The Fight lasted near 12 Hours, (during which time nothing was to be seen but Blood and Fire,) and night coming on, and the Germans being deprived of the Advantage of receiving any Succours, and believing the French would draw together the Troops they had at Boxoo, Gazole, Casid Maggiore, and the Neighbouring Towns, to cut off their Retreat, Prince Eugene thought he to retire, which he did with great Order, and without any Parsiti trom the French. This Action cost us about 300 Men; among the Slain are reckoned Count Lemingen, Baron Freshorth Lieutenant Colonel of Horse, and some other Officers; and among the Wounded are Count Merci, and Count Konssien Lieutenant Colonel of Foot, the last of whom was so dangerously Wounded, that he was left behind in the Town.
