ANGLO-MEXICAN REVOLUTIONARY CLAIMS CONVENTION.

A convention has been concluded between the British and Mexican Governments for the adjustment of pecuniary claims for losses incurred by British subjects in Mexico on account of revolutionary acts which occurred between November 1910 and May 1920.

Claims of this kind are to be submitted to a commission composed of a British, a Mexican and a neutral member. The commission will take cognisance of two classes of claims for damages arising from revolutionary action, viz., direct and indirect claims. Direct claims are for losses or damages suffered either directly by British subjects or by British companies directly holding the property affected. Indirect are those for losses or damages suffered by British subjects indirectly, i.e., by reason of their holdings in non-British companies operating in Mexico. In the case of indirect claims, it will be necessary, if the claim is to come before the Anglo-Mexican Revolutionary Claims Tribunal, that at least fifty-one per cent. of the interest in the non-British company in question shall have been held by British subjects at the time the damages were sustained. Such claimants must also produce documentary evidence from the company that the company make over to the claimants the proportionate share of the company's rights in the matter of damages.

The convention lays down that the losses or damages in respect of which the commission is to take cognisance of claims 'must have been caused during the period included between the 20th November, 1910 and the 31st May, 1920, inclusive by one or any of the following forces:

1. By the forces of a Government de jure or de facto;
2. By revolutionary forces which, after the triumph of their cause, have established Governments de jure or de facto, or by revolutionary forces opposed to them;
3. By forces arising from the disjunction of those mentioned in the next preceding paragraph, up to the time when a de jure Government had been established, after a particular revolution;
4. By forces arising from the disbandment of the Federal Army;
5. By mutinies or risings, or by insurrectionary forces other than those referred to under sub-divisions 2, 3 and 4 of this article, or by brigands, provided that, in each case, it be established that the competent authorities omitted to take reasonable measures to suppress the insurrections, risings, riots or acts of brigandage in question, or to punish those responsible for the same; or that it be established in like manner, that the authorities were blamable in any other way.

The Commission shall also deal with claims for losses or damages caused by acts of civil authorities, provided such acts were due to revolutionary events and disturbed conditions within the period referred to in this article and that the said acts were committed by any of the forces specified in sub-divisions 1, 2 and 3 of this article.'

From the above it will be seen that it is important that claimants should furnish as complete evidence as possible to establish the identity of the forces responsible for the acts giving rise to their claims.

It is to be noted that under the terms of the convention His Majesty's Government undertake not to present to the Mexican Government, otherwise than under the convention, any claims for losses or damages arising in the manner and during the period above mentioned. It is important that any British subjects or companies, with claims of this nature against the Mexican Government, should in their own interests at once communicate with the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs at the Foreign Office, drawing attention to any claims which they have already filed with the Foreign Office or with His Majesty's Legation or Consulate in Mexico City, and furnishing any further particulars which may appear necessary in the light of the above resumé of the terms of the convention. Any British subjects or companies, who have not yet formally filed with the Foreign Office or with His Majesty's Legation or Consulate in Mexico City a documented statement of their claim, should at once communicate with the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs at the Foreign Office giving as full particulars as possible."

Foreign Office,
March 31st, 1927.

Whitehall, April 1, 1927.

The KING has been pleased, by Warrant under His Majesty's Royal Sign Manual, to appoint Charles de Courcy Parry, Esq., C.B.E., late Chief Constable of Cumberland and Westmorland, to be an Inspector under the Police (Counties and Boroughs) Act, 1856.

Whitehall, March 18th, 1927.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal to George Edward Thorpe, George Gaunt, Thomas John Taylor and John Henry Perkins, in recognition of their gallantry in the following circumstances:—

On 7th January, 1927, a shaft 20 feet in diameter and 50 feet deep, was being sunk at Greenwich. Six men, including George Thorpe, were working at the bottom of the shaft under compressed air when an explosion occurred which blew off the top of the shaft and caused a heavy fall of timber and concrete. At the same time the water which before the explosion was held back by the compressed air, rapidly invaded the shaft. When the accident occurred, George Thorpe was partially sheltered from the falling material, but was rendered unconscious for a short time by the concussion. On regaining consciousness, he heard the cry of a companion, Martyn, who was pinned under fallen timber. Despite the fact that he was dazed by the explosion, and by the sudden release of air pressure, he left his shelter and held Martyn's head above the water until rescue came, preferring so to risk his life rather than to seek safety by climbing out of the shaft. He was all the time exposed to falling material and the water was rapidly flooding the shaft.

As soon as the explosion occurred, Gaunt, a foreman, Taylor and Perkins at once sought means to descend the shaft and finally, by improvising a ladder 40 feet long, reached the bottom. They succeeded in freeing Martyn and bringing him and Thorpe to the surface. Further descents were made in a vain search for the other four workers who were held down by wreckage and were submerged in the rising water. Martyn subsequently died from his injuries.

During the time they were engaged on the work of rescue debris was continually falling, and as the cause of the disaster was unknown so was it unknown whether the first explosion would not be followed by a second. They started rescue operations with great promptitude and embarked on a highly perilous enterprise in a calm and intelligent manner, with a total disregard for their own safety.

That the provisions of the Memorandum of Association of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce with respect to its objects be altered by inserting in Clause 3 of such Memorandum, after the existing sub-clause (5), the following new sub-clause, namely:—

(5a) To found scholarships and exhibitions to be held by or otherwise assist young persons desiring to train for commercial careers, and to accept donations and endowments for any such purpose, and to act as trustees, custodian trustees, or managers of any funds subscribed or donated for any such purpose, and generally to undertake and execute any trusts, the undertaking of which may be considered consonant with the other objects of the Association or otherwise desirable, and either gratuitously or otherwise. Provided that in case the Association shall take or hold any property subject to the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, or Board of Education, the Association shall not sell, mortgage, charge or lease the same without such authority, approval or consent as may be required by law, and as regards any such property the managers or trustees of the Association shall be chargeable for such property as may come into their hands, and shall be answerable and accountable for their own acts, receipts, neglects and defaults, and for the due administration of such property in the same manner and to the same extent as they would as such managers or trustees have been if no incorporation had been effected; and the incorporation of the Association shall not diminish or impair any control or authority exercisable by the Chancery Division, the Charity Commissioners, or the Board of Education over such managers or trustees, but they shall, as regards any such property, be subject jointly and separately to such control or authority as if the Association were not incorporated. In case the Association shall take or hold any property which may be subject to any Trusts, the Association shall only deal with the same in such manner as allowed by law, having regard to such trusts.
