

had died from the injuries he had sustained. Bobbett was exhausted and had to be taken home by ambulance.

Unfortunately a few weeks after this incident Bobbett himself sustained a fatal injury at the Colliery.

Whitehall, June 16, 1949.

The KING has been pleased to award the Edward Medal to Robert Joseph Bradley in recognition of his gallantry in the following circumstances:—

On the 28th January, 1949, at 3.10 p.m. a man jumped beneath an oncoming train at Swiss Cottage Underground Station. After the train had stopped, the injured man was found to be lying in the "suicide" pit beneath the third coach of the train. This pit is some two feet deep. The electric current was switched off and the station foreman, Mr. Robert Joseph Bradley, aged 28, volunteered to climb under the train to protect the man who was conscious and shouting and struggling. Shortly after Mr. Bradley had reached the injured man the electric current was restored with the intention of moving the train, but at this point the man's struggles became worse and ten minutes in fact elapsed before the train could be moved. After the train had been drawn over the men a further two or three minutes went by before the current was switched off once more.

Throughout this period Mr. Bradley was lying on his side endeavouring to hold down the injured man. His position was such that his back was never more than six inches from a live rail, contact with which by either man might have proved fatal to both. The man's struggles continued throughout most of the period of fifteen minutes that Mr. Bradley was with him and while the train was being passed overhead he bit Mr. Bradley on the right forefinger.

The man later died in hospital from his injuries.
