and assaulting a night watchman at a local hotel. On reaching the man's home he was joined by two other constables. They split up, Fitzgerald going to the west side. The Constable saw the criminal running from the back of the house and gave chase after him. The man fired a gun, wounding Constable Fitzgerald in both legs. The only reason the Constable was not killed was due to the fact that the automatic jammed when fired at point blank range. The Constable managed to hold the criminal and succeeded in putting handcuffs on him. Constable Fitzgerald took considerable risk with his life in apprehending this criminal without resorting to the use of firearms.

HONOURS AND AWARDS

CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD

St. James's Palace, London S.W.1.
23rd August 1966.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased, on the advice of Her Majesty's Canadian Ministers, to give orders for the undermentioned awards of the British Empire Medal. (To be dated 20th August 1966.)

Awarded the British Empire Medal for Gallantry (Civil Division):

Thomas McDADE, Jnr., Fireman, Hamilton Fire Department, Ontario.

On arriving at the scene of a fire, Fireman McDade was informed that unsuccessful attempts had been made to rescue a baby from an upstairs bedroom. Without waiting to put on his breathing apparatus he entered the house and proceeded upstairs. The smoke and fumes were so dense that he was forced to crawl from the top of the staircase, across the landing and into the bedroom. McDade could not see through the smoke and had to grope his way around to locate the crib in which the child was lying. He picked the little girl up and carefully groped his way back to the stairs. As he reached the stairs he began to apply mouth to mouth resuscitation and continued to do so until the baby was revived. He then placed the child, who was severely burned about the face, head, shoulders, arms and hands in the Fire Department's emergency truck where the inhalator was used on her as she was driven to the hospital. Fireman McDade not only carried out his duties with a high degree of efficiency but he exposed himself to great degrees of heat, and possibly asphyxiation from the combination of ammonia, cyanide and carbon gases present in the burning bedroom. Had he taken the time to return to the fire truck for his self-contained breathing unit, it might have been too late to save the little girl's life.

John Frederick FITZGERALD, Constable, Ontario Provincial Police.

Constable Fitzgerald, was dispatched to the home of a man suspected of having attempted a robbery
