Geneva, June 13. N. S.

OUR Letters from France which came in yesterday give an Account, That the Malecontents in the Sevaines had lately engaged with some of the French King's Troops, of whom they killed 6 or 700, with the Loss of no more than 100 Men on their side: After this Action they advanced towards Asis, and about a Village near that Place, whereof the Marshal de Montrevel being informed, he sent out a strong Detachment after them, but they were retired before the French King's Forces could come up with them. They make Executions as far as the very Gates of Nismes.

Zurich, June 13. The General Diet of the Swiss Cantons, which was assembled at Basel, broke up yesterday, having, upon the instances of the Imperial Minister, refused to defend the Towns of Constance, Philipshild, and Freiburg, and the Frickish, and as for the Places situated on the other side of the Lake of Constance, the Cantons of Zurich and Berne, and the Aubot de St. Gall, have ordered 1000 Men to be put into them, and refused to add more Forces, if it be needful. They write from Basel, that most of the French Equipages, particularly that of the Marquis de Blainville, which were gone to Schwabshusen, in order to proceed to the French Army under the Marshal de Villars, are returned to Basel, not daring to go forward for fear of the Imperial Parties, which are frequently making Executions in those Parts.

Ratisbona, June 13. The Elector of Bavaria has published a Manifesto, wherein he endeavours, in the first Place, to justify his Contest, to repudiate the Diet's late Declaration of War, in the name of the Empire, against France and Spain, and their Adherents, as forced and illegal, and the Proceedings of the House of Austria against the Elector of Cologne, and the Houses of Saxony and Munich, as arbitrary, and contrary to the Constitutions of the Empire, then declares War against that House, and such Princes and States of the Empire as are in Confederacy against him. And in the last place commands all his Subjects to return into his Service on pain of Death, notwithstanding the Emperor's Avocation. This Manifesto was printed at Munich the first Instant, and has been sent to Monsieur Zurich, the Bavarian Minister, who has also received another Instrument, which he delivered in to the Diet this morning, acquainting them, That the Elector will no longer think himself obliged to evacuate this Town, till the Emperor's Ratification of the Conclusion made by the Diet for its Neutrality should arrive; however he assures the Protestant Ministers residing here, That they shall enjoy all Security and Freedom in this Place, which Advantages he hopes they will accept, and desire nothing farther. The French Army commanded by the Marshal de Villars came the 10th Instant near the River Bunte, and encamped in a Town of that Name and Gondelshingen, and was still in the same Place on the 15th. The Count de Saxon did also continue in his Camp at Great Siefen, near Goringen; but we suppose that Prince Lewis has joined him since this time in Person, and that they are moved nearer the Enemy. Lieutenant-General Schellenberg, who was going from Munich to Ulm, to take possession of the Government of that Place, was surprized the 15th Instant by a Party of Hussars near Gutzberg, and taken Prisoner. The Troops of Brandenburg, under the Command of the Margrave of Barck, have again blocked up Rothenberg, and have plundered Lauterbachshusen; the Bavarian Troops in their turn retiring with Precipitation from the Neighbourhood of Rothenberg towards Amberg, where, it is said, a Body of them will remain to observe the Margrave's Motions, and another will be detached towards the Isar, where a little Army is gathering together, to be commanded by the Elector in Person, who, with the Count d'Arco, was on the 15th at Rossmunich, with the Place of general Rendezvous, from whence it is thought he will march to attack Kueffstain, on the Borders of the Country of Trol; And we have had Reports, that 15000 French Forces had passed through the Elronse, and were arrived near Trent, to favour the Elector's Design of making an Irruption into that Country; but we are advised of the contrary by Letters from Bruxel of the 7th Instant, and from Trent of the 10th: The Count de Solari, who commanded in Passau, having left only 12000 Men in that Garrison, is marched with the rest of the Imperial Forces there to join the Count de Soltitz near Brachenow, in order to advance towards the Brandenburgian Army, and keep a watchful Eye upon its Motions.

From the Camp at Stollhoffen, June 13. We hear a Conspiracy has been, by great Providence, lately discovered at Landau, for delivering that Place into the hands of the French, wherein 7 or 8 Persons were concerned, among whom was one of their Burgomasters; They were all seized, and sent Prisoners to Philipsbourg. The Duke of Burgundy is at present encamped at Lampgenbanel, having advanced thus far, in order to the putting this Design upon Landau in execution; But it being now discovered, it is not believed that he will undertake the Siege of that Place; and this opinion is confirmed by the French Forces ravaging the Country round about, which is not a Sign that they design to continue there; and it is thought they will retire towards Strasbourg.

From Prince Lewis of Baden's Camp at Siefen, June 19. Prince Lewis arrived here yesterday, and has reviewed the several Regiments, which he finds in a very good condition. General Ruffin went East from hence this day to the Army commanded by the Margrave of Barck, which lies encamped near Nuremberg. A Party of 70 of our Hussars met lately with a French Adjutant, who was on his way to Langelsburg, whom they took Prisoner with his servants; they had with them 30 Horses, and 5000 Florins in Money.

Hopstberg, June 19. The French Army under the Duke of Burgundy is encamped at Langenkamml; It is said to consist of 24 Battalions, and 36 Squadrons, making in the whole about 20000 Men, having with them 50 Field-Pieces, 10 Pieces of heavy Cannon, and 6 Mortars. They have begun to demolish our Lines between Croonweissenburg and Lauterburg; and in all appearance, when they have finished that Work, will march back towards Strasbourg; not being in a condition to attempt the Siege of Landau, where there is a Garrison of 5000 Men, besides 3000 Horses, and 50 Troops of Hussars, who are encamped under the Cannon of that Place.

From the Camp at Haneß, June 25. Major-General Inglashy, with his Grace the Duke of Grifon, Brigadier-General Hamilton, the Earl of Parrimore, and several other Officers, with near 600 Recruits and Soldiers who had been left sick in Garrison, arrived here the 15th Instant. The Enemy continue in their former Camp, from whence great numbers of Deserters come over to us daily with their Arms, and many of them with their Horses and Accoutrements. We are hourly expecting an Account that our Troops are in Action towards Flanders, where we have an Army of near 30000 Men; and in the mean time we are making the necessary Dispositions for a March, in order to oblige the Enemy to decamp.

Amsterdam, June 25. We hear the Count de St. Paul is sailed out of Dunkirk with 4 Men of War, and some Privateers; and it is said they have been seen off the Texel. Letters from Switzerland say, the Malecontents in the Sevaines had been joined by a great number
