enter first upon the matter of the Bulls, and others are of opinion, that the Pope ought not to grant them till Satisfaction be given him in that of the Regale. Cardinal Orsini would excuse himself from assisting any longer at this Congregation, and the French endeavour to have Cardinal Neri put into his Place, but the Pope will have the first continue; In the mean time here has been published, a small Treatise on this Subject to justify the Proceedings of the French, and another in favour of this Court, but both discover the Evil rather than the Remedy, and seem more to widen the Breach than to make it up. On Tuesday next the Prince of Palestrina is to perform the Homage in the Name of the King of Spain for the Kingdom of Naples, after which the Pope will remove to the Vatican. We are expecting the return of the Couriers from Vinna and Madrid about the Winter Quarters which the Germans pretend to take in Mantua, and the Dispute arisen at Naples concerning the Inquisition; As to the latter, we hear, that the Archbishop of Naples, being unwilling to intrangle himself in this Affair, has declared, that he will not execute the Orders sent him by this Court, but will leave the Care thereof to the Nuncio; Who on the other hand has presented a Letter to the Council there from the Congregation of the Inquisition, to desire them not only to recal the Bishop of Cava their Commissary, but likewise to protect him in his Office; The Answer the Council returned, was, that they did not meddle in this matter which only concerned the City of Naples, to whose Deputies he might address himself, but wish, that they could not but approve of what the said City had done therein.

Turin, October 30. The French give out, that they have had a great advantage over us in the late Action near Susa, but how little reason they have for it, will best appear by this exact Account.

Monieur Castina being informed of the march of our Army, sent greatest part of his Foot from Pignerol to secure the Hills about Susa, and followed himself with the rest. On our side a Detachment possessed themselves of La Perouse, and another of the Col de Fenestrel, and took several Prisoners, and by this means were advanced near to the place, which is inconsiderable in it self, but the Passes and Avenues about it being by their situation of very difficult Access, and the French strongly entrenched on the Hills, it was not thought fit to expose the Troops to attack them with so great disadvantage. The Enemy perceiving our Retreat, fell upon our Rear-Guard, which was only composed of three Battalions, to wit, of the Elector of Bavaria's Guards, of Lorraine, and of the Regiments of Cornau and Moutbrun, but were received with that vigour, that after some dispute they were forced to retire, with much greater loss than that on our side; We had not one Officer of Consideration either killed or wounded, unless it were an Aide de Camp to the Duke of Savoy, and in all we had but 36 Men killed, and 42 wounded. Our Troops behaved themselves extremely well in this occasion; And the Company of Grenadiers of Moutbrun made a whole French Battalion give way. Our Army is now encamped at Buffalon; Their design is not known, but it is believed the Weather will quickly oblige them to go into Winter Quarters.

Milan, October 31. The Campaign drawing now to an end in Piedmont, the present Care seems to be to settle the Winter Quarters for the German Troops, and the Princes of Italy, that hold Pieces of the Empire, are called upon by General Caraffa to furnish them, or else to contribute in Money towards their Subsistence. 'Tis said, that several Regiments will be quartered about Casal, to keep that place closely block'd up during the Winter.

Madrid, October 31. The Court continues at the Buen Retiro, and the King and Queen in perfect health. We have an account from Cadix, of the arrival there of the Conde d'Aquilar with our Armada from the Streights, and that he set sail again from thence on the 15th of this month to meet the Galeons, of whom we have no News, since that which was brought by the Ship that arrived lately at St. Lucar, and which was separated from them near the Bermuds Islands. Preparations are making here for the fitting out a very considerable Fleet early the next year.

Vienna, November 8. Yesterday arrived here another Express from the Camp before Great Waradin, who says, that our Cannon and Bombs continued to play with very good effect, and that at his coming away the whole Castle seemed to be in a Flame, but that the Enemy however continued obstinate in the defence of it, and the Season being far advanced, 'twas thought the Siege would be turned into a Blockade, for which purpose they had begun to cast up several Works which will sufficiently streighten the Garison during the Winter, and hinder their receiving any Relief. By Letters from Esbeck of the first instant, we are told, that the Duke of Croy, after the taking of Breda, ordered on the 14th of the last month all his Infantry, and the Regiment of Dragoons of Saxe Gaska, with the heavy Cannon, to return towards Esbeck under the command of the Major General Count de Heskirken, and marched himself with 1000 Horse, 4 Field-pieces, and 2 Mortars, towards Gradisca; On the 16th he arrived at Kovatch, where he was informed, that 4000 of the Enemy were posted near Gradisca; He advanced on the 17th two miles farther, which the Turks, who thought our whole Body was coming towards them, were so alarmed at, that they set the Town on fire, and leaving behind them 4 Pieces of Cannon, fled to the other side of the Sava in such haste and confusion, that several Hous, which were overladen, sank, and above 400 of the Enemy were drowned. The 18th the Duke of Croy continued his march, and arrived at Gradisca on the 19th, about 10 in the morning; He found the Town very much ruined, but the Wall and Palisadoes round it remain'd entire. A Regiment of Croats, with a small Detachment of Germans, was put into Garison there, and orders were sent to bring Materials down the Sava from Croatia, for the putting the place into a better posture of defence. The Duke of Croy staid there several days for the Provisions he had directed to be brought thither from Sieck in Croatia; in the mean time a Report was spread, that the Turkish Troops, which lay about Belgrade, had joyned with those of Serbia, and that having afterwards pill'd the Sava at Soboz, they were marching towards Esbeck, where upon, in order to learn the certainty of this Advice, and to prevent the Enemies deliga in case it was confirm'd, he presently march'd with 100 Horse, and the before-mention'd 4 Field pieces and 2 Mortars, back towards Esbeck, leaving Orders with the Sergeant-General Count de Sivan to follow with the rest of the Troops, so soon as they had received the Provisions they expected from Croatia. The Duke of Croy march'd to Bacharaz, which was still Garrisoned by the Enemy, who believing us to be march'd ger than we were, sent out 2 Officers to desire liberty to march out with their Arms and Baggage, but they were told, that no other Conditions would be granted them, than to yield at discretion, which they submitted to, but when our Men came to take possession of the place, the Turks shut their Gates, and drew up their Bridge, demanding again free liberty to march out. The Duke caused his two Mortars to be planted on a Hill hard by, and several Bombs were thrown into the Town, which finally obliged them to yield at discretion; this was on the 25th; On the 26th the Turks marched out 150 strong, and were made Prisoners of War; And some Horse were put into the place till the Foot should arrive from Gratz. The Duke de Croy having thus cleared the Country between the Savoie and the Drave of the Enemy, continued his march towards Essick, where he arrived the 31, and found the report of the Enemies moving that way to be altogether false; And on the 2d, the Count de Serax was expected there with the rest of the Troops. Our Advices from Turkey tell us, that the Ottoman Court is returned to Constantinople.

Fraucfort, November 14. We hear from the Palatinate, that good Garisons are put into Hydelberg and Hanibron; In the first of these places Major-General Heiderstorff is to command this Winter, and the Margraef of Bavaria in the other. The Margraef of Baden-Durlach commands in the Black Forest.

Cologne, November 16. We expect here this week 1200 Men of the Troops of Brandenburg, to reinforce our Garison. The new Levies that are making for the Service of our Elector go on with good success. The French will have this Winter 6000 Horse and 12000 Foot quartered along the Moselle.

Hamburg, November 16. The Letters from Lemberg of the 25th past tell us, that the King of Poland, after having put a Garison of 500 Men, with 6 Pieces of Cannon, and Provisions for 3 months into Niemiec in Moldavia, had passed the River Moldau, and encamped the 20th of the same month near Szozcaw; And that he had sent to the Hospodar of Moldavia, to require him to joyn his Troops with those of the Crown of Poland, but that he had answered, That having given his Son as a Hostage of his Fidelity to the Port, he could not do any thing contrary thereunto.

Paris, Nov. 16. The Letters from Susa of the 5th instant tell us, That the Confederate Forces lay Encamped in the Plain of Mill fleurs; That there had fallen a great deal of Snow; and that the Troops on both sides were going into Winter-quarters. The French continue to block up Montmelian. The Sieur de Rebenac parted from hence the 4th Instant for Italy, but with what Commission is not yet known. The Parliament of Paris was opened the 12th Instant with the accustomed Formalities, and several Edicts for the Creation of new Offices, and Impositions were presented by the Procureur-General to be Registered, among which are some that are not very acceptable to them.

Brussels, Novemb. 18. The Prince de Vaudemont went yesterday to view the new Works that are made in the Suburb of Anderlecke. The two Regiments of Dragoons, one Dutch, the other Brandenburghers, that have of late been Quartered in the Villages hereabouts, are expected here to-morrow for the reinforcement of this Garison. A French party of 40 Men, belonging to the Garison of Ticuin on the Sambre, being met the 15th Instant by a Detachment of 50 of our Men, who are posted in the Wood of Saing, threw down their Arms, and yielded themselves Prisoners, except 5 that escaped; accordingly 35 were brought hither, with the Officer that Commanded them. Yesterday came in here three Deserters from Mons, who say, that the Garison of that place consists in six Regiments of Foot and three of Horse, and that they work very hard on the new Fortifications they are making there. They write from Namur of the 16th, that the French have put two Battalions and 500 Horse into Garison at Bouvigny. That they intend likewise to put some Troops into Florenne and Walcourt. They make great Preparations in all their Garisons on the Meuse; and have every where filled their Magazines.

Hague, November 20. The States of Holland are again Adjourned to the 28th of this month. The Bavarian Ministers residing here have received advice, that the Elector, their Master, intended to part from the Confederate Camp in Piedmont on the 3d instant, and to take his Journey by Genova and Florence towards Vienna, at which place he proposed to arrive about the 18th of this month. The Sieur de Leliencourt is coming to reside here as Envoy Extraordinary from the King of Sweden, in the Place of the Count de Oxenstjerne, who is going with the same Character for England.
