Leng, Offisher 1. N.S. The Enemy, in order to recover a Codic of their Arms in these Parts, and turn to Advantine Superiority they have over us in the Number of a loops, immediately after their Repulse before Denia, wird upon the Siege of Alcoy. They attack'd the Place that great deal of Vigour, and reduced it to such Extremity that the Garison capitulated for a Cessation of Arms, same themselves to surrender the Cassel into the Enemy's the first Four Days from the Capitulation, in case it was after Four Days from the Capitulation, in case it was a second within that time. The Place being of very same consequence to the Allies, and absolutely necessary for same all the Country that extends it self to Denia on one And a dicart on the other, it was resolved in a Council of the condeavour the Relief of it. Accordingly to Men, and so Mules loaden with Ammunition for the faith. He was a board of the next Day by a Boards. iff be carrier from march'd from nence with a Detachment of the Men, and 50 Mules loaden with Ammunition for the affa. He was to have been join'd the next Day by a Bojodi'Alfory plain. He was to have been join'd the next Day by a Bojodi'Alfory plain. Body having been put to the Rout and difpers'd the American of their rendezvous, he found them reduc'd to 400, with a fame fam and body having been put to the Rout and difpers'd the American of Provision and Ammunition from this Place. The fame is a many were almost twice our Number, (having a Body of the fame time were possess'd of all the advantagious regular Foot, 400 regular Horse, and 400 Miquelets) at the same time were possess'd of all the advantagious results are time were possess'd of all the advantagious results are the fame time were possess'd of all the Relief of the set, and marching forward to attack them, they immerically abandon'd all their itrong Posts and Passes, and remote the Town with the utemost Precipitation. It is standard a Succour into the Place, marched with his second to the place of several of the set of the second to the provide the Succour into the Place, but forting with a strong Tower, that was the Refuge of several out as and Robbers, who very much annoy'd our Foot when they march'd that way. He blew it up, and levell'd it with the Ground. Within a League of that Place he defroy'd a Magazine of the Enemy, where they had laid together above 10000 Quarters of Barly for the Supply of their Cavalry in those Parts. In his Return he took Xicona, and from thence march'd directly to Alicant, where he arriv'd at the Head of his Detachment, that had suffer'd no manner of Loss in this Expedition. A Body of the Enemy follow'd them at a distance during their whole March back to Alicant; but did not think fit to give them any Disturbance. The French give out, that their Army before Lerida, under the Command of the Duke of Orleans, will consist of 70 Battalions and 80 Squadrons: But we hope the Troops from Italy may arrive soon enough for the Succour of that Place; and that the French will not be more successful in that Siege than they have been in others of this Country. Siege than they have been in others of this Country.

From on Board the Royal-Oak at Kirsale, Offober 12. On the 10th Instant, 26 Leagues off the Deadman, Commadore Edwards in the Cumberland, with the Devonshire, Chester, Ruby, and Royal-Oak, discover'd Fourteen French Sail, Five Edwards in the Cumberland, with the Devonshire, Chefter, Ruby, and Royal-Oak, discover'd Fourteen French Sail, Five between 60 and 70 Guns, Five of 50, and Four small Ships. The Commadore made a Signal for the Line a-breast, franding under a pair of Top-fails, the Enemy bearing down upon us at 12 at Noon. The Commadore of the French, after having pass'd the Chefter, and receiv'd her Broad-lide, without returning so much as a Musquer, made directly to our Commadore. As soon as they were a-breast, they both benan to fire, as did several other of the Enemy's Ships, and engag'd the Chefter and Ruby. At the same time a Ship of 70 Guns came along our Starboard-Quarter, endeavouring to board us. We began to fire; but finding the Enemy would not come up a long Side, gave our Ship a Yaw to Starboard upon which his Boltsprit carry'd away our Enign-Staff and Lasthorn. As he pass'd under our Stern, he fir'd a Broad-side into us; but as he shot along our Larboard-Quarter, we return'd it with Double and Round. In firing along our Larboard, we saw he had a Design to board us on the Bow, another Ship of 50 Guns coming up to sustain him. We clapt our Helm hard a-Starboard, and came so near, that our Boltsprit took his Quarter, and carry'd it away with our Head, which brought him to. As he came along by our Starboard-side, since list on the Bow, another Ship of 50 Guns coming up to sustain him while) we gave him again our Broad-side with Double and Round. He immediately took Fire, but it was extinguish'd in 5 Minutes; and after the Smoak was over, we saw him on the Careen. In less than an Hour's time, we saw our Commadore's Fore-mass, Mizen-mass, and Boltsprit, shot away, and a Cluster of 5 or 6 Ships on board each other, without firing on either side. Hercupon our Captain, after a Consult with his Officers, thought fit to endeavour saving the Ship. The Devonshire at the same time bore down upon us, and was soon after follow'd by 7 Sail of the Enemy; upon which we made all the Sail we could. The Devonshire made Ship. The Devonshire at the same time bore down upon us, and was soon after follow'd by 7 Sail of the Enemy; upon which we made all the Sail we could. The Devonshire made Sail with her Larboard-Tacks; and we quartering with our Starboard-Tacks, all the 7 Sail made after the Devonshire, by reason, as is suppos'd, of the Convoy on Head. As long as we could see their Hulls, the Devonshire maintain'd the Fight. We had in this Engagement 12 Men kill'd, 27 dangerously wounded, and the Ship very much endamaged Rinsale, October 21.
