Published by Authority.

From Monday, November 29. to Thursday, December 2. 1669.

Milford, Nov. 24.

Here are lately put in here by Contrary Winds the Jeremy of Bristol intended for Bilboasthe St. Ann of Burdeaux bound for Chester, and the Fricadship of London from Malaga laden with Wines and Fruit homewards bound.

Yarmouth, Novemb. 29. On Saturday last sailed hence eight Merchant Ships bound for the Streights, ten or twelve more lie ready to follow, and may put out to Sea with the first fair Wind.

Madrid, Nov 11. The Queen is well recovered of her distemper, and the King confirmed in his health, giving daily proofs of his capacity and inclination to Martial affairs, and not long since an eminent proof of his good nature, when in his sports a quarrel happening with the young Marquis de Morsara, the King struck him, which the Marquis not bearing, returned, and a scuffle arose between them, but being parted, the young Marquis was taken out of his company; the next morning the King enquired after him, and being told, the Queen had forbidden him to come into his presence, the young King replied they did him wrong, and that he had been a coward if he had endured a box on the ear, and refused that day to dine till he was brought to him, who begging his pardon on his knees, the King told him he freely gave it him, and since he was now better acquainted with him then formerly, he should love him better then ever he did before.

The Marquis de la Fuente is upon recovery, and is believed may in few days be in readiness for his Ambassy to the Court of France.

The Duke de Terra Nuova having a quarrel with a Gentleman of Piedmont, caused his people to hamstring his Horses, which the Gentleman revenged upon the Dukes Mules, but being too weak to make good his party against the Duke, retired himself to the Count de la Puerta's house, whither the Duke pursued him, but the Queen being presently informed thereof, caused the Gentleman to be secured, and confined the Duke to one of his Houses.

Cádiz, Nov. 13. Yesterday went hence the Hambourgh Convoy on their return homewards, consisting of about 26 Merchant ships, with some other vessels intending for Amsterdam.

Our Fleet is not yet arrived from the Indies, nor is it now expected before the end of December.

Letters of the 2d instant from Tangier informs us, that his Excellency the Lord Howard is yet there, expecting the return of the Mary-Rose with a Siguro or safe Conduct from Muly Wshed, otherwise called Zaffares, Emperour of Morocco, who has ordered Provisions to be made for the said Ambassadors entertainment at Sally; his daily allowance to be 50 Sheep, 4 Oxen, 100 Fowls, with a proportion of Flower, Oyl, Honey, and other conveniencies.

Letters of the 18th past from Sally tell us, that notwithstanding the promises of the Governour of that place, his men of war have continued to make their advantages at sea, and had brought in there 4 small Newfoundland vessels, 1. with Pilchards, and one small vessel of Bristol; and from Tyshan, that the 4th instant, four Brigantines of Argier were in that Port, and that one of them had brought in with him a small ship from Newfoundland laden with Fish.

Rome, Nov. 16. The Pope is somewhat recovered from his great distemper, but still oppressed with Melancholly.

Inasmuch as his Relations still doubt that he will not long continue amongst them.

From Spain we are told that the Queen Regent still continues her inclination to favour her ancient consort Father Nibhard, and may in probability confer on him her Nomination for a vacant Cap.

'Tis believed His Holiness will speedily proceed to a promotion, in the which, Monseignor Pallavicini, and Aquino may have their shares, the former of which is Treated with extraordinary kindness by the Pope, in respect of the Marriage concluded on between his Nephew and the said Pallavicini's Niece, whose arrival is suddenly expected at Castle Gondolfo, where there is to be entertained till fitting preparations can be made for the solemnity of that marriage.

Bath Camillo Rospigliosi has some intentions of resigning the Charge of General for the Church, to his son upon this Marriage, to whom Don Vincenzo may upon his promotion to a vacant Cap, give up also his Command of General of the Gillies; both of these Charges being consiſtate, and to be held with his Government of the Castle St Angelo of which he is already possesſt.

Vienna, Novemb. 30. As yet the Necessity of Affairs has not obliged the Emperour to come to any Resolution either about the Retires of the Army, or the Change of the Great Officers and Commanders.

On Sunday last His Imperial Majesty received from Poland the News of the Conclusion of the Treaty of Marriage between the King and the Princess Eleonor his eldest Sister, to the great satisfaction of this Court. As soon as the Empress Eleonor's Birth-day is past, which is to be observed with extraordinary signes of Joy, the said Princess Eleonor is to be Treated as a Queen, and to have a Table allowed her accordingly.

The same Letters affirm, That either the Prince Radzevil or Prince Ladomirski, will be speedily dispatched hither with the Character of an Ambassador Extraordinary, upon the account of the said Marriage.

From Hungary we are advised, That the Bassa of Newhausel has with a Guard of about 500 Horse visited the Country round about thins, and taken a view also of Leopoldstat.

The Vicer of Buda has been lately in Conference with him for some days at Newhausel; 'tis more then suspected that they intend to form an Army, with a design to oblige the Country to give Obedience to the Grand Seignior. His apprehension has occasion'd the Assembly of the Estates of the Upper Hungary to put themselves into a posture of defence, and for their encouragement several Regiments are ordered to take up their Winter Quarters in the Lower Assiria, and other places bordering upon Hungary, to be in readiness to March upon the first orders.

Genoa, Nov. 20. Yesterday was conducted hither by one of our Gallies from Arcyados Town about 15 miles distant from this City, a large new ship, which is to carry 50 Guns, to be Commanded by Seignior Vivand.

This morning the Council is met to make choice of a General to Command six of the Gallies belonging to this Republick which are to be shippl'd for the transport of Segnora Donna Maria Camilla Pallavicina to Rome, for the consummation of her Marriage with the Popes Nephew; the Senate having ordered a Gentleman to attend her and to Compliment her in their name upon the conclusion of that Treaty.

From Turin we are advised that the Duke of Savoy being restored to his health, hath appeared in publick to the great satisfaction of the people, and intends for the confirmation thereof, to go thence to Venaria to recreate himself with the diversions of that place.

Hambourg, Nov. 22. Some days since the Swedish Courier was, with several others in his company, let upon on his way hither by some persons who intended to have robbed them, but found so stout a resistance, that they lost their Design, leaving one of their number dead behind them; but the Courier with a Marchant of his Company died of the wounds received from them. The 18th Instant were brought in here seven Thieves taken by the Country People, and suspected to be the Persons that set upon the Swedes Courier.

From Elzenour we have Advice of many Shipwracks occasioned by the late Tempests; and, on the 15th Instant the waters so much overflowed the Banks, that it filled the Cellars of several Marchants to their extraordinary damage.

Letters of the 15th of November from Warsaw inform us, That Olezark, a Provincial Judge of Kiovie, being dissatisfied that the Nobles of that Province were not admitted to an equal share of the Vacant Governments, in Recompence of their losses in Ukrania, had by his absence and Prostration put an end to the Diet at Cracovia, to which 'tis feared he was encouraged by several Discontented persons, whose endeavours have but too visibly discovered to aime at the Disturbance of the Peace of that Kingdom.

They farther tell us, That the Generalis of the S nation and Nobles seem infinitely pleased with the Proposal of a Marriage between their King and the Emperours Sister; and, 'tis said, That an Honourable Embassy will be in little time sent from Poand to the Emperours Court at Vienna, for the Concluding of that Great Affair.

Venice, Nov. 23. The Count di Portia who commanded a Regiment of German soldiers sent by His Imperial Majesty to the assistance of this Republick, having been convoyed by the Procurator General Bernardi as far as Zante, met there with the news of the surrender of Candia, and the peace concluded with the Ottoman Emperour, upon which, the whole Convoy returned back to Corsu, and from thence put again to sea for this place in company with two other ships bound for Ancona, having on board them 200 soldiers, which had been put on shoar in the said Island of Corsu by Signior Baly Vincenzo Resignt of the Popes General of the Gallies; but having put out to sea, they met with so furious a storm, that most of the ships were cast away with all their men; that ship whereon was embarked the Count di Portia, being for three days and nights tossed at sea with much damage to the ship; the seamen being forced to leave her to the mercy of the winds, and is now with much difficulty put into this Port; since which, the Count has had thoughts of filling up his Regiment, but waves it in this place, that so he may not give the Turks the least occasion of any jealousy.

From Dalmatia we are informed, that the peace has been there solemnly published by the Turks in all parts of their Dominions, so that we doubt not of its Ratification, which yet we cannot expect to hear of, before the Reception and Audience of Signior Luigi Molino our Ambassador extraordinary to the Ottoman Port.

Signior Antonio Barbaro has made all necessary preparations for his voyage into Dalmatia, where he is to succeed in the Charge of Procurator General; this week he attended the Colledge to receive his Dispatches and Moneys, but these being not yet furnished, his journey is for while deferred.

On Monday last was launched from the Arsenal a lusty Gally, the General of Dalmatia, excellently Carved and Equipp'd, and the next morning the States Standard was advanced on her with much Ceremony; with the beating of Drums and sound of Trumpets, and the firing of all her Canon.

Several Noble Greeks have lately presented a Memorial to the Duke, representing to him the present great Necessities both of themselves and some numbers of their Country-men; who since the surrender of Candia despatch of a return into that Island; to the enjoyment of their Estates which lie under the Turkish Dominions; humbly praying, that some allowance may be made; or some employment given to them for their support, but as yet no answer has been returned.

We were here for some time in much doubt; whether upon the peace made with the Turks, any farther progress would have been made in the title of Estates belonging to the lately suppressed Religious Houses; the cause of their Sequestration being now over; but to the general satisfaction of all men; that point is cleared, the Popes Nuncio on Tuesday last commencing the Officers appointed for the receiving the Moneys arising from those sales.

Paris, Dec. 4. The Bishop of Effiers has not yet received his instructions in Order to his Embassy to the Court of Spain; his voyage thither being supposed to be deferred till first we have news of the arrival and reception of Monsieur de Gourville, the Prince de Conde's Envoye to that Court.

To morrow the Turkish Envoye is to be received with extraordinary splendor by His Majesty at St Germain's in the great Gallery of the Old Castle, which is to be furnished with the best and richest Hangings; a stately Throne to be erected at the end of it, whereon His Majesty intends to appear in an Habit extraordinarily rich and covered with Jewels; His guard of Musqueteers being also ordered to attend in their best equipage for the greater lustre of that Ceremony.

We now begin to apprehend lest the inclination of the Empire proving but little favourable to the Interest of this Kingdom, may oblige us to close with the Grand Signior in the Treaty so fairly offered to us.

Our late advices from the West Indies inform us of a terrible Hurricane near St Christo;hers; by which 25 of our Merchant ships and others have been cast away, and a great part of the Island much ruined; this news is reported with so much confidence, that some of our Merchants are already getting into their hands all the Commodities they can meet with of the growth of that place, to make their best advantages for this misfortune.

Hague, Decemb. 6. The States are not yet come to a Resolution about their Impositions upon the French Merchandises and Manufactures: but seem now resolved about their Recruitment of the Old Militia; and the Levies of New Forces, having projected the increase of their Forces to the number of above 63 thousand Foot, and between 5 and 6000 Horse. Most of the Provinces have Ratify'd the late Treaty made with Portugal, and expect the like Ratification from the Prince Regent of that Crown.

Deale, Novemb. 20. The 27th Instant failed to the Westward; a Fleet of about 20 Merchant Ships.

The 29th a Hambourg-Hoy of 60 Tuns laden with Oats and some Lead, and Deale, came on ground between Deale and Sandwich, and is since broken up.
