

Distinguished Conduct Medals—Continued.

Regimental No.	Rank.	Name.	Corps.	Action for which commended.
19225	Lance-Corporal	Cole, F.	55th (Field) Company, Royal Engineers	For coolness and promptitude under heavy fire in the rescue of an officer and a non-commissioned officer who were buried and unconscious as a result of shell fire on a trench, and removing them to safety.
50662	Corporal ...	Cook, V. G.	16th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	For gallant conduct whilst continually employed on hazardous work in laying and repairing telephone wires in exposed places. This work materially assisted his batteries.
21156	Farrier Staff-Serjeant	Cook, W.	70th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	For conspicuous gallantry on several occasions in extricating wagon line transport whenever it has been shelled, which has frequently happened during late operations.
7871	Private ...	Coombes, W.	1st Battalion, Dorsetshire Regiment	For conspicuous gallantry on 12th October, when he carried a message to his regiment for over 300 yards, after he had been shot right through the chest by shrapnel bullet, which passed through his lungs and out at back.
8282	Private ...	Cooney, W.	2nd Battalion, Grenadier Guards	On October 21st, carried out duties of stretcher bearer in a conspicuously gallant manner, although twice wounded.
99493	Serjeant-Major	Cox, A.	122nd Battery, Royal Field Artillery	For exceptionally good service, and gallantry in bringing away wounded at Le Cateau on 26th August.
5259	Company Serjeant-Major	Crossley, F. J.	1st Battalion, Royal West Kent Regiment	For conspicuous and gallant service during 10 days in the trenches near Neuvechapelle.
28297	Bombardier	Culley, W.	70th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	For exemplary courage in conducting parties carrying ammunition to guns in action under severe shell fire at Givry on 23rd August.
2195	Private ...	Darlow, E.	1st Battalion, Royal Warwickshire Regiment	For great gallantry on 13th October in volunteering to go forward to a place where extreme danger was to be expected, and helping to bring in Major Christie who was dangerously wounded.
9645	Private ...	Davies, W.	2nd Battalion, West Riding Regiment	On 23rd October. For gallantry when with a patrol of cyclists under fire, although wounded himself, he helped to bring in another wounded man.
46797	Corporal ...	Deag, W. F.	60th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	Has frequently laid and repaired telephone wire under heavy fire, and has been in charge of battery telephones since commencement of the campaign. Has always performed his work very satisfactorily.
7689	Lance-Corporal	De Bell, A. D.	1st Battalion, Royal West Surrey Regiment	For bringing in wounded men under heavy fire and showing great coolness under trying circumstances.
54412	Driver ...	Dickerson, W.	6th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	At Audencourt, on 26th August, when the limber was upset, helped to hook into another limber and brought a gun away under heavy fire.
10517	Private ...	Doherty, J.	2nd Battalion, Royal Irish Regiment	At Vailly he repeatedly showed great coolness and gallantry in conveying messages under heavy fire.
640	Battery Serjeant-Major	Dryden, C.	60th Battery, Royal Field Artillery	Has constantly been employed in observation post and exposed to great danger. His work has been excellent and has materially assisted his battery.
6291	Serjeant ...	Duffy, G. S.	1st Battalion, South Wales Borderers	For gallantry and ability during the attack on 26th September, in which he was severely wounded.
4671	Corporal ...	Edwards, A. C.	20th Hussars, attached Royal Horse Guards	Shewed great gallantry and coolness on 6th November in taking messages under fire from patrol to squadron.