Whitehall, March 5.

This Day was Solemnized the Funeral of Her late Majesty Queen Mary II. of Blessed Memory, from the Royal Palace of Whitehall to the Collegiate Church of St. Peter Westminster, all the Way being Boarded, Railed in; and Covered with Black Bays. The Proceeding began with the Knight-Marshals Men and Deputy, Three hundred Poor Women in Mourning Gowns and Hoods, after whom followed the Banner of Union, several Claſſes of Their Majesties Servants, the Children and Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal, more of Their Majesties Servants, Chaplains to Their Majesties; Aldermen of London; others of Their Majesties Servants; The Lord Mayor of London; The House of Commons in long Clokes, with their Speaker, and the Mace borne before him, and his Train carried up, and the House of Peers in their Robes, with their Speaker the Lord Keeper, having the Mace and Purſe borne before him, and his Train carried up; The Banners of Cheſter, Cornwall, and Wales, borne by the Lord Spencer, the Lord Willoughby of Eresby, and the Lord Viſcount Longueville; The Banners of Ireland and Scotland by the Earls of Montrath and Selkirk; The Banners of England and France quarterly, of England, and the Great Banner, borne by the Earl of Denbigh, the Earl of Stamford, and the Earls of Bridgwater and Suffolk; Then followed the Mourning Horſe led by the Lord Viſcount Villers Maſter of the Horſe to Her late Majesty, attended by two Equerries; The Helmet and Creſt, Target and Sword, and Surcoat of Arms, borne by Officers at Arms, followed by the Lord Marquis of Wincheſter Lord Chamberlain to Her late Majesty; Then the Queens Body in a Purple Velvet Coffin, with a rich Cloth of Gold Pall, and thereon the Crown, Orb, and Scepters on a Cushion, one of the Queens Bed-Chamber Women ſitting at the Feet, and another at the Head, in an open Chariot, richly Adorned, drawn by Eight Horſes cloſe covered with Purple Velvet, and Adorned with Eſcutcheons and Feathers, Six Bannerolls on each ſide borne by Barons, the Pall being ſupported by the Earls of Derby and Kent Lord Marquis of Normanby Dukes of Northumberland Somerset and Norfolk. The Duchefs of Somerset Chief Mourner, ſupported by the Lord Privy Seal and the Lord Preſident of His Majesty's Council, the Duchefs of St. Albans and Souchampton Supporters to the Train, aſſiſted by the Queens Vice-chamberlain; Aſſiſtants of the Chief Mourner were two Duchefs, 12 Counteſſes, and 4 Baroneſſes, then the Ladies of the Bed-chamber, then the Maids of Honour, then the Bed-chamber Women, all in the deepeſt Mourning, according to their ſeveral Ranks. The ſeveral Parts of the Proceeding were attended by the Kings and other Officers of Arms, with Drums and Trumpers; and the whole cloſed with the Band of Gentlemen Penſioners, and Yeomen of the Guard; and when the Body was taken out of the Chariot at the Door of the Church, a Canopy of Purple Velvet was carried over it by the Gentlemen of the Privy-Chamber, and the Crown, Orb, and Scepters on the Cushion carried by Clarucus King of Arms. The Dean and Prebendaries with the Quire of Westminster attended at the Entrance of the Church, which was illuminated with a great number of Lights, and proceeded before the Body, which was deposited under a magnificent Mauſoleum, Erected in the middle of the Croſs of the ſaid Church, and there remained during the Service and Sermon Preached by the Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury; The Chief Mourner and the reſt of the Ladies that went in the Proceeding were placed about the Body; And the Houſe of Peers and the Houſe of Commons were ſeated on each ſide. After Sermon the late Queens Secretary and Treasurer, Maſter of the Horſe, and Lord Chamberlain, the Dean and Prebendaries of Westminster, and both Quires, with the Officers of Arms, and thoſe that bore the Achievements and Regalia, proceeded before the Body to King Henry VII. Chapel, which was attended only by the Supporters of the Pall, and followed by the Chief Mourner, her Supporters, and Supporters of her Train, and the Ladies, the reſt remaining in their places. The Dean of Westminster performed the Office of Burial, which ended, Garter Proclaimed the Royal Styles, and the Body was Interred in a Vault on the South ſide of the ſaid Chapel.

The Bells were tolled according to Order. The Guns at the Tower fired for three hours at a Minutes diſtance between every one. And Orders were given to all His Majesties Ships at the Buoy of the Nore and at Blackſtokes to fire their Guns the ſame day from 2 in the Afternoon till Sun ſet, in the manner practiſed at Funeral Solemnities.

Corunna, March 5. The Spaniſh Expedition Packet-Boat arrived here the 3d Inſtant from England. They write from Cadiz of the 7th of February, that ſeveral Ships were then coming into the Bay, which they believed to be the Viſtuallers from England; and the Letters from Madrid of the 23d ſay, that the Men of War and Merchant Ships laden with Proviſions and Stores for the Fleet, which failed from Spithead about the middle of January, were all arrived at Cadiz; Theſe Letters
