Whitehall, November 2.

Letters from Valentia of the 5th of the last Month, N. S. contain the following Account of the last Campaign in Spain:

The 24th of June, N. S. the City of Madrid submitted to King Charles III. upon the Approach of the Confederate Army commanded by the Marquis das Minas and the Earl of Galway. Several Expresses and divers Parties of Horse were immediately dispatched to the King of Spain, some by the way of Valentia, others by Arragon, to hasten his coming to his Capital City, with as many Troops as he could; for the Enemy's Army which had been employed in the Siege of Barcelona marching with great Diligence thro' Navarre to get back to Castile, and the Body commanded by the Conde de las Torrès having joined the Duke of Berwick, as the rest of their Troops which were in the several Provinces had likewise done, it was necessary we should also draw all our Forces together, to preserve our Superiority, or at least to prevent the Enemy's outnumbering us. His Catholick Majesty being Proclaimed at Madrid, many considerable Towns followed this Example, and declared for him.

In the mean time the Duke of Anjou was got to Ariençz, within 20 Leagues of Madrid, and at the Entrance of the Mountains of Old Castile, where he had 5000 Horse and 16 Battalions of Foot.

The Spaniards then began to shew their Uneasiness, having no certain Account of the King's March, nor of any Troops coming to reinforce us: And the King's long Absence gave Occasion to several Reports, which cooled the Affection of some, and disheartened others of the Spaniards; and some Priests at Madrid and Toledo confidently asserted in publick, that King Charles was dead, and that they had seen him embalmed, whereupon several Officers among the Spanish Troops, who had promised to declare for his Catholick Majesty, fell off from their Word, believing this Report to be true: And upon Advices that the French Troops were got into Navarre, many of the Inhabitants of Arealvas, where Don Francisco Ronquillo, President of Castile, has his Seat, were induced to take up Arms, and, by their Example, those of Segovia proclaimed the Duke of Anjou a second time, and those of Toledo, Ciudad-Real, and of the District of Mancha, did the like; as did also those of Salamanca, and the neighbouring Country, whereby our Communication with Portugal was cut off; these People believing that the Confederates would soon be obliged to retire by a superior Force.

However, these being chiefly the Effects of disorderly Tumults, raised by the Rabble, the most considerable among the Spaniards being satisfied that the Reports of the King's Death were false, and still giving us Assurances of their Loyalty to him, we did not doubt but his Presence would restore all. The News being brought that his Majesty was come to Saragossa, and it being apprehended that the Ceremonies of his being Proclaimed and Sworn should detain him too long, Quartermaster-General Bourguet was dispatched to him with a strong Party of Horse, to make a Representation to his Majesty of the present Posture of Affairs, and to know certainly what Measures he intended to take.

Our Generals receiving no Answer, and being informed that the French Troops increased about Ariençz, that the People in our Neighbourhood began openly to manifest their Dispositions for the Duke of Anjou, and that Riots and Disorders happened daily in Madrid and Toledo, thought of securing some Post whereby they might preserve their Communication with Portugal, and where the King with his Troops might join us. Toledo was judged the most proper for that purpose; and it was resolved that a strong Detachment should immediately be sent thither, (under pretence of punishing the Inhabitants for their Rebellion) to erect a Magazine, and secure our heavy Bagage in that Place; and that the remainder of the Army should keep the Field, to observe the Enemy, and should retire to Toledo when there should be occasion. This Detachment consisting of 2000 Foot and 500 Horse, under the Command of the General of the Artillery, was ready to march the 25th of July, when Letters came from the King of Spain, with Advice, That he was leaving Saragossa, and would be at Molina the 28th; but that being obliged to pass within 13 Leagues of the Enemy, he desired we would cover his March: That the Earl of Peterborow was to join him; and that the Troops were coming up with all possible Diligence. Upon these Letters, the Design of retiring to Toledo was laid aside, and it was resolved that we should advance towards the Enemy, whose main Body then lay at Xarague, in order to amuse them in such manner, that they might not lead any Detachment to intercept the King. We accordingly marched towards them; the Ground was so fast that there was no possibility of coming to a general Engagement. We cannonaded one another, and kept skirmishing during 3 Days, when, observing that the Enemy's Troops were continually augmenting, it was resolved to return to the got past all Danger. This Post was judged the most proper for favouring the March of the Troops that were to join us, and for avoiding a Battle, if we thought fit, till they came up.

On the first of August, the Enemy following us, the two Armies were in fight of each other. We encamped near the Town, with a River between us and the Enemy, as the best Station to secure our Junction, and give Countenance to our Friends at Madrid.

Upon the News that all the Enemy's Troops were joined, and that they were marching towards us with a superior Force, the Duke of Anjou's Party in Madrid appeared barefaced, and took up Arms against King Charles's Friends; and the 5th a Detachment of the Enemy's Horse entered into the Place: However the Chief among the Spaniards were still in Suspence, expecting our joining, and the Issue of this whole Matter.

At length the King arrived in our Camp the 8th, with his Troop of Guards, two Regiments of Horse, and 3 Battalions, two of them Dutch, and the third Italian. The Lord Raby's Regiment of Dragoons, part of Pierce's, a Spaniard and a German Battalion, arrived five Days after. Then a Council of War was held, and it was judged impracticable to attack the Enemy, considering they were advantageously posted, and much superior both in Horse and Foot, for they outnumber'd us by 25 Squadrons and 13 Battalions, and their Squadrons were stronger and in a better Condition than ours.

The Earl of Peterborow, who came up with the King, returned towards the Fleet: And we having continued thus several Days within Cannon-shot of the Enemy, and our Forage and Provisions being spent, it was resolved to march to Chincon and Colmenar, to maintain those Posts as long as we could, and improve all Opportunities Fortune would favour us withal. We arrived there in two Days March; and notwithstanding the Enemy did gain some small Advantages over our Parties and Convoys, we continued near 4 Month in that Camp, and had Plenty enough.

It was then thought convenient, before the rainy Season came, to march towards the Frontiers of Valentia, and dispose our Quarters in such manner as that we might protect Aragon, Valentia, and Catalonia, secure an Entrance into Castile, and preserve our Communication with the Sea-Coast.

Though the Enemy boasted that they would prevent us, and that the Inhabitants of almost the whole Kingdom of Castile had openly declared, and were in Arms against us, yet in spite of all Opposition we accomplished our Design. We decamped from Chincon the 15th, and passed the Tagus at Fuente-Duenas, without any Interruption from the Enemy, who cross'd the River 4 Leagues below that Place. The 17th Lieut. Gen. Wyndham joined the Army at Véles, with 3 English Battalions and the Earl of Peterborow's Regiment of Horse, and brought us 4 Days Provision of Bread and Bisket he had got together from the neighbouring Country.

The Enemy marched at some distance with their whole Army, having a good Body of Horse always nearest to observe us, but never thought fit to engage, or give us any Disturbance: Only the 25th the Duke of Berwick, having drawn all his Forces together, and marched all Night, cross'd the Xucar, making shew as if he intended to have attack'd us in a large Plain through which we were to pass to get to the River Xabriel, and to our Provisions which were laid up at Requena. He advanced with such Diligence, that his Vanguard appeared in the Plain at the same time with us; but our Army marched in so good Order, and with so much Resolution, that he had no prospect of engaging us with any Advantage; and some Squadrons of his Troops that offered to attack us, met with so warm a Reception, that they were soon obliged to retire in great Disorder: However he followed us as far as the little River Imilta, where our Army was formed; and the Enemy had then a fair Opportunity of coming to a decisive Battle: But when they had well viewed the Countenance and Disposition of our Troops, they did not think fit to make any Attempt, and we continued our March unmolested. Here this Justice must be done to all our Forces, both Officers and private Men, and, together with the other Confederates, to the Portuguese, that they have all along shewn great Courage and Readiness to do whatever has been desired of them, whereby we have supported our selves beyond indeed what could be expected in the Difficulties we lay under in this barren Country; which it must be confessed is in a great measure owing to the prudent Conduct of the Marquis das Minas and the Earl of Galway.

We continued our March the same Evening, and gained the Banks of the River Xabriel; and our whole Army is since come to the intended Quarters along the Frontiers of Valentia and Murcia. A Detachment of the King of Spain's own Troops is sent to Arragon. We have put Garrisons into Requena, Requena, and Coñentes: whereby we have preserved an Entrance into Castile, and our Troops are disposed in such manner, that they will be able to protect those Countreys which have submitted to King Charles; and if we are assisted with side, whereby the Enemy may be obliged to weaken their Army, by making Detachments, we have Reason to hope for a happy and speedy Conclusion of the War on this side.

From Prince Eugene's Camp near Alexandria, Octob. 22. N. S. The 13th Instant we came before Tortona; and the Prince of Darmstadt was sent with our Horse to invest Alexandria. We received an Account, That General Zumunggen had taken the Town and Castle of Arona. The 15th the City of Tortona surrendered to us; and the Garrison retiring into the Castle, we left a Detachment to besiege it, and marched towards Alexandria. The 16th we passed the Bormia. The 17th we came within 400 Paces of Alexandria, and formed the Siege of that Place. The 20th Count Martigni was sent with a Detachment to take Saravella, who has since made himself Master of the Town; but the Enemy are still in possession of the Castle, which however it is believed they cannot keep long. The 21st the Garrison of Alexandria bear a Parley, and the Capitulation was agreed upon, by which two French Squadrons that were in the Town were allowed to march out leaving their Horses behind them, and the rest of the Garrison, being all Spaniards or Swiss, remained Prisoners of War. The Duke of Savoy, with the Forces under his Command, continues before Pavighione: The Garrison of that Place has desired a Capitulation; but his Royal Highness insists upon making them Prisoners of War. We have Advice, That the Duke of Orleans is making Preparations in order to return into Piedmont; but the necessary Dispositions are made to prevent him.

Berlin, November 2. This Morning arrived here the Sieur Spiegel, Gentleman of the Chamber to the King of Poland, with Advice, That on the 29th past his Majesty defeated General Mardeveldt, who was posted with 7 Regiments of Swedish Horse and 3 of Foot near Kalisch in Great Poland. The King of Poland's Army consisted of 5000 Saxons, 6000 Poles, and 9000 Muscovites. General Mardeveldt was taken Prisoner, and the Fight is said to have been very bloody; for the Poles and Muscovites gave no Quarter. The Sieur Spiegel further reports, That the Palatine of Kiow, coming to join Monsieur Mardeveldt with 6000 Poles, was likewise defeated.

Brussels, October 31. The 27th Instant my Lord Duke of Marlborough, attended by Mr. Stepney, Her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary, and several General Officers, came hither from the Camp at Ghieslinghien. His Grace was met at some distance from the Town by General Churchill, Count Zinzendorf, and other Persons of Quality, with whom his Grace, at the repeated Request of the Magistrates, made his Entry on Horseback: At the Anderlech-Port his Grace was received by the Burgomaster and Magistrates, who there presented him the Keys of Honour, and made him a very handsome Speech, expressing their Gratitude to Her Majesty of Great Britain and the English Nation, and to his Grace, the Glorious Instrument of their Deliverance. The Streets through which his Grace passed were filled with a great Concourse of Nobility and Gentry, and lined with the Burghers under Arms. The People made loud Acclamations, and gave all other Demonstrations of Joy; the Cannon in the mean time firing from the Ramparts; and the same Honours were paid to his Grace as were formerly to the Dukes of Burgundy. His Grace alighted at the Palace of Orange, where he was complimented by the Council of State, the States of Brabant, and the Chief of the Clergy. The 28th in the Morning the Magistrates waited on his Grace again in a Body, and presented him with what they call the Wine of Honour, which was brought in a Tun gilded and painted with his Grace's Arms, upon a Carriage, with Streamers, drawn by Six Horses, preceded by Trumpets and Kettle-Drums, and attended by a Cavalcade of young Students on Horseback, finely Cloathed, with Devices in their Hands in Honour of his Grace, and representing the great Actions of this Campaign. This Day his Grace set out from hence, on his Return to the Army, having, during his Stay here, received all possible Marks of Honour and Respect from the whole City.

From the Duke of Marlborough's Camp at Ghieslinghien, Nov. 4. The 31st past the Duke of Marlborough returned hither from Brussels. Yesterday Morning his Grace ordered 4 Scotch Battalions, and 6 of the Danish Troops, to march towards Courtray, where they are to continue for some Days, till the Fortifications of that Town are finished, and then to march to Bruges, the Place appointed for their Winter Quarters. His Grace sets out to morrow for the Hague, and the next day the Army will march to St. Quintin's Lennick, in order to separate the 6th, and march to their respective Winter Quarters. The greatest part of the Troops will be in the Frontier Garisons, from whence they may be drawn together in 24 Hours, if there should be occasion, except the Troops of Prussia that are to have their Quarters between the Maese and the Rhine.

Hague, Nov. 9. N. S. The Duke of Marlborough arrived last Night at Rotterdam, having left Antwerp the day before, and taken his Passage on Board one of the Yachts belonging to the Admiralty of the Maese; and this morning his Grace arrived here, being attended by Mr. Stepney Her Majesty of Great Britain's Envoy Extraordinary, and Count Zinzendorf. The Convoy which is to attend his Grace in his Passage to England arrived from thence at Helvoet-Sluis the 3d Instant. The Troops on both sides in the Netherlands are marching into Winter Quarters. Monsieur Assenberg, who was formerly Admiral of the Danube, is appointed by the States General to be Governor of the Cape of Good-Hope; and Monsieur Gruyter to be Governor of Surinam; the present Governors being recalled. The Envoy of Poland received Letters yesterday from Berlin, giving an Account, That an Express had passed by that Place, who was sent by the King of Poland to the Queen, with the News of his having given a total Defeat to a Body of Swedes and another of Poles near Kalisch in Great Poland.

Edinburgh, Octob. 25. On Wednesday the 23d Instant the Rabble assembled in a riotous manner in the Parliament Close while the Parliament was sitting; but by the Care of the Magistrates the Tumult was suppressed, and several of the Ringleaders were seized, and committed to Prison. The Privy Council met upon this Occasion, and Guards were posted in several Parts of the City to prevent any further Disorder. The next Day a Proclamation was issued against Tumults. This Day the Lord Chancellor having laid this Matter before the Parliament, it was resolved, That the Privy Council should have the Thanks of the House for their Care towards the Safety and Quiet of the Parliament, and that the House should recommend to my Lord High Commissioner and the Privy Council to continue their Care thereof: And such Methods are taken for that purpose, as (it is hoped) will effectually secure the publick Peace of this City against any further Attempts of this nature.

Bristol, Octob. 30. On the 28th Instant came in here the Hanibal of this Port, 1.ott Nickins Commander, from Jamaica, having been 10 Weeks in her Passage. She sailed from thence in Company of 4 Ships, belonging to London, viz. the Neprune, Richard and James, Sarah, and Charles. Commadore Kerr, with the Squadron of Her Majesty's Ships under his Command, arrived at Jamaica about a fortnight before they came away, and in a few Days after sailed towards the Main with Admiral Whetstone. On the 28th of the last Month they met in the Latitude of 34 Degrees and 53 Minutes, about 100 Leagues without the Capes of Virginia, several Ships belonging to a Fleet of 200 Sail, that came out of Virginia, under Convoy of 4 Men of War, but lost Company of the said Fleet in the Night. They met some Days after with more Ships of the same Fleet.
