Whitehall, May 22, 1925.

The following Addresses were presented to The KING on Tuesday, the 19th instant, on the occasion of the opening by His Majesty of the Power House of the County of London Electric Supply Company, Limited, at Creeksmouth, Barking.

THE COUNTY OF LONDON ELECTRIC SUPPLY COMPANY LIMITED.

To

THEIR MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTIES THE KING AND QUEEN.

May it please Your Majesties :----

We, the Chairman and Directors of the County of London Electric Supply Company, Limited, desire to express our most grateful thanks for the signal honour your Majesties have conferred upon the Company, and upon the Electricity Supply Industry in general, by graciously consenting to attend here to-day to open the Electric Power House erected by the Company at Creeksmouth, Barking.

The County of London Electric Supply Company was one of the pioneers of electric power supply in the Metropolis. It began operations on a comparatively small scale thirty-one years ago and it has grown to be one of the largest Undertakings of its kind in the Kingdom.

Under the general legislation governing electric supply, the association of such enterprises as the County of London Electric Supply Company with neighbouring Under-takings was prohibited. We are happy to record, however, that in the London Elec-tricity (No. 1) Bill now being considered by Parliament, provision is made for the closest co-operation between the Company and the following Companies serving adjacent areas :the City of London Electric Lighting Com-pany, Limited, the South London Electric Supply Corporation, Limited, and the South Metropolitan Electric Light & Power Company, Limited.

This group of Companies serves a population of about 1,500,000 with an area of over two hundred and twenty square miles, comprising many important manufacturing districts, and extensive outer regions which require a cheap and abundant supply of electricity for their full industrial development.

In order that this essential service might be rendered to the Public, the erection of a Power House at Barking was decided upon by the County of London Electric. Supply Company many years ago, and it is the first Super-Power House constructed for supply to London. Ultimately, this Power House will comprise three sections, each of over one quarter of a million Horse Power, totalling three quarters of a million Horse Power, constructed at a total estimated cost of between eight and nine million pounds. The portion already erected forms half of the first section, and has, together with the main transmission system, involved an expenditure of approximately £2,500,000.

In general design and in every detail of its equipment the Barking Power House represents the most advanced methods for the cheap production of electricity on a large scale. The construction of the Power House
