War Office,
25th November, 1918.

His Majesty the KING has been pleased to approve of the award of the Military Medal to the undermentioned Ladies for distinguished services in the Field as recorded:—

Miss Rosa Brain (S./Nurse), T.F.N.S.

For exceptional courage and devotion to duty during a hostile air raid, when bombs were dropped on the hospital. One of the bombs wrecked the hut in which she was on duty, and, with the greatest coolness, she attended to all the patients in the ward, though she herself was wounded.

Miss Evelyn M. Cridlan, F.A.N.Y.

For gallantry during a bombing raid by the enemy. This lady performed most efficient service in conveying the wounded to hospital during the raid. She showed complete disregard for her personal safety, and her conduct was an example to all.

Miss Gwendolyn Gerrish Peyton Jones (Serjeant), F.A.N.Y.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as a motor ambulance car driver during military operations. This lady was attached to a section of F.A.N.Y. working with the French Army, and in an emergency which arose was sent up to help to evacuate the hospitals, which were in danger of falling into enemy hands. She cleared a number of British and French wounded. During the next three days Miss Jones continued to assist in evacuating British and French from various dressing stations coming under heavy shell fire. During the time she was not actually driving her car this lady worked continuously, instead of taking necessary rest, and was of the utmost assistance to the British Field Ambulance personnel working in the hospital in obtaining particulars of the wants of the British wounded. Her courage and endurance in the face of danger won general admiration.

Miss Mary Devas Marshall, F.A.N.Y.

For gallantry and coolness during a bombing raid by hostile aircraft. After the first bomb had fallen Miss Marshall rallied the medical orderlies, who had become temporarily disorganised. Throughout the raid, in exceedingly trying and dangerous circumstances, she displayed the utmost disregard of danger, attending many serious wound cases which required skilful and immediate assistance. Although a number of bombs fell within 50 yards of the hospital, she remained at work throughout the whole raid.

Miss Rachel Gertrude Moseley, F.A.N.Y.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as a motor ambulance car driver during military operations. This lady was attached to a section of F.A.N.Y. working with the French Army, and in an emergency which arose was sent to help to evacuate the hospitals, which were in danger of falling into enemy hands. Later, when evacuating British and French wounded from the hospitals, she came under machine-gun fire from hostile aeroplanes, and her car was damaged by shell fire. For three days she continued to assist in clearing both British and French wounded from various dressing stations, again coming under heavy shell fire. During the time she was not actually driving her car she attended to the wounded at the hospital of evacuation, and for 72 hours consecutively assisted the British Field Ambulance personnel in obtaining particulars of the wants of the British wounded. Her courage and endurance in the face of danger were a fine example of English womanhood.

Miss Ellen Russell, F.A.N.Y.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as a motor ambulance car driver during the operations. This lady was attached to a section of F.A.N.Y. working with the French Army, and in an emergency which arose was sent up to help to evacuate the hospitals, which were in danger of falling into enemy hands. For several days she assisted in clearing both British and French wounded from the various dressing stations, coming under heavy shell fire. During the time she was not actually driving her car she gave valuable assistance to the British Field Ambulance personnel employed at the hospital of evacuation. Miss Russell worked for 72 hours consecutively helping in obtaining particulars of the wants of the British wounded. Her courage and endurance in the face of danger were a magnificent example to all.

Miss Christina Margaret Urquhart.
F.A.N.Y.

For gallantry during a bombing raid by the enemy. This lady performed most efficient service in conveying the wounded to hospital during the raid. She showed complete disregard for her personal safety, and her conduct was an example to all.
