

sion Fund and may add to it a sum deducted from the Tuition Fund, such deduction not to exceed £10 per centum in any year. The proceeds of any Advowsons which may be sold by the College and any property which the President and Fellows hold in trust for the purchase of advowsons may, if the President and Fellows think fit, be added to the capital of this Fund. The capital shall be invested from time to time in any securities in which Trust Funds may legally be invested. The income of the Fund, including the sums paid to it yearly from the corporate revenues and from the Tuition Fund, shall be applicable to the payment of pension; No pension shall be payable out of the capital of the Fund; and any pension of an earlier date shall be payable in priority to any pension of a later date." And in Clause 3 of the same Statute:—"The President and Fellows may also if they think fit, grant to any person who has served the College as Bursar for thirty years, or for a less period if he retires on account of sickness or infirmity, a pension which shall in no case exceed £200 a year."

And whereas in Statute XVI, Clause 2, it is enacted:—"In the year 1908, and in every succeeding year, the President and Fellows shall contribute the sum of £600 towards the emoluments of the Sibthorpean Professor of Rural Economy, or if they shall elect the said Professor to an ordinary Fellowship in the College, then so long as the Professor shall be a Fellow of the College, they shall contribute £400 a year to the emoluments of the Professor, in addition to the emoluments of his Fellowship."

"So soon as the amount of the corporate revenues of the College will permit, after satisfying the several charges and payments imposed or authorised by these Statutes, including the augmentation of the number of Open Scholarships to twelve, the said corporate revenues shall be further charged with the payment of an annual sum of £250, which shall be paid to the University, and shall be applied to such purposes connected with the Professoriate, or otherwise with the advancement of learning, science and research within the University as the University with the consent of the College, may determine."

And whereas it appears to us the President and Fellows of the said College that it is desirable that the said Statutes shall be altered and amended in manner hereinafter appearing:—

Now We, the President and Fellows of the said College, in exercise of the powers vested in us under and by virtue of the 54th section of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Act, 1877, do, by this present instrument under our Seal, alter and amend the Statutes of the said College as hereinbefore set out in manner following, that is to say:—

In Statute XV, Clause 1, by adding at the end of the Clause the words "If and so long as the income of the Pension Fund shall exceed £1,500 a year the whole or any part of the income remaining after payment of the pensions chargeable upon the fund may be transferred at the discretion of the College to the Tuition Fund; but such transference shall only be made at a stated General Meeting of the College."

In Clause 3 of the same Statute by substituting for the word "thirty" the word "twenty," and by omitting the words "which shall in no case exceed £200 a year," and by substituting for them the words "payable out of Corporate revenue which in no case shall exceed in amount £10 a year for each year of service."

In Statute XVI, Clause 2, by substituting for the figures "£600" the figures "£800," and by substituting for the figures "£400" the figures "£600," and in the second paragraph of the same Clause by substituting for the figures "£250" the figures "£300," and by omitting the remainder of the Clause following the figures "£250," and by substituting the words "which shall be paid to the University towards the stipend of the Professor of Forestry, or if the Professor shall be a Fellow of the College, they shall pay £100 to the University towards the stipend of the Professor."
