TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1909.

Whitehall, July 30, 1909.

The following Addresses were presented to The King on the occasion of Their Majesties visit to Denmark Hill, Camberwell, on Tuesday, the 20th July, when His Majesty laid the foundation stone of the new building of King's College Hospital:—

Address of the Camberwell Borough Council.

To Their Most Excellent Majesties The King and Queen.

May it please Your Majesties,

Your Gracious Majesties' most dutiful and loyal subjects, being the Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors of the Metropolitan Borough of Camberwell in Council assembled, desire most loyally to welcome Your Majesties to the Borough upon the occasion of the laying of the Foundation Stone of the New King's College Hospital at Denmark Hill.

We humbly desire to thank Your Majesty for the unflinching consideration shewn for the welfare of Your Majesty's poorest subjects, and for Your gracious action in consenting to lay the foundation stone of a building which will be used to alleviate distress and pain and assist with medical comfort and aid the poor among the nearly three hundred thousand inhabitants of this Borough and of about one million persons beyond its borders.

We view with most loyal satisfaction and humble gratitude the gracious support accorded by Your Majesty at all times to the hospitals, which have expended many millions of pounds in the aid and relief of sufferers of all classes of the community, and have brought all the blessings of advanced medical science and skill within the reach of the humblest of Your Majesty's subjects, and we are most profoundly touched by Your Majesty's solicitude for the welfare of those inhabitants of South London who are now, by reason of residence, beyond the immediate sphere of the central hospitals, but who, by the removal and re-establishment of King's College Hospital for Camberwell and the surrounding Boroughs, will readily and speedily find succour and help in the time of their direst need.

That we also desire to humbly thank Your Majesty for Your devotion to the sacred cause of peace, and most earnestly trust that the blessing of Almighty God will rest upon Your Majesty's efforts to promote amity and goodwill among the nations of the earth.

And we will ever humbly pray that Your Majesty may long be spared to rule over a nation united by the strongest ties of loyalty, devotion, and affection to Your Royal Throne and Person.

Given under our Common Seal this
L. S. 14th day of July, 1909.

WILLIAM S T. MARTIN, Mayor.

G. WILLIAM TAGG, Town Clerk.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you most heartily on behalf of the Queen and Myself for your loyal Address of Welcome.

"My visit to your Borough in order to lay the foundation stone of the new King's College Hospital affords Me much satisfaction, for it gives Me the opportunity of furthering a cause which has ever been nearest to My heart, and also of meeting the representatives of one of the great Boroughs of the Metropolis and receiving their greetings.

"I feel confident that the establishment of a large general hospital in your midst will be of immense service to those of My subjects who suffer from illness or accident and do not possess the means of obtaining adequate medical attention and nursing. King's College Hospital has done a great work in the past; but its future utility in the building which will spring up where we now stand will be even greater. The huge population in the midst of which it is set will have the advantage of easy access to its services, and the scientific and administrative work of the Institution will reap the advantage of the more commodious premises. There can be no nobler aim for benevolence and public spirit than the care of the sick and suffering, and you will, I do not doubt, use every effort to assist the hospital authorities in the task they have undertaken."

Address of the King's College Hospital Removal Committee.

(Presented by the Hon. W. F. D. Smith, M.P.)

Address to His Majesty the King and Her Majesty the Queen.

May it please Your Majesties,

I am privileged on behalf of the Removal Committee of King's College Hospital to offer our humble duty to Your Majesties, and to express our deep gratitude for the great honour which Your Majesties have conferred upon the hospital by your presence upon this occasion.

Six years ago the Committee of King's College Hospital were called upon to decide whether they would spend a large sum of money upon the old hospital in order to bring it up to modern requirements, or whether they would undertake the construction of a new hospital in South London, where a poor and populous district was sadly in need of hospital accommodation.

The Committee of "King Edward's Hospital Fund" were strongly in favour of a removal scheme, and after a full enquiry into the changed conditions of the population surrounding the old hospital, caused by the clearance of crowded and insanitary areas, and on account of the fact that numerous hospitals already existed in a comparatively small area north of the river, it was decided to adopt the policy of the Fund and to construct a new hospital in South London. This building when completed will give accommodation for 600 beds, and ample provision for all the special departments now necessary for the efficient working of every general hospital.

The site extends to over twelve acres, and in addition land on the south side, to the extent of more than thirty acres, has been acquired, partly by private liberality and partly by public funds, for a people's park, so that the hospital will for ever have the advantage of an adjoining open space larger than any enjoyed by similar institutions in London.

The Committee of "King Edward's Hospital Fund" have given munificent donations, amounting in all to £27,000, to the Removal Fund, which has now reached a total of over £227,000. It is probable that the original estimate of the cost of removal will be somewhat exceeded, but the Committee have every hope that private generosity will provide them with sufficient funds to complete the building now undertaken, without trenching upon the capital sum realisable by the sale of the old hospital site and building, but which it is of vital importance to retain for future endowment.

As Your Majesties will have observed, the building of the out-patient, casualty, and some of the special departments is already far advanced, and it is hoped that in twelve months the whole of the building now contemplated will have been begun.

I now have the honour to request Your Majesty to lay the foundation stone of the new King's College Hospital, and in so doing to perpetuate the connection with Your Majesty's throne and family which our hospital by its style and title has the honour of commemorating.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you most heartily on behalf of the Queen and Myself for your loyal Address, and for the cordial welcome you have offered to us.

"It gives Me great pleasure to come to-day to lay the foundation stone of the new building of the Hospital with which the Sovereign's name is connected and in whose past work I have taken so deep an interest. For many years King's College Hospital has ministered to the necessities and alleviated the sufferings of thousands of My subjects in the centre of this crowded Metropolis. It was specially and closely associated with the great work of Lord Lister, who, in introducing the antiseptic methods in surgery rendered an inestimable benefit to England and to all mankind. I remember also that your hospital sent out some of the most distinguished of its staff to do generous work among the sick and wounded in the South African War. Your Committee's decision to abandon the whole building and to remove the scene of your labour to a poorer and more populous district, where the need for a hospital was great and the field for its work wider, was a bold step, but I believe it was a wise and right one, and I congratulate the medical and nursing staff on the great opportunity thus given them for increased usefulness. The generous response made to the Committee's appeal for funds shows how highly their decision has been appreciated by the public. I am glad that the fund associated with my name favoured the scheme in its inception and has given material assistance in carrying it out; and I am confident that other generous donors will come forward to supply the money needed to complete a spacious and well-equipped building. I can conceive no worthier object for benevolence than this.

I assure you of My continued interest in your Hospital, and of the sympathy with which I shall watch its future progress. I cannot doubt that the blessing of Almighty God will attend the work to be done by it in its new home."

Whitehall, July 30, 1909.

The following Address was presented to The King on Friday, July 23rd, on the occasion of Their Majesties' visit to the Royal National Orthopædic Hospital in Great Portland-street, for the opening of the new In-Patient Department of that Institution:—

May it please Your Majesties,

On behalf of the Committee and Governors of the Royal National Orthopædic Hospital we beg to tender our most heartfelt and respectful thanks for the appreciation of the work of this Charity which Your Majesties display in finding time to come here to-day for the purpose of formally opening our newly-completed buildings.

The sympathy of Your Majesties and all the Members of the Royal Family with every charitable and philanthropic endeavour is well known, and perhaps one of the most important features of it has been the establishment by Your Majesty of the King's Hospital Fund for the purpose of co-ordinating the work of the various special Hospitals and directing the flow of charity to the best advantage.

The Committee of Your Majesty's Hospital Fund, having realised that great economies of management might be effected by a policy of amalgamation amongst those special Hospitals carrying on similar work in London, urged the Committees of the old Royal, National and City Orthopædic Hospitals to amalgamate their funds and build a Central Institution.

This building, which Your Majesties are now about to open, and which has been constructed on the most approved lines of modern medical and sanitary science is the first realisation of this policy of concentration.

The Hospital provides for 200 In-patients, most of whom are children suffering from malformations, which can be cured in the early stages, but which, if not taken in time, will render them cripples for life.

In addition to the Hospital itself we have, across the road, a Nurses' Home and an Out-patients Department, where last year over 11,000 cases were treated, and where we have now installed a special gymnasium for orthopædic treatment.

The cost of these buildings has amounted to about £75,000, £20,000 of which is still required.

This matter is the more urgent as we have over 400 patients now waiting for admission.

The Committee remember with gratitude the kindly interest of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria who, for many years, gave Her Patronage to the Royal Orthopædic Hospital and granted a Royal Charter in 1864, while Your Majesty's own name was enrolled as a Life Governor as far back as 1850.

It is a great satisfaction and encouragement to all connected with this Institution that Your Majesty renewed the Royal Charter, in 1905, in favour of the Amalgamated Hospitals, and that the names of Your Majesties are at the head of the list of the Hospital's supporters as Patron and Patrons.

May we again express to Your Majesties our humble and most grateful thanks for the honour of Your visit here to-day, which we are confident will ensure the future prosperity of the Hospital, and the continuance and increase of its work among the poor.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you most sincerely on behalf of the Queen and Myself for the loyal expression of your appreciation of Our presence here to-day. I responded with much pleasure to your invitation to lay the foundation stone of the new buildings of the amalgamated Hospitals, in one of which My Beloved Mother, Queen Victoria, so long took a lively interest, and with which I Myself was associated for upwards of 50 years. The Queen wishes me to say that She takes a special interest in your work among crippled children, and She is glad of this opportunity of showing Her deep sympathy with your efforts to alleviate their lot.

"I rejoice to think that those who control the funds subscribed for the Hospitals of London are alive to the advantages of concentration. There can be no more striking example of the valuable services performed by the Committee of the Hospital Fund which bears My name than this amalgamation into one of three special Hospitals. Not only is money, which otherwise would have been spent on the upkeep of separate institutions, set free for the definite achievement of the objects for which the institutions exist, but the wider experience gained by collecting all the cases in one building is likely to be productive of valuable results in treatment.

"I trust that you will speedily be relieved of any anxiety in the matter of funds. You tell Me while your Hospital provides for 200 In-patients, more than 400 are now waiting for admission, and you point out most truly that early treatment is often the only means of rescue from a life of suffering and helplessness. I am sure there is no lack of generosity among those who are able to contribute to the support of such an institution as this, and that your pressing needs merely require to be brought home to the imagination of those who would be glad to give, did they but realise the urgent necessity for help. The cause of helpless little children makes a special call on the sympathy of all, and no words of Mine are required to commend the claims of an institution whose object is to restore suffering children to health and to enable them to live as useful citizens.

"It was with great pleasure that I renewed the Royal Charter on the amalgamation of the Hospitals, and I can assure you that the Queen and I will always take the warmest interest in the beneficent work of this institution, of which we are most happy to be patrons."

Whitehall, July 30, 1909.

The following Address was presented to the King on His Majesty's arrival at Wrest Park on Saturday, July 24th:—

To His Most Excellent Majesty King Edward the VII.

May it please Your Majesty,

We, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the borough of Bedford have the honour and privilege of presenting to Your Majesty on this Your visit to the neighbourhood of our ancient town our dutiful and loyal address.

We remember with pride and gratitude that nearly eight centuries ago municipal privileges were conferred upon our town by King Henry, the first of the line of great English Sovereigns, and that by successive charters extending from the reign of Henry the II to that of Charles the II the liberties and privileges so granted have been extended and confirmed.

We venture respectfully to felicitate Your Majesty upon the great and beneficent work in the cause of international peace which Your Majesty has been able to accomplish not only during the years of Your Majesty's auspicious reign but also for many years previously when Your illustrious and revered Mother was the Monarch of this Realm.

Representing as we do a centre of educational interest and progress (endowed by the munificence of Sir William Harpur) and spreading its influence throughout the length and breadth of Your Majesty's dominions we recall with respectful admiration the support and encouragement which Your Majesty has always given to the cause of the Higher Education of the youth of this country as well as to all other matters tending to the educational and social improvement of the conditions of life of the great body of Your Majesty's subjects.

We sincerely trust that Your Majesty may be long spared to continue and develop the beneficent influence of Your illustrious reign.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you for your loyal and dutiful Address.

"I am glad to have this opportunity of receiving you, the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of Bedford, and of assuring you that I feel no less interest in this ancient Borough than My Predecessors from whom it has, in earlier centuries, received so many marks of Royal favour.

"I congratulate you upon the signal instance of munificence to which you owe your famous Schools, and upon their present prosperity. I recognise how much those who have been trained in them have contributed both to the administration and to the defence of My Empire.

"I am glad that while your town retains the traditions and the institutions it has inherited from the past, it has, within recent years, exhibited a rapidly increasing prosperity, and that the advancing population contributes by its manufactures to the progress of the agricultural industry and to the defence of our country.

I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may still rest upon you.
