The Enemy, by the favour of the night, retired farther off, and abandoned several Posts, leaving every thing that was there, and intrenched themselves in such a manner, that it was impossible to attack them a second time, as the it was impossible to attack them a second time, as the Prince intended; however, he was encamped within Musket-shoe of them, and was playing upon them with his Cannon when the News came away. We have not yet the Particulars of the Loss on either side in this Action, so glorious to Prince Eugene and the Emperor's Forces under his Commandibut as far as could be judged the Imperialists may have lost about 2000 Men, among whom is the Prince of Commerci, whose Death is extreamly regreted, and the Loss of the French may amount to 7 or 8000. mount to 7 or 8000.
