Whitehall, December 3, 1913.

His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal of the First Class to Joseph Campbell, and the Edward Medal of the Second Class to Alexander Farquharson, under the following circumstances:—

On the 7th February, 1913, an explosion of firedamp occurred in an old road at the Swin-hill Colliery, Larkhall. A fireman was known to have been at the place of the explosion and, on hearing of the accident, Campbell, a fireman, and Farquharson, a miner, rushed to the spot in the hope of rescuing him. Both men attempted to penetrate the road, but were driven back by afterdamp. Campbell made a second and third attempt, but without success. Then, remembering that a line of compressed air pipes led into the roadway and there was a blank flange on the end of them some distance away, the two men crawled in to the blank flange and unscrewed the bolts holding it in position. The afterdamp had not been cleared away, and Campbell's hands and legs became numbed by its effects; but he courageously stuck to his work till the flange was removed. A length of hose piping was then given to the men by others near, and air was passed through the pipes to clear away the afterdamp. Campbell then ran forward with the free end of the hose to the place where the fireman was supposed to be. After this, he was completely overcome, and had to be carried out.

The unfortunate fireman succumbed to the accident, but Campbell and Farquharson displayed very great courage in their gallant attempt to rescue their fellow workman under very dangerous conditions.

Joseph Crosfield and Sons, Limited, Warrington, given pursuant to the provisions of the above mentioned Act, of their intention to construct in Warrington and in Walton Inferior a transporter bridge across the River Mersey, in accordance with plans and sections deposited at this office, a copy of which notice is subjoined.

The present notice cancels that advertised in the London Gazette of the 6th June, 1913.

*A. Mostyn Field, Admiral,
Acting Conservator of the

To Admiral Sir A. Mostyn Field, K.C.B., F.R.S., Acting Conservator of the River Mersey.

In pursuance of an Act for better preserving the Navigation of the River Mersey (5 and 6 Victoria, cap. cx), we, Joseph Crosfield and Sons, Limited, Bank Quay, Warrington, Soap and Chemical Manufacturers, hereby give you notice that we propose to construct in Warrington, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, and in Walton Inferior, in the County Palatine of Chester, in accordance with plans and sections deposited at the office of the Mersey Conservancy in Westminster, a transporter bridge across the River Mersey, of the form, nature and extent shown on the plans and sections aforesaid.

The transporter bridge will be constructed and erected on a line which will be at or about a right angle to the line of the River Mersey, and the situation of the centre line of the bridge will be, on the easterly (or Warrington) side of the River Mersey, at a distance of 28 feet (measured in a southerly direction) from the south-westerly corner of the fence belonging to the St. Helens Cable and Rubber Company, Limited, and on the westerly (or Walton Inferior) side, near the centre of the Timber Wharf which was erected by and which belongs to us, Joseph Crosfield and Sons, Limited.

The object of the transporter bridge is to provide communication between works and factories belonging to and occupied by us on the two sides of the River Mersey. The abutments of the bridge will be constructed of brick work and concrete, and the super-structure will be of steel. The abutment on the easterly (or Warrington) side will project into the tidal waters of the River Mersey to the extent of 24 feet (measured from the line of high water on the Lancashire side of the river), and the abutment on the westerly (or Walton Inferior) side will project into these tidal waters to the extent of 21 feet (measured from the line of high water on the Cheshire side of the river).

The abutments of the bridge will exclude about 700 cubic yards of tidal water on a tide of the height of 21 feet, as measured from the level of the top of the sill of the Old Dock Gates in Liverpool. No other part or parts of the bridge will exclude tidal waters.

The work required for the construction of the transporter bridge will be commenced on or after the expiry of one calendar month from the date of this notice.
