From the Imperial Camp near St. Antonio,
June 12. N. S.

ON the 8th Instant, about break of day, Prince Eugene of Savoy went from hence to view the Country, and Count Guido of Starckenberg was sent to view the River from this Place upwards as far as la Chiufa. The same day, half of Count Taaff's Regiment of Cuirassiers, and 4 new-raised Companies of Foot, which are to be added to Count Guido of Starckenberg's Regiment, arrived in our Camp. The French continue in their Post at Rivole, and make frequent Marches and Countermarches, and are continually alarmed by the Body of German Forces posted at Hala, under the Command of General Gutenstein. The 9th, Prince Eugene returned higher, having viewed the Country from Count Paiff's Camp as far as Legnano, and 10 or 12 Miles downwards as far as Bagio and Casfel-Baldo, and having also observed the Enemy's Posts on the other side the River. This day some of our Men and the French fired on each other from the Banks of the River, and several were killed and wounded. The French give out, that in case the Germans pass the Adige, they will cut the Banks of that River, and put the Country under Water; whereupon Prince Eugene sent Count Vicouisi to represent to Proveditore-General Molino, who is at Verona, that the Imperialists could do the same, but would do nothing to prejudice the Country, and that 'tis contrary to the Neutrality to permit the French to put this Design in execution, and upon the whole to desire his speedy Answer, that he might take his Measures accordingly. The 10th, Major-General Serini marched from hence with a Regiment of Cuirassiers, to join Count Paiff. We have Intelligence, that the French are posted in several places on the other side the River, and have a Camp below Legnano, but often change their Post. The 11th, some Deserters came from the Enemy's Camp, who report, that greater numbers would come over to us, but that they are stopp'd at Verona, and sent back to their Camp. Proveditore-General Molino returned an Answer to Prince Eugene, concerning the French designing to cut down the Banks of the Adige. That he had sent an Account of it by Express to the Senate, because no greater Security could be had of their forbearing to do it, than the Promise of the French and Spanish Ministers at Venice; to which Prince Eugene returned a second Message, That if things were brought to that Extremity, he could, in cutting the Banks, do the French as much Prejudice as they could do the Germans, and that the Venetians would be sure to suffer. Prince Eugene reviewed the Regiments of Cuirassiers of Taaff and Lorissin, and found them in a very good Condition; and we had Advice, that the last Battalion of Mansfeld, as well as the 6 Troops of Comarici, are arrived at Riva. This morning, by break of day, Prince Eugene went from hence several Miles downwards to view the River. We had Advice, that the French have got above 30 Boats in their Camp, which were brought up in Waggon from Mantua, to be made use of for making a Bridge over the Adige. 'Tis said, that the Troops of Savoy are arrived in the Milanese, and that to facilitate their March, the Duke has received 150000 Crowns. Advice came this day from Count Gutenstein, that he had sent out a Lieutenant-Colonel with 100 Men, to view the French Detachment at Monte-Baldo, who gave Notice thereof to the French Camp at Rivole, and two Battalions were sent from thence to their Assistance, but the Germans had no Design to push the Matter farther. Count Gutenstein adds, that 25 Deserters came to his Camp by the way of Tochale, but brought no News, having left the French Army several days before; And several Deserters come over to us daily. The River is very much fallen within these few days.

Venice, June 17. Our last Letters from Verona give an Account, that the Imperial Army continued encamped near that Place, and Count Paiff near Cologna, where they expected more Forces from Germany by the way of Bassano, and in the mean time were gathering together a great number of Boats and a quantity of Timber, in order to make a Bridge over the Adige; And fresher Advices say, that 5000 Imperial Foot and 3000 Horse had already passed the River, about 15 Miles below Legnano. 'Tis said, the French are laying a Bridge over the Adige at Gossolingo. The French Soldiers having committed several Disorders in the Venezueze, the Prince of Vaudemont has been oblig'd to pay 2000 Crowns by way of Satisfaction to the Inhabitants. The Emperor's Ambassador had Audience yesterday of the Senate.

Mittaw, June 13. Advice being come, that a Body of Swedish Forces, under the command of General Reinschold, are advanced in the Neighborhood of Cockenhausen, Major-General Robell is gone from hence to command the Garrison there, and 5 Saxon Regiments are passed the Dwina in order to cover that Place. Prince Lewis of Baden will command this Army; and under him, the Emperor has appointed the Count de Seiffons, Brother to Prince Eugene of Savoy, to be General of the Artillery, Baron Zandt to be Lieutenant-General of the Horse, and Count Frise to be Lieutenant-General of the Foot. The Employments of President of the Council of War, and of Governor of this City, vacant by the Death of Count Starckenberg, are not yet disposed of.
