

extended by section 1 of the Naval Forces (Enforcement of Maintenance Liabilities) Act, 1947, replaces an Order in Council of the 19th December, 1947. It authorises the Admiralty to make deductions from the pay of an officer, seaman, or marine to provide for the maintenance of his wife or child if an order for their maintenance has been made against him, or if no order has been made but the Admiralty are satisfied that he has neglected to maintain them.

The Order gives wider powers in two respects than were given by the previous Order so that the Admiralty will have similar powers of making deductions for maintenance to those exercisable by the Army Council and Air Council under the Army Act, 1955, and the Air Force Act, 1955. First, deductions may be made additional to those ordered by a court, when the sums ordered are insufficient and, because the officer, seaman or marine cannot be served with proceedings, the order cannot be varied. Second, deductions may be made for the maintenance of a child between 16 and 21 who is engaged on a course of education or training.
