Paris, Jan. 25. The Imperial Forces commanded by the Duke of Saxe-Weimar have lately extended their Quarters in the Breche towards St. Antonio, Conchiglia, and Ponte di Meha, and take the necessary Dispositions for entering upon Action, as soon as their Reinforcements are arrived from Germany. The Grand Prior, with the French Army under his Command, continues to observe their Motions; and has given Orders for the more closely Blocking up of the Imperial Garrison at Mirandola. They write from the Milanese, That the Town of Veruc does still make a vigorous Defence; and that the Duke of Vendosme, having lost a considerable number of Men in that Siege, has been obliged to drain the neighbouring Garrisons to reinforce his Army.

Dingle, Jan. 24. Last night the Hope Galley, of Bristol, Burthen 150 Tuns, arrived here from Leghorn, being laden with Wine, Oyl and Fruit, and homeward-bound.

Castle-Town, Jan. 24. This morning arrived here Her Majesty's Ship the Gosport, Captain Thomas Smith Commander, from New-England, but last from Lisbon; as also the Litchfield Prize, Captain Peter Chamberlayn Commander, from Newfoundland, but last from Lisbon.

Kingsale, Jan. 26. Yesterday arrived Her Majesty's Ships the Woolwich and Milford from Lisbon; on board which came Major-General Harvey, and several other Officers: On the 17th Instant, as they came out of the River of Lisbon, some Ships of Sir John Leake's Squadron were going in, and the rest were daily expected from Lagos-Bay. Under Convoy of the Woolwich and Milford came the Elizabeth and Katherine of London, James Heily Master, from Leghorn, laden with Wine, Fruit and Soap; the Anne and Lancelot of Ramsgate, James Taddy Master, with Wine, Oyl and Fruit, and the Vina Merchant of London, Burthen 150 Tuns, Richard Mogher Master, with Wine and Fruit, both bound home from Viana; the Marienbourg of Flushing, of 160 Tuns, Peter Jencho Master, from Genoua, with Oil and Fruit, homeward-bound; the Phoenix Galley of Topsham, William Spring Master, from Lisbon, laden with Fruit, Wine, and Oil, bound for Plymouth; the Mary Pink of London, Thomas Lewis Master, from Nevis, with Sugar; and the Speedwell Brigantine of London, Benjamin Smith Master, from Nevis, laden with Sugar; both homeward-bound.
