Vienna, August 1. N. S.

AN Express is arrived here with Letters from the Count de Guitt nsteyn, giving an Account, That the Elector of Bavaria has left the Country of Tirol, having been as sudden in his Retreat as he had been in his Invasion. The Advantage gained at Landeck by the Peasants, over a Detachment of his Forces, having encouraged the rest of the Inhabitants of those Parts; several Hundreds of them got together by the 16th of the last Month, under the Command of the Baron of Heindel, Major of General Geschwind's Regiment, who had with him a few Huntsmen, and about 3 or 400 Regular Troops: With this mixt Body he marched along the Ion, and on the 20th arrived at Franstein and St. Martin's, not above two Leagues from Inspruck, and immediately sent to view the Posts of Lecitafch and Scharnitz; The same evening the Peasants surpris'd the former of those Places, and took the Garrison Prisoners of War. The next a Party of 140 Bavarian Foot and Dragoons, who were posted at Cziertl, a little above Inspruck, to cover the Bridge near that Place over the River Ion, were surrounded by the Peasants, and all cut off except the Officers and 74 private Men, who had Quarter given them. After this Success the Major advanced towards Scharnitz, the most important Pass between Tirol and Bavaria, whereof he made himself Master the same day, without any great Loss, and found there 22 Pieces of Cannon, whereof 4 have the Elector's Arms on them. On the 22d another Party of Soldiers and Peasants recok the Town and Castle of Rustenburg, where the Governor was taken Prisoner; and here are Reports, that the Town and Castle of Kneuffen have also been recovered after the same manner. The Elector in the mean time was moving another way, having marched from Inspruck on the 20th with the best part of his Troops, intending (as it is supposed) to force his way to Brizzen, and so further on to Italy, through the Luge Pass, or over the Mount Brenner. On the 23d his Electoral Highness began to intrench himself near the top of that Mountain, upon notice that the two Imperial Major's General, the Counts of Gutensteyn and Solari, were in motion towards Stertzing with 5 or 6000 Regular Troops, who being advanced near to his Camp on the 24th, examined the Situation of it, and were disposing all things for an Attack the day following; but the Elector did not think fit to run the hazard of a Battel, and to avoid it retired early the next morning with great Disorder and Precipitation, having left behind him most of his Tents as they stood, with his Plate, and several Wagon Loads of very good Booty, which fell to the share of the Imperial Troops, and the Peasants who accompanied them. On the 26th the Count of Gutensteyn marched on to Murray, and the Elector fell back to Inspruck; but not thinking himself safe there, he decamp'd the 27th, by 10 in the morning; and the same evening the Count of Gutensteyn possid'd himself of that Capital City with two or three Battallions. His Letters are dated from thence that same night, and he could give no further Account of what was become of the Elector, than that he had withdrawn his Troops from Hall, and the other Places thereabouts, and would probably force his Passage by Scharnitz, it being the nearest way to his own Country. Here are Reports, that Major Heindel disput'd the Passage with him for 6 hours near St. Martin's-Mtn., with great Loſs on both sides, but was at last overpowered by Numbers; so that the Elector got clear out of the Country of Tirol; of which last Circumstance we are expecting the further Particulars. On the other hand we hear that the Duke of Vendome is got to the other end of Tirol with 20 Battallions and 22 Squadrons; Count Charles d'Arco having conducted them over the Mount Baldo by an unknown way. To stop this Irruption, Major-General Vaubann was again detached from the main Army in Italy the 17th with about 1800 Foot and Dragoons, and Major-General Solari had left the Count de Gutensteyn at Murray on the 26th, and was marching by the way of Braxen and Bolzano to Major-General Vaubann's Assistance with 3 or 4 Battallions more: So we expect to hear of some vigorous Action either towards Trent or in Southern Italy, General Stavrenberg by his last Letters seeming resolved to try his Fortune against the Prince of Vaudemont, Governor of Milan, who now commands the French Army in Italy, while the Duke of Vendome is separated from him with the choicest of his Troops.

Ratisbonne, August 6. According to our best Intelligence, the Elector of Bavaria was with the best part of his Army of the 3d Instant at Mitterwald, on the Frontiers of Tirol, between Scharnitz and Munich, in which Post, it is given out, that if the Posture of Affairs will permit it, his Electoral Highness intends to fly, to see the Success of the French Detachment in their March out of Italy, and what possibility there is of joining with them. The Bavarian Army, in their Retreat from Inspruck was closely followed by the Imperial Forces and Country People, who skirmish'd almost continually with the Enemy's Rear-Guard, and on the 29th put themselves on a Hill near Siefeld; whereupon Major-General Lutzelow was command'd out with a Detachment of Foot and Dragoons to attack them, which he did with such Success, that he killed about 400 of them, most of them belonging to the Regular Troops, took 200 Prisoners, and pursued the rest to Cziertl, near which Place they got over the Ion, and broke the Bridge down behind them. General Aechl, who was with another Body of Bavarian Troops near Kneuffen, fell upon the Peasants who were drawing together to besiege that Place, and oblig'd them to retire with the Loſs of about 500 Men, killed or taken Prisoners. The Troops which the King of Prussia has sent from the Lower Rhine, to reinforce the Imperial Army under Prince Lewis of Baden, have join'd it. Both the Imperial and the French Armies continue still in their former Camps on the Danube.

Franc.

Frankfort, August 9. The French Army commanded by the Duke of Burgundy is still in the same Camp, and has not yet made any motion that might give some light whereby to discover his Designs; but all the Letters from the Imperial Lines at Seckhoffen and Biehl agree, that they are in to good a condition of Defence, that we are without any Apprehensions on that side, and accordingly the Dutch Troops under Major-General Gode, which had been commanded to halt at Surgart, in order to have returned into the Lines in case there had been any danger, have since received Orders to continue their March to Prince Lewis's Camp: His Highness has detached 2 Battalions of the Troops of the Circle of the Upper Rhine, to reinforce General Thungen, and they came the 7th Instant to Pforzheim, in their March to the Lines. The French themselves own that they lost 300 Men in the late Action near Munderkingen, among whom are reckoned Monsieur du Heron, a General Officer, who was formerly Envoy from the French King in Poland, and 100 Officers more. Prince Christian of Hanovers Body, who lost his Life in this Occasion, has since been found in the Damude, with two Musket-Balls in his Head; He commanded the Left Wing of the Imperials, and behaved himself with the greatest Gallantry; and in the Retreat, endeavouring to swim over the River on Horse-back, he received those Wounds: His Death is very much lamented. Prince Lewis of Baden has sent Monsieur de Bienenbourg Express to the Elector of Aleux, to acquaint him that the Elector of Bavaria was returning from Tirol, in order to rejoin the Marshal de Villar, having but 5000 Men left of the 17000 he carried out with him. General Solar is marching against the Duke of Vendosme, with a Detachment of 3000 Men from Torol. The Town of Gunsbourg is accidentally destroyed by fire, and a great Number of French and Bavarian Officers, and Soldiers who lay sick in that Place have perished in the Flames.

From the Camp at Oplinter, August 13. Our Army having continued ever since the 8th Instant at Borthleim, while the Artillery and other Necessaries for the Siege of Huy were embarking at Masfricht, decamped between two and three of the Clock this morning, to avoid marching in the heat of the day, and came to this Camp, the Right whereof is at Opheer, and the Left at Borch; waorn, alias Warein. To morrow we shall continue our March towards Tourinme. The Cannon, with the Ammunition, &c. designed for this Siege, being all embarked yesterday, came up the River this day, with a Guard of 3 Battalions of the Garison of Masfricht; to Liege, where they are to be joined this evening by a Battalion out of that Garison, and 6 Battalions, with 10 Squadrons of Horse, detached from hence, under the Command of the Count de Noyelles, who are to march on the other side of the River, and as soon as the Bridge or Communication over the Mase is ready, 5 Battalions more will be sent to join them. On the 15th the main Army will advance nearer to Huy, and that Place will be invested on both sides of the River; His Grace the Duke of Marlborough intends to command the Siege. The Enemy's head Quarter is still at Heylsen, from whence the Marshal de Villar went yesterday to Huy, to view the Fortifications of that Place, and to give the necessary Orders for its Defence; The Garison is said to consist of 3 French Battalions, under the command of Monsieur Millem, who was Governor of the Chartreuse at Liege when that Place was taken the last year by the Considerate Forces.

Hague, August 14. N. S. The Preparations are continued with all diligence for the Siege of Huy, and we reckon that the Batteries will be ready to play upon the Castle of that Place by the 17th or 18th Instant. The Baron of Likeroot, Ambassador Extraordinary from the King of Sweden, leaves this Place to morrow, in order to return to Stockholm. Our last Advices from Germany confirm the Elector of Bavaria's being retired out of Tirol; and we hope by our next to hear that the Duke de Vendosme, who was entered into that Country with a strong Body of Forces by the way of Monte-Balao, is, upon notice of the Elector of Bavaria's Retreat, marched back likewise into Italy. Some Jews of this Place have Letters from Spain which say, that there is an Insurrection in Catalonia.

Dublin, August 4. We have received an Account of the Arrival of 35 Sail of Ships from Jamaica on the 30th of the last Month in Crook Haven, under the Convooy of three of Her Majesty's Ships.

Plymouth, August 3. Rear-Admiral Dilker arrived here yesterday with the Squadron of Her Majesty's Ships under his Command, and the French Prizes which he lately took on the Coast of Normandy. A Fleet of about 40 homeward bound Merchant Ships and Tin Ships came in here yesterday from Falmouth, under Convooy of two of Her Majesty's Ships, and having been joined here by another of Her Majesty's Ships, and several Merchant Ships more, sailed again this day to the Eastward.

Windsor, August 4. Signior Palavocini, Envoy Extraordinary from the Republick of Genoa, had Audience this day of Her Majesty, to which he was conducted in the usual manner, by Charles Correll Esq; Assistant Master of the Ceremonies. After which he had Audience of His Royal Highness, being also introduced by the Assistant Master of the Ceremonies.
