

2454 Pte. J. G. Cosson, 16/Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous good work by day and night as a patrol leader.

338 L./Cpl. F. G. Crisp, 1st Australian Light Horse Regt.

For conspicuous gallantry. He voluntarily went out by daylight and rescued a wounded man from within 20 yards of the enemy's trench.

556 Pte. A. Croft, 6/Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry when assisting to work his gun under heavy shell fire, thus rendering valuable assistance during an attack. The gun was hit and damaged by the enemy's fire.

211 Sjt. W. C. Foulsum, 2nd Fld. Coy., Australian Engrs.

For consistent good work and determination, frequently under shell fire.

1745 Pte. W. Goudemey, 2/Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry. With another private, who was killed, he assisted an Officer by holding up a machine-gun, which was being fired from their shoulders, until the gun was knocked out and the Officer wounded. Even then he continued to assist in repelling the enemy's attack.

1529 Cpl. W. M. Green, 24th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry in leading a party into an enemy trench. He drove out the enemy, killing one and wounding and capturing three others. By his prompt and courageous action he prevented an enemy attack from developing.

989 L./Cpl. F. Horan, 22nd Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry and good work, notably when holding a particularly isolated position. By his energy and skill he prevented the enemy gaining any information.

140 Sjt. E. H. Jackson, 3rd Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry on several occasions, notably when he laid a telephone wire across the open under heavy fire. He was also conspicuous during the capture and holding of a trench, where he held on till utterly exhausted. By his determination he ensured the retention of the trench.

171 L./Cpl. W. H. Kenny, 3rd Regt., 1st Light Horse Bde., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous good work throughout the campaign, frequently under shell fire.

2619 Sjt. J. B. Kirkwood, 13th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous good work as patrol leader by day and night in front of the line.

19 Cpl. J. M. MacDonald, 2nd Australian Light Horse Regt.

For conspicuous gallantry on several occasions, notably when he dressed wounded men during a heavy bombardment. He has been twice wounded while carrying out his duties.

1157 Pte. V. G. R. McDonald, 10th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry. He threw his greatcoat over a bomb and held it down till the bomb exploded, thereby probably saving several casualties.

472 Cpl. W. McNicol, 1st Divn. Ammunition Park, Australian Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a shell struck and ignited a stack of bombs he immediately tore off the tarpaulin covering and scattered the boxes of bombs, thereby saving a serious explosion.

157 Sjt. F. T. Newsom, 1st Fld. Coy., Australian Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and good work. He frequently supervised the construction and repair of trenches and parapets under heavy shell fire.

972 Pte. W. Nichol, 2nd Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry. With another private, who was killed, he assisted his Officer by holding up a machine-gun which was in action, till the gun was knocked out and the Officer wounded twice. He has always set a fine example.

1542 Sjt. M. J. O'Brien, 14th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous good work and zeal, notably in connection with engineering works.

4137 Cpl. J. A. Park, 4th Fld. Coy., Australian Engrs. (late No. 220, 3rd Fld. Coy.).

For conspicuous gallantry and good work on several occasions, notably when preparing and laying mines and arranging barricades. He also made gallant attempts to rescue men from a mine under most trying and risky circumstances.

969 Tpr. T. Renton, 10th Australian Light Horse Regt.

For conspicuous gallantry and coolness under very trying circumstances. He has done fine work and lost a leg as the result of wounds received in action.

2668 L./Cpl. W. C. Scurry, 7th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For conspicuous ability and good work, especially in regard to a device for firing rifles automatically.

222 Cpl. J. Shaw, 4th Fld. Coy., Australian Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry. He repeatedly entered the tunnel of a mine in his efforts to rescue men overcome from the effects of an explosion. He continued this gallant work although suffering badly from the fumes.

1196 S./M. H. E. Wawn, 11th Bn., Australian Imp. Force.

For general gallantry and good work during the campaign.