Falmonth, February 22.

He 20th came in here the Griffin of London bound for the Barbado's, but between Plymouth and this place fine fprang a leak, which admitted for much water, that fine was with much difficulty and conftant plying of the Pumps, kept above water, having as they fear received much prejudice in her lading.

The 21th in flant came in the Meduie and Antegoe Merchant belonging to Newcafile, laden from Malaga with Wine and Fruit. She came out in company with 15 more, from whom the was leparated by ill weather.

Hull, Ecb. 23. This laft week by the violence of from were caft away three Veffels, one of the mounted off the Mouth of the Humber, the other two forced on flore, one to the Northwards, the other to the South of Humber, the men perifhing with their Veffels 3 which are suppoled to have been light Colliers intended for the Northwards. We have reports of feveral other Veffels which have run the fame fate, but as yet we have no accounts of particulars.

This Morning failed out of Humber 15 or 16 fhips laden from this place, whereof two bound for Retterdam, one for Rouen, another for Bourdeanx, and the reft for London.

Danszick, Feb. 16. From Warfam we are told, that the King Calimir had before his departure for Sokal received Letters from His Most Christian Majesty, granting him a Revenue of 50000 Livres in Benefices for his better supports and that immediately upon the receipt of them, he dispatched away a Courier for Rome, to defire Cardinal Orfini to prefs for a dispatch of the Popes Bulls for their fattlement.

They tell us, that the leveral Pretenders to the fucceffion of the Crown of that Kingdome, continue by their Fa-Rions to advance their leveral Interefts; but that thole of Rieuburgh and Lorrein proceed with fo much heat, that many Pamphlets have been foread abroad to their mutual prejudice.

The Kingdom feems much divided in their judgements as to the Blaction, and feveral of the Preparatory Dietw are already ended; the Deputies not having been able to agree upon the Points which are to be propoled to the General Convention. The People of Sandomir and Cracevy feem most inclined to favour the Prince of Conde, Great Poland feems as zealous for the Duke of Nieuburgh, and Tythuania and the Frontiers for the Muscovite.

Several perfons have lately fhewn th it referitment, that the King Cafimir fhould fill keep the Title of Majefly 5 though the States General were pleafed to allow it him in the Act for the fettlement of his Penfion : and 'tisfaid, the States of Samogitia have declared him uncapable of refuming the Crewn upon a new Election.

Verice, Feb. 16. This week, by the way of Corfu, and from other patts, we are adv icd of the fafe arrival at Candia of two of our Convoys, one under the Command of the Noble Nicolo Zane, whereon was embarked great quantities of Ammunition and a confiderable fumme of Moneys; and the other conducted by Segnior Giacomo Contarini, with Men, Moneys, and Ammunition, to the great hopes he had of being able in little time to have given his Mafter a good account of that place; in which he now meets with fresh difficulties. They farther tell us, that the Garrison by this addition being encreased to Twelve thousand men, resolved to give the Turks fome proof of their Courage, and accordingly drawing together the greatest part of their whole force, divided it into two Bodies, and made a double fally upon the Turks, and at the same time springing a large Mine which fired with much terror and execution upon the Enemy, falling upon thethi with so much fuddenness and surprize, that they quickly beat them from their Posts and pursued them with extraordinary flaughter as far as the River Giosfiro, returning into the Town with much triumph and with all the Enemies Guns which were planted upon their Battery of Priuli; having in this dayes service killed about Five thousand Tu ks, and have now leisure given them to repair their breaches cauled by the Enemies Mines and Cannon.

We are farther told, that forme of the Christian Privateers had taken in the Archipelago feveral Saichsladen with Corn, Rice, and other Provisions, bound for Canea, for the relief of the Turks Army; which they had fince brought into Candia, where by reason of the great plenty of all things, they were obliged to fell them at very reasonable prices.

From Dalmatia we are informed, that the Turks are there preparing for action, and 'tis believed defign to lay fiege to. Cattaro, where they are already proceeding to block up the River 3 but to prevent them in their intentions, the Senare are haftning away fome Companies of Foot and quantities of all forts of Provifions for its defence, with able Engineers for its better fortification; and have ordered feveral of their armed Veffels to pais thither for the fecurity of the Channel.

They farther tell us, that General Priuli having intelligence that Five hundred Turks Horfe and Foot, drawn out of Erfegouine and Boffina, were under an able Captain marching with fome defign upon the people about Matafca; ordered a firong party of Haydukes to lie in ambuft for them upon the way, who for well acquitted themfelves of their Charge, that falling fuddenly upon the Turks, after a flort refiftance they routed them and purfued them with much execution; taking moft of their Horfes, and returning with much plunder and fome prifoners, and amongft them four of their Captains.

The Grand Segnior being fully refolved to give us a ftrong diversion this Summer in Da'matia, has ordered all the Militia which can be spared 'out of his Garrisons in Hungary and Transivania, under the command of five of his bassis, to march for that service; in which he intends also to employ Ten thousand Tartars, and has ordered great quantities of Provisions to be in readines's to attend them.

Yesterday the Convoy of Bleven Ships defigned for the farther fuccors of Candia, under the command of Segnior Giovanni Morofini, fai'ed with a fair wind; with hich went also the Marquils Eorri, the Count Veterani, the Chevalier Altouifi, and fome other Perfons of eminent qualiy, to fignalize their valour in the defence of that place, 25 Volunteers.

Thoulon, Feb. 18, Here is lately arrived the Duke of Reanney from Candia, having teit the Count de St. Paulbehind him at Maltha, fomewhat indifpofed 3 which at prefent detains him. They left Candia clo'ely prefied by the Turks, and in earneft expectation of a powerful affiftance from the united force of the Chriftian Princes; without which it must in few moments be obliged to fubmit to the force
