

for the convenience and advantage of the public that the Horse Fair which has been held annually at Burton-upon-Trent on the 28th and 29th days of October should, commencing with the year 1914, be held on one day instead of two, namely, the 28th day of October; provided that if the 28th be a Sunday the Fair be held on the Monday following:

And whereas notice of the said representation and of the time when the same would be taken into consideration has been duly published in pursuance of the Fairs Act, 1873:

And whereas on such representation and consideration it appears to me that the holding of the said Fair on one day instead of two would be for the convenience and advantage of the public:

Now therefore I, as Secretary of State for the Home Department, in exercise of the powers vested in me by the Fairs Act, 1873, do hereby order that the Horse Fair which has been held annually at Burton-upon-Trent on the 28th and 29th days of October shall, commencing with the year 1914, be held on one day instead of two, namely, the 28th day of October; provided that if the 28th be a Sunday the Fair be held on the Monday following.

Given under my hand at Whitehall, this 10th day of December, 1913.
