

for several of the enemy with his revolver. Finally, he assisted to cover the withdrawal, and was the last to return to our trenches.

Temp. Lt. Francis Roland Keeble, 13th Bn., Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a successful raid. He was the first man into the enemy's trench and shot three of the enemy before he was wounded.

Lt. Thomas Norman Cameron Kemp, 1st Bn., 9th Gurkha Rif., Ind. Army.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading his company to the assault under heavy rifle and machine-gun fire. After reaching his objective he consolidated the position, and later organised an attack on two hostile guns 400 yards to his front, and captured them taking two officers and twenty men prisoners.

Temp. Lt. Hugh Cowell Kinred, 14th Bn., Glouc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a bomb thrown by the enemy fell at his feet in the trench, he at once threw himself on it, and was blown into the air and much bruised and cut by the explosion, his life being saved by his steel waistcoat. His plucky action saved many casualties.

Temp. Lt. Edward Ernest Knight, 7th By., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry on several occasions, notably as forward observing officer, working under heavy fire.

Lt. Ernest Henry Latter, 5th Can. Infy. Bn.

For consistent gallantry and good work, notably when he handled his men with great coolness and judgment during a heavy bombardment, and carried three wounded men across a wide breach in the parapet under fire from snipers.

Lt. Henry Scott Manisty, R.E., Spec. Res. (attd. 84th Fd. Co.).

For conspicuous gallantry during a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. With a N.C.O. and three sappers he destroyed two dug-outs and an observation post. When counter-attacked he shot the enemy leader. Finally he brought in four prisoners after loading one with enemy material. He was wounded.

Temp. Lt. Mungo McKerrow, 11th Bn., Bord. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading a successful raid into the enemy's trenches. He personally accounted for many of the enemy, and controlled his men throughout with great coolness and skill.

Temp. Lt. Douglas Walter Milne, 11th Bn., R.W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. He was selected with eight men to demolish a hostile post in a ruin within 60 yards of the enemy firing line. He skilfully blew up the ruin and led his men back without casualty.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Terence Petty Muspratt, 3rd Bn., Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. Though badly wounded he refused to leave his post. He showed great determination and carried on his duty for four hours. The situation became quieter, and he then went to the dressing-station.

Temp. Lt. Geoffrey Gay Nanson, 3rd Siege By., R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. A four-horse wagon having been blown by shell fire into a ditch, Lt. Nanson collected a party and under shell fire extricated a wounded driver, whose head was just above water, from among the kicking horses. This officer has on previous occasions done splendid work as observer.

Lt. William O'Brien, 1st Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry during an enemy counter-attack. His coolness and the fearless way in which he exposed himself in order to encourage his men were largely responsible for the orderly withdrawal which took place.

Temp. Lt. Charles Cyril Okell, No. 6 Fd. Amb., R.A.M.C.

For gallant conduct in frequently leading a bearer division over shell-swept ground. His bravery and good example greatly assisted in the removal of all our wounded.

Temp. Lt. Eric Oldham, 22nd (S) Bn., Manch. R.

For gallant conduct when in command of a raiding party which entered the enemy trenches, bombed six shelters and brought in prisoners.

Lt. Robert Wynyard Powell, 4th Fd. Coy., Canadian Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry. When in charge of a working party he carried on his work during several days and nights with the greatest coolness under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire and frequent bombing attacks. He assisted the wounded and set a fine example to his men. He was himself twice wounded during this period.

Temp. Lt. Harold Quest, 14th Bn., York. and Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. Though wounded at the outset he stuck to his post and led his party, personally accounting for one of the enemy. On the withdrawal he remained with two other officers till all the party had left the trench, and later assisted in bringing in the wounded.

Lt. John David Rogers, 6th Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For conspicuous gallantry and determination during a raid on the enemy's trenches. He guided the attack, arranged for passing the wire, and cleared the track for the withdrawal. Some formidable wire was found in a depression in the ground, but he skilfully prepared a sufficient gap in it. His coolness conduced much to the success of the raid.

Temp. Lt. Robson Wilson Rotherford, 22nd Bn., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. In spite of heavy casualties in his bombing party, he himself being bruised by shrapnel, he made
